Hitler Begins 'Ruthless Purge' of Army; Orders 12 to Trial

6,000 TRACTION STRIKERS DEFY ARMY'S ORDERS

Force Shutdown of Lines Again.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 5 [Saturday]—[Special].—In open rebellion against the authority of the army, a vast majority of the 6,000 striking employes of the Philadelphia Transportation company cut such swift inroads into the ranks of returning operators that early this morning the entire public transportation system of the city was in a state of complete paralysis.

The service was brought to a complete standstill when the Market st. subway-elevated line thru the city from east to west, was closed down with the arrival at the 69th st. terminal of the crew of the midnight train. There was no crew available to replace the two going off duty.

The shutdown came at the close of a day of limited operations which began at 5 a. m. on the subway, elevated and a few trolley lines, then dwindled steadily as the hours wore on until finally the Market st. line was closed.

Map Government Action.

The defiance of the strikers, most of whom are members of the CIO Transport Workers' union, drew a swift rejoinder from the army and the department of justice last night when Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, war department representative in charge of the P. T. C. system; Henry A. Schweinhaut, special assistant United States attorney general, and John F. Sears, agent in charge of the Philadelphia office of the federal bureau of investigation, conferred for two hours to draw up a concerted plan of action.

It was learned that, contrary to reports from Washington, attributed to James P. McGranery, assistant to the attorney general, no arrests of the strike leaders were expected at once. On the other hand, it was disclosd by a responsible source that when the "trap is ready to be sprung it will catch all the rats."

Studying Strike Background.

It was believed that the army, the FBI, and the department of justice were ready to intensify an exhaustive investigation of the background of the strike and all of its ramifications, so as to preclude premature cracking down of the law upon the violators allegedly involved in the walkout.

At the conclusion of the conference, Gen. Hayes issued the following statement:

"The entire situation was gone over so that there would be complete coöperation between the army and the department of justice in handling this matter."

The strikers left their jobs last Tuesday when the transportation company upgraded eight Negroes to the status of trolley operators. The Negroes were to have made their practice runs that day.

When the lines were seized by the army Thursday night, the strikers voted to return to work after misinterpreting a statement by Gen. Hayes to mean that Negro operators would be dropped.

Vote to Continue Walkout.

Late yesterday when the misinterpretation was corrected, the executive committee representing the strikers voted to continue the strike.

A hundred or so men and women answered the government's call to end the strike and managed to keep a trickle of subway, elevated, and street cars running. They were openly threatened by the strikers and began quitting their jobs under that pressure.

Army officials said that normally at 5 p. m. there are 77 trains, 1,529 street cars, and 462 buses in operation, but at that hour yesterday only 187 units were operating.

Jeer at Army and Police.

"The army's got to have the police for protection" became the jeer of the day among the strikers, who stood by as squadrons of 50 police officers went to each car barn to protect those who ventured to return to work.

The strikers' executive committee, under the chairmanship of James H. McMenamin, met in the afternoon

New York, Aug. 4 [Special].—A group of 984 refugees from 19 Nazi-occupied European countries, who disembarked here from a United States army transport, tonight entrained for Fort Ontario at Oswego, N. Y., where they will remain until after the war in an emergency shelter.

The men, women, and children, ranging from an infant 3 weeks old to a Polish grandmother of 80, were selected from some 36,000 homeless and countryless persons now jamming allied camps behind the fighting lines in Italy. They are the first such refugees to arrive in this country.

Those chosen represent a cross section of every type of refugee now pouring into Italy. There were Jews, Roman Catholics, Protestants, and those professing the Greek Orthodox faith.

Family Heads Come Too.

Among the group were family heads from 14 countries, of these, 154 had their origins in Austria, 146 in Jugoslavia, 84 in Poland, 61 in Germany, 21 in Czechoslovakia, 14 in Russia, 4 each in Romania, Turkey, and Danzig, three each in Bulgaria and Hungary, two each in Greece and Spain and one in France.

The army transport arrived at a North river pier last night after a three week voyage. Also aboard were American war wounded being brought home.

Thruout today the refugees were subjected to health checks and other routine procedures. Altho a dozen or so were in ill health and many were aged and infirm, all were permitted to make the train trip to the Oswego refugee shelter, which is the first of its kind set up in this country.

Kin Greet Refugees.

There were poignant scenes as the refugees were landed at the pier in Hoboken and prepared for the train trip. A crowd of several hundred persons, kin of the refugees, was held back behind drawn ropes by a cordon of police. They had to content themselves with brief glimpses of their relatives as the new arrivals walked the short distance from the ship to the two special trains waiting to take them to their destination.

Most of the refugees were poorly clad and carried few belongings. The sick and aged, in many cases, were carried in army ambulances the 100 yards between the ship and the trains. But happiness was written on the faces of young and old.

Forty military police were stationed at the scene, along with almost as many WAC MPs. The WACs assisted the women, the aged, and the very young to the trains.

Under the June 9 order of President Roosevelt, the war relocation authority of the department of the interior will assume charge of the refugees when they arrive at the Fort Ontario shelter. Until then the army was in command.

Maybe the Long Shots Had Their Day, Sarge!

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 4 (AP).—The two men Detective Sgt. Clarence Ferguson arrested on bookmaking charges were prepared for today's heat, if not for a police raid. Ferguson said he found them at a telephone switchboard "naked as jaybirds. All they had on were their socks."

THE NOOSE AT THE END OF THE HALYARD

U.S. Swelters in Heat Wave; Crops Periled

Oppressive heat blanketed most of the United States yesterday, setting new records in several large cities and threatening crops in areas where no rain has fallen in more than a month. New York, with a reading of 99, had its hottest day of the year and its hottest Aug. 4 on record. Certain Rocky mountain and Pacific coast areas were the only ones to escape the heat wave.

Chicago, in the fourth day of record heat, escaped a 100 degree high which had been forecast. Rain fell a few hours before the day's peak of 92 degrees was recorded at 4:15 p. m. Showers were scattered thruout the area and altho they were merely dust settlers in most sections, southern Cook and central Will county reported material relief for crops.

Hooded Vulture Collapses.

The intense New York heat caused two subway tie-ups when it expanded rails on a draw bridge and in a switch network, halting traffic. In addition, the Bronx zoo's hooded vulture, Satan, whose native habitat is the Sahara desert, collapsed in his cage, unable to take New York's temperature. He was revived in a cool basement.

Philadelphia's 97 marked its hottest Aug. 4 since 1881. Readings were 94 in Washington, 92 in Boston, and 98 in Detroit. West Virginia's prolonged drouth grew serious. Findlay, O., was hot and has been without rain 41 days. Kentucky reported wide areas suffering from combined heat and drouth.

101 Above in Kansas City.

In the midwest the high temperature was reported at Kansas City. The day's low was 81; the high, 101. It was 84 at Minneapolis and Wisconsin was winding up a week of unusual heat. Indiana's temperatures averaged 9 degrees above normal. Columbus, O., came within a degree of record Aug. 4 heat—96 degrees.

The southwest blistered. Memphis, Tex., reported 117 degrees; Clarendon, Tex., 111; Phoenix, Ariz., 113; Oklahoma City, 101; Fort Worth, Tex., 102, and San Antonio, 99. Oklahoma and Texas temperatures have ranged above 100 for several days. Knoxville, Tenn., is in its driest three months in history.

It's Freezing in Utah.

In the mountain and coast states, it was a different story. Coalville, Utah, started the day with a temperature of 32 degrees—freezing. The day's high in San Francisco was 71.

Nebraska's long heat wave was broken by rains Thursday night and yesterday morning, the mercury dropping to the low sixties in some areas. Iowa's temperatures were a degree below normal as the result of rains. Colorado reported smugly that it was enjoying an unusually cool summer.

In the Chicago area, the heaviest rains were reported along 111th st., in southern Cook county. The shower lasted from 30 minutes to an hour and benefited crops, truck and war gardens, and pastures. The showers moved upon Joliet from the west.

THE TRIBUNE'S experimental farm near Wheaton, DuPage county, reported a 5 minute shower that afforded some relief to growing things. The county farm adviser's office in Arlington Heights called the showers mere dust settlers in the north and northeast sections of Cook county.

Profiteer in Furniture Fined $1,500 by London

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Fines totaling $1,500 were imposed today by a London court on Harry Louis Hitler for offering second hand furniture for sale at an excessive price and for failing to attach price tickets to new furniture before offering it for sale.

DEMOCRAT URGES SUPPORT FOR FISH AS A JEFFERSONIAN

Newburgh, N. Y., Aug. 4 [Special].—Fred Mulholland, chairman of the Newburgh Democratic city committee, today split with the Orange county Democratic organization and announced he would support Rep. Hamilton Fish, Republican, in the congressman's campaign for reëlection in November.

Mulholland said it is absurd for Democrats to support the candidate their party selected for congress in the new 29th district. He is Augustus W. Bennet, a Republican, who was nominated last Tuesday in the Democratic primary but lost to Fish in the Republican primary.

Fish, after being renominated for his 14th term in congress at the Republican primary, revealed yesterday he also would enter his name as an independent Jeffersonian Democrat candidate.

"I shall support Rep. Fish for reelection," Mulholland said in a statement, "and exert any influence I may have with Democratic voters to do likewise as a protest against having a twice repudiated Republican nominated on the Democratic ticket for congress.

"It is a political absurdity for Democrats to support a synthetic Republican like Bennet who twice has failed to carry his own election district. When I am forced to choose between a real Republican and a twice repudiated renegade, I shall openly and aggressively campaign for the reëlection of Hamilton Fish on the new Jeffersonian ticket."

Play of 3 Boys Ends in Weird Death for One

Ward Hibben, 5, and his brother, Thomas, 6, of 1000 Wagner rd., Glenview, grandsons of Charles Ward Seabury, president of the Marsh & McLennon Insurance company, were sitting in the shade in yesterday's sweltering heat trying to keep cool. They wearied of the inactivity. They remembered the trough of cool water from which their father's riding horse drank.

Soon they were splashing water from the trough at each other. Then they gathered up chips and sticks and sailed them as boats. Their shouting and laughter attracted a third boy, Richard Marundee, who lives with them.

Mother Hears Scream.

The trough, fashioned of metal, ordinarily rests upon wooden boxes, but these had rotted and the trough had been moved and placed upon the ground.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hibben, the mother, suddenly realized the laughter and yelling had ceased. Then there was a scream. Mrs. Hibben ran to the door and saw Ward lying across the lower strand of an electric fence encircling the field to keep the horse in. His feet were immersed in the water of the trough. He was motionless.

The other two boys stood near-by.

Then Richard raced to the small building in which the fence control box was located and threw the switch, shutting off the current. Mrs. Hibben ran out to the fence and lifted Ward's unconscious body out of the trough. She took him in her car to a clinic in Glenview, where an inhalator squad attempted to revive him. Finally Ward was pronounced dead by Dr. Theodore Krumm.

Higher Current Substituted.

Investigating the accident, Glenview police learned that the boy's father, Joseph W. Hibben, former assistant manager of the Chicago office of Kidder, Peabody & Co., investment bankers, now on leave with the Chicago quartermaster price adjustment district office at 333 N. Michigan av., had wired the fence to use 110 volt house current instead of the 3 volt battery with which the fence is built to operate.

The fence wire, about 6 inches from the metal trough, thus carried sufficient voltage to produce a fatal shock, particularly if the person touching the wire stood in water, according to Dr. Thomas H. Carter of the coroner's office.

TANKS AND INFANTRY SLASH TOWARD ST. NAZAIRE, NANTES, AND ST. MALO

Dash Out Into New Areas of France; Nazis Retreat.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Map on page 2.)

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug 5 [Saturday].—Battering their way across the Brittany peninsula in mighty columns of tanks and motorized infantry, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's surging doughboys today were less than 35 miles from St. Nazaire, 40 miles from Nantes, and 75 miles from Brest. In all, nine Yank columns were in enemy territory on various sectors of the French front.

[The Vichy radio said today an American armored spearhead was only 18 miles from Nantes.]

Advancing so fast from captured Rennes that they had little time to round up all of the willingly surrendering Germans, four southbound forces had swept up Bain de Bretagne, Chateaubriant, Pipriac, and Mauron in gains of 25 to 40 miles, while two other columns advancing up both sides of the St. Malo estuary were less than seven miles from that north coast port.

The Germans reported other American units had reached a point 60 miles west of Rennes.

Peninsula Almost Cut.

With these charging columns about to cut off the huge peninsula—it is 12 times larger than Normandy—other Yanks guarding their flank streamed to Fougeres, 23 miles southeast of Avranches, and fanned out in a wide arc to Barenton. East of these forces is Paris, 150 miles away.

The Americans here could head for the heart of France or turn northeastward to cut behind the Germans who have been containing British and Canadian forces along the Orne river.

In the British sector, tanks and infantry have reached the railroad station to the southeast of Villers-Bocage. Noyers, to the northeast, is in British hands. The British are also in the outskirts of Evrecy, south of Noyers, and on the north approach of hill 112. The Germans were reported evacuating all of the Villers-Bocage area under cover of strong counter-attacks. The British hold the Bois de Buron, southwest of Aunay, below Villers-Bocage.

Heavy Fighting at Vire.

There was heavy fighting around Vire and St. Pois, to the southwest. The British pulled back out of Vire, it was learned, but now had this road hub virtually surrounded, and had driven the Germans from a strong position beyond the town.

The British control about seven miles of the road from Vire to Conde sur Noireau and have pressed to within 12 miles of the Orne river. Apparently the German line was caving in all the way back to the Vire river.

American forces driving from Villedieu have advanced to within two and a half miles of Vire, eliminating German forces pocketed in the area. They also hold about a third of the St. Sever forest where they captured the chief German ammunition dump in Normandy.

Coast Road May Be Cut.

Bradley's troops were racing thru Brittany so fast that they were at least a day ahead of official reports and may already have cut the last southern coastal road out of Brittany.

The Germans, as a result of the

JAPANESE BEGIN 'FULL RETREAT' IN DUTCH GUINEA

GHQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 5 [Saturday]—(AP).—Japan's 2d army is in "full retreat" from north central Dutch New Guinea—totaling nearly a third of all New Guinea—Gen. MacArthur announced today.

The Japanese were deserting all strongholds along a 700 mile sweep of coastline in the Geelvink bay and upper Vogelkop peninsula areas and apparently were withdrawing to the south and west in the hope of evacuating survivors from western New Guinea.

MacArthur said "the practical effectiveness of the 2d Japanese army, commanded by Gen. [Fusataro] Teshima, which is charged with the defense of Dutch New Guinea, is rapidly approaching an end."

Escape Route Hazardous.

The prospective escape route leads thru forbidding terrain of jungles and mountains. "The natural difficulties of the movement are great," Gen. MacArthur said, "and with the added hazards of our ground, naval, and air activities, his [the enemy's] losses at best cannot fail to be calamitous."

The Japanese were withdrawing from Manokwari, former strongpoint 50 miles west of American held Noemfoor Island, and Nabire, an aerial center 200 miles southeast of the lower reaches of Geelvink bay. Manokwari harbor can accommodate cruisers.

Two flank air bases southward of Manokwari—Moemi and Waren—also were believed being abandoned.

No official estimate of the numbers involved in the retreat has been issued. MacArthur had estimated, however, that 15,000 were trapped in the Manokwari area alone when American forces captured Sansapor, at New Guinea's northwestern tip, last Sunday.

Losses Still "Negligible."

Allied losses in the conquest of New Guinea's northwestern end continue to be "negligible," an official bulletin said. American troops at Sansapor still had made no contact with sizable enemy forces.

A headquarters spokesman, discussing the Aitape fighting, several hundred miles eastward in British New Guinea, said American losses were "extremely light" during an 11 hours' battle precipitated by four Japanese suicide attacks Wednesday. More than 600 Nipponese were buried after the assaults and hundreds more bodies littered the battle area.

FRED A. POOR, 74, DIVORCEE, 37, TO WED HERE TODAY

Fred A. Poor, 74, wealthy head of Poor & Co., railway supplies manufacturer, and Mrs. Martha B. Dalton, 37, a divorcee, yesterday obtained a marriage license in the County building.

Mr. Poor, a widower, said they would be married at 1 p. m., today in the home of her mother, Mrs. Edward C. Buehring, 4927 Dorchester av., and leave immediately on a honeymoon to California. On their return on Aug. 16 they will live at Poor's Hill Top farm in Lake Forest.

Mrs. Dalton was socially prominent in Winnetka as the wife of Harold Jerome Dalton, Chicago attorney, from whom she was recently divorced. The Daltons were married in 1929. She is a former president of the Winnetka Infant Welfare board.

Fuehrer Implicates 23 Officers in Plot to Kill Him.

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP).—Adolf Hitler tonight ordered a "ruthless purge" of the German army as an aftermath of the Junker generals' revolt against his regime. In an opening move Hitler ousted 12 officers and marked them for early trial as "traitors" by the feared People's court, the death dealing Nazi star chamber.

Official announcements broadcast by Berlin named a total of 23 officers as implicated in the revolt, more than half of whom had not been identified previously. They included four lieutenants and a captain—all of aristocratic names—suggesting that the revolt may have gone farther down thru the ranks than previously indicated.

Hitler selected a hand picked, five man "court of honor" composed of his most trusted men at the top of the army to execute the purge.

The Berlin announcement said Hitler is to pass on their decisions, and men purged from the army are to be tried "together with the other traitors" by the People's court instead of by courts martial.

Eight Officers Dead.

Berlin disclosed that eight officers already had died for the plot against Hitler's life, four being listed as "executed" and four as "suicides," and that two officers had "deserted to the Russians."

The 12 men listed as "under arrest," expelled from the army and slated for trial were headed by Field Marshal Erwin von Witzleben, German commander in chief in France until Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt took over in 1942 and later commander in northern Italy. Austrian newspapers reaching London described him as the leader of the revolt and charged that he proclaimed himself German chief of state on the night of the attempt on Hitler's life "after establishing contact with captive German generals in Moscow."

List Four Executed.

Listed as already court martialed and dead are Gen. Friedrich Olbricht, Col. Claus von Stauffenberg, Col. von Quirnheim, and Lt. von Haften.

In addition to Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, former chief of the general staff whose "suicide" previously was announced, these three were said to have taken their own lives: Artillery Gen. Wagner, Col. Freytag-Loringshoven of the general staff, and Lt. Col. Schrader.

Listed as a "deserter" to the Russians was a Maj. Gen. Lindemann, apparently the commander of the 361st German infantry division who was reported by Moscow to have been captured by the Russians on July 23—three days after the attempt on Hitler's life.

Keitel Heads Court.

The 23d man identified in the announcements was Col. Gen. Erich Hoepner, whose expulsion was described as unnecessary on the ground he had not been a member of the army since 1942. He is believed to have been executed.

The new purge-directing "court of honor" is composed of Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command of the armed forces; Field Marshal von Rundstedt, recently removed as commander of the western front; Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, new chief of staff; Gen. of Infantry Schroth, and Lt. Gen. Specht.

Navy to Do Its Duds in Salt Water Suds

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—Development of a new salt water soap was reported today by the navy's bureau of ships which said it will now be possible for the laundries on larger warships to use salt water instead of distilled fresh water as heretofore.

swift American advances, found themselves bottled up in many pockets which were being liquidated as Yank infantry moved up in trucks and afoot behind the thundering tanks and armored forces.

Little resistance was being encountered and prisoners were being taken on all sides. Even war correspondents were returning from the front with three and four Germans in tow. The only fight the Germans have put up so far was in Rennes, where the garrison battled for nearly 24 hours in the streets and the air field before surrendering.

Nazis Readily Give Up.

Reports from the front said that it was a remarkable sight to see German soldiers offering themselves for capture to anybody who would take them. Sometimes the Americans found themselves too busy to bother with prisoners, so that the surrendering Germans virtually passed themselves from one military post to another before finally being taken aboard trucks to prisoner of war inclosures in the rear.

Reports from the front also told of sporadic jousts with the Germans. On one road, they said, tanks might be cleaning up a Nazi position while less than 50 yards away another Yank column would be moving forward without interruption. It was a great contrast they noted to the war in Normandy where the Germans battled bitterly for every yard of ground won by the Americans.

Germans Abandon Equipment.

The enemy was abandoning great amounts of equipment in his confused retreat, and the hour seemed past when Field Marshal Guenther von Kluge might have reënforced Brittany garrisons to put up a real fight for the peninsula and its five ports.

An American officer who flew over the peninsula said Yank trucks were pouring infantry thru the Avranches corridor into Brittany.

In clear skies American bombers roared over the roads of both Brittany and Normandy, raking the Germans with bombs, bullets, and rockets. The 9th air force said 3,562 enemy tanks and other vehicles have been knocked out in the 10 days of the American offensive.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Following is the German Friday war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"Local enemy thrusts in Normandy southwest of Caen were repulsed. Heavy fighting went on the whole day in the Coulvain area without changing the situation to any appreciable extent. Southwest thereof and in the Vire area German panzer formations in a counter-attack succeeded in throwing back the enemy, who had broken in, and re-establishing the front. Fifty enemy tanks were destroyed. A strong enemy group is surrounded and is being concentrically attacked. Northeast and east of Avranches numerous enemy attacks supported by tanks collapsed with heavy losses inflicted on the attackers. In the eastern part of Brittany enemy motorized troops which had broken thru from Avranches toward the south are pushing ahead farther towards the south and the west. At several points in this area they are engaged in fighting with garrisons of German bases. The enemy lost 26 tanks within the last two days.

"One enemy cruiser, three destroyers, two corvettes, as well as five transport ships and one special ship totaling 36,000 tons were sunk by weapons of the German navy and by U-boats in waters off the invasion front. Numerous other ships totaling more than 56,000 tons were torpedoed. The sinking of most of the latter ships is assumed. German MT-boats on the night preceding Aug. 3 sank a British artillery E-boat in the eastern part of the bay of the Seine."

WIPE OUT FOUR JAP TANKS; COST: ONE TAIL LIGHT

GUAM [Delayed].—In the first tank action on the Agat bay beachhead, Gen. Sherman tanks manned by marines, wiped out four Jap tanks. Total damage to the marine tanks—one tail light shot off.

The one-sided action began at 3 a. m. on the slopes of Mount Alifan. Marines holding a ridge position messaged that a force of Japanese, led by tanks, was moving across Harmon road. Four marine tanks, led by 1st Lt. James R. Williams, 23, of Quincy, Ill., moved up to meet the attack. A marine bazooka man fired first. At 25 yards, a tank commanded by Sgt. W. J. Lance of Tellico Plains, Tenn., opened fire. The first shot by Corp. Keith W. Handlin of Dalhart, Tex., scored a direct hit.

With the first enemy tank in flames, three more, followed by infantry, could be seen dimly coming up behind it. The bazooka operator, credited with hits on two tanks, continued firing until he was killed by a mortar shell. In the following 15 minutes, the Japanese medium tanks were no match for the heavier armed Shermans.

Germans Report Another General Killed in France

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Von Drabisch-Waechter, German division commander, was killed near Caumont in France on Wednesday, the German news agency DNB said today, quoting a high command announcement. Previously six German generals have been reported killed in Normandy. Two others and a rear admiral were captured at Cherbourg.

BRETONS GO WILD WITH JOY AS U. S. FORCES ROLL IN

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN BRITTANY, Aug. 3 [Delayed].—American troops tonight had rolled up an official toll of prisoners of more than 18,500 in their drive across Brittany, while 7,872 German dead had been buried by our forces as of Aug. 1. Prisoners still are pouring in in amazing numbers.

German reaction to the American push varies according to those opposing it. Some enemy troops fight well and fiercely, others are only too glad to surrender at the first opportunity. The latter include practically all of the members of the German army from Poland, Russia, Czechoslovakia, and other subjugated areas. They once were work troops and now find themselves with rifles.

Most effective resistance is offered by the elite German troops, especially those whose main components are Hitler youth who have been thoroly inculcated with Nazi doctrines.

Nazis Bomb Highways.

The luftwaffe, which did some observation and strafing during daylight yesterday, last night bombed and machine gunned the main highways near Avranches in an effort to halt our steadily flowing columns of tanks, armored cars, and supply vehicles. They dropped flares to aid them in picking out the targets.

French people in the areas liberated virtually undamaged with such unexpected swiftness in the last few days, are literally half mad with joy. They line the highways and stand along the main streets of the towns throwing flowers at passing armored trucks and jeeps. They offer drinks and whenever the line halts for a moment the women climb up on the giant tanks and kiss the drivers.

The French resistance movement is aiding, too, by mopping up pocketed Germans, reporting the movement of German troops behind or between our lines and, in some cases, attacking and liberating towns before the onrushing American armor arrives.

Frenchman Joins Army.

One armored column, during the rush thru Avranches, was joined by a young Frenchman who got a rifle and took part in the fighting, then said: "Pardon me a moment while I kiss my girl goodby." He has been with them ever since and now is proudly wearing the American uniform they gave him so that he cannot be considered a spy or a civilian if captured.

Near Rennes, our forces aided grinning Senegalese troops captured in north Africa four years ago and "recaptured" when our air force bombed an ammunition dump near Rennes where the Senegalese were used as labor troops. One Senegalese who was aiding in rounding up wandering Germans reported that when our bombs began to fall the Germans took off "like big tailed birds."

Crack Unit from Chicago.

Most of the talk in the last few days has been about the armored advance, but it should not be overlooked that the armor carries with it motorized infantry. A crack armored cavalry unit, many of whose members are midwesterners, including a large number from Chicago, now is serving as protection for a portion of our left flank at Fougeres.

Foot soldiers in the sector where the push is advancing the fastest in many cases are being motorized as a temporary measure to enable them to reach the fighting zone. But you will still see many doughboys slogging along the highways while their luckier comrades roll by on wheels.

It is all the same team, however, and equal credit goes to each member with special mention for the stellar work of our air force which still is harrying the Germans on every highway and byway within reach of their eager wings.

Tells of Acting

(Story in adjoining column.)

Mrs. Adrienne Forbes in Superior court yesterday, where she got divorce.

WIFE DIVORCES ACTOR-HUSBAND, MURRAY FORBES

Murray M. Forbes, 39, of 4940 East End av., a radio actor, was divorced for cruelty yesterday by his wife, Adrienne, 24, of 5000 Cornell av., who told Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court that Forbes never stopped acting, even off the air.

In the presence of guests at their home, she said, he delivered a monolog in which he expressed a view that "wives should do all the work, or at the least, 99 per cent, and husbands should do nothing, or at the most, 1 per cent." When she protested, she said, he blackened her eye, gave her a bloody nose, and knocked her head against a coat hook on the wall.

They were married March 4, 1942, and separated April 14, 1944. Attorneys Robert E. Cantwell Jr., representing Mrs. Forbes, and Herman Silverstein, representing the actor, said the couple had agreed on an out of court settlement.

VATICAN CITY PAPER ISSUES A PLEA FOR PEACE

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Vatican city newspaper Osservatore Romano issued an appeal for peace today. In a page one editorial it asserted that the fundamental question was "put an end to the slaughter if results justifying it can no longer be expected."

The paper said the war was increasing in its intensity, and "under its crushing weight will emerge crushing treaties. Let us hasten peace. It is the only good on which one can still count."

BREST, NAZAIRE MAJOR PRIZES OF FRENCH FRONT

Gateways for Allied Invasion Armies.

When United States troops, dashing southwest across the peninsula of Brittany, reach St. Nazaire and those speeding westward from Normandy capture Brest the allies will have the top prizes of the invasion.

Brest, thru which passed 60 per cent of all American troops in France in World War I., has a deep water harbor large enough to accommodate the entire former French navy and was so improved in the years between the wars that it equaled Germany's vast port at Hamburg.

Before German occupation Brest had an arsenal employing 10,000 persons, the French naval academy, and immense ship yards in which battleships, destroyers, and torpedo boats were built.

Great Port at St. Nazaire.

St. Nazaire, altho smaller, is accessible to the largest ships and as in 1917-'18 could be used for unloading large bodies of troops and supplies. Thirty-five miles up the Loire river from St. Nazaire is the port of Nantes, largest city in Brittany.

Lorient, on the southern coast of the peninsula, also has port facilities and since the German occupation of France has been developed as a huge submarine base.

Elimination of German resistance in Brittany will give the allies control of more than 13,000 square miles of territory which contains a population of 3,000,000.

In addition to the Atlantic ports for direct shipments from the United States possession of the peninsula also will provide a number of smaller channel ports, including St. Malo, St. Brieuc, and Morlaix, all within 100 miles of British channel ports.

Rennes Industrial Center.

Captured Rennes is an important industrial city and communications center. It has iron foundries, furniture and wooden war factories, linen and coarse fabric mills. Rennes also is a center for distribution of farm and dairy products.

Three railroads enter Nantes, which has a wide diversification of industry in addition to a large shipping business. Fishing is a traditional occupation of Bretons who ply the waters from the Bay of Biscay to Iceland.

The hilly country of Brittany has some of France's most picturesque scenery and many buildings have great historical and architectural significance, especially the 11th century church and 13th century castle of Mont St. Michel.

Trained Here in 1918.

It was in the hills of Brittany and not far from Rennes where thousands of World War I. artillery men got their final training before going on the battle fronts in the summer of 1918. Hundreds of these men became familiar with the capital city on week-end visits from Camp de Coetquidan.

Brittany, spelled Bretagne by the French, took its name from English refugees 1,500 years ago. Evidence of the British ancestry of present inhabitants is to be found in their names, facial resemblance, and speech.

GARAGE, CANNERY BURN.

Noblesville, Ind., Aug. 4 [Special].—Explosion of a solvent today in the Martin and Morgan garage caused a fire loss of $20,000 and sent three men to the hospital. Fire today destroyed the plant of the Westfield Canning company at a loss of $12,000.

NAZIS' SUPER ROCKET LOST; BRITISH 'FEAR' WAR OF THE PLANETS

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP).—A rumor that the Germans had managed to launch a new stratosphere rocket a fortnight ago but hadn't yet heard from it moved the Weekly Tribune today to speculate facetiously it might have dropped on another planet and might result in an interplanetary war.

"If that world [hit by the runaway rocket] happens to be inhabited by people who have reached our own level of 'civilization,'" said the Tribune, "they may regard it as an act of hostility and be even now getting ready to send us a note about it.

"Are we therefore on the eve of war between worlds before we have got ourselves tidied up on earth?"

LAWYER SOUGHT IN SEDITION CASE FEARS 'MURDER'

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Henry H. Klein, attorney for Eugene N. Sanctuary, a defendant in the Washington, D. C., sedition trial, today said in an affidavit that he did not want to be returned to Washington because "I don't want to be tossed into a prison cell and murdered."

The affidavit was filed with United States Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter, who is conducting a hearing on a warrant for Klein's removal to Washington.

Klein purportedly walked out of the Washington trial on July 5, leaving his client without counsel, and is wanted by Judge Edward C. Eicher, chief justice of the Washington District court, presiding at the sedition trial, to explain why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court.

In his affidavit Klein stated, "I don't want to be tossed into a prison cell in Washington and murdered."

He also referred to "an odorless, tasteless poison which is known to those on the inside of the present administration."

738 POLIO CASES IN WEEK HIGHEST FOR U. S. SINCE '16

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—Infantile paralysis is near epidemic proportions in three states and has occurred in 37 states, the United States public health service said today. It reported that the disease has affected more persons thus far this year than in any year since 1934.

Cases reported up to July 29, the health service said, numbered 3,060, compared with 3,180 at the same date 10 years ago. There were 2,316 cases at this time last year.

For the week ended July 29, 738 new cases were reported thruout the country, the highest number for a comparable week since 1916.

The disease is near epidemic in New York, North Carolina, and Kentucky, altho there has been a recent drop in North Carolina cases. New York had a total of 593 cases up to July 29; North Carolina had 424; Kentucky, 312.

The health service classifies the disease as "mildly epidemic" in Virginia where 142 cases have been reported to date, and says it is "above seasonal expectancy" in Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan. There are few cases in the New England states and the mountain states.

FIVE CASES IN WEEK.

Five cases of infantile paralysis, none fatal, were reported in the city from July 28 to Aug. 3, compared with 18 cases and three deaths in the same period a year ago, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday.

Lockport Yank Honored for Bougainville Heroism

WITH THE AMERICAN INFANTRY DIVISION, Somewhere in the South Pacific, Aug. 4 (AP).—Tech. 5th Grade John W. Fish of Lockport, Ill., has received a commendation from Maj. Gen. Robert McClure, commander of the Americal division, for meritorious service at Bougainville, Solomon Islands. Fish, at the risk of his life, went out under enemy artillery fire to repair broken communications.

WISDOM OF APPLYING ARGENTINE SANCTIONS QUESTIONED IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Economist, conservative financial magazine, said today that President Gen. Edelmiro Farrell's government of Argentina was "obnoxious," but that Britain might lose more than she would gain by applying economic sanctions.

The publication said Britain and the United States were suspicious of each other in relation to Argentina, with Britain viewing the United States policy as "imperialism" and the United States fearing exclusion from the Argentine market.

"The British have special reasons of their own for disliking the Farrell regime, which ever since its seizure of power in January has adopted a hostile and provocative attitude toward British owned enterprises in Argentina," the Economist added. "On the score of both its domestic and international policies, the Farrell government has made itself obnoxious. There is no cause for surprise in the fact that economic counter-measures have come up for discussion."

HEAR BULGARS INSTALL A NEW FOREIGN CHIEF

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Nazi satellite of Bulgaria, shaken by Turkey's break with Germany, is reshuffling her cabinet and interior administration, the Swiss radio said today.

This report said that Foreign Minister Parvan Draganov, the former minister to Berlin, had been replaced by Constantin Mikailov, and that police heads of Sofia and five other cities were replaced. The German radio said earlier that Mikailov, former judge of the Sofia District court, had been named director-general of home affairs succeeding Director-general Benchev.

It was not clear what effect these changes would have upon Bulgaria's role as a Nazi partner.

RUSSIANS SURGE 27 MILES PAST VISTULA RIVER

Aim at Krakow; Patriots Win Heart of Warsaw.

LONDON, Aug. 5 [Saturday]—(AP).—Russian troops in a spectacular 27 mile break-thru west of the Vistula river swept southward yesterday to within 37 miles of Krakow, Poland's fifth city and last big German stronghold barring the invasion road into Germany itself.

Tank-tipped soviet spearheads rolling across the plains in great strength were only 77 miles from German Silesia, moving westward and southwestward from a Vistula bridgehead that had been expanded to a width of 40 miles in two days.

Moscow's bulletin announced the capture of Goryslawice, 27 miles southwest of Staszow, which was taken Thursday in the first smash across the Vistula 110 miles south of besieged Warsaw. Goryslawice is 37 miles northeast of Krakow. Ninety-nine other towns were captured in the smash, Moscow said.

Four Bridgeheads, Say Nazis.

Inside besieged Warsaw, nearly 150 miles to the north, Polish patriots were reported to have seized the heart of the city in a battle against German tank units, while Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's 1st White Russian army was locked in a fierce struggle just east of the Polish capital.

Moscow's bulletin did not mention the Warsaw zone, but Berlin said the Russians had thrown three other bridgeheads across the Vistula, one of them only 30 miles southeast of the capital.

Gen. Bor, Polish guerrilla commander in Warsaw, radioed that German morale had been noticeably shaken but said the Poles still suffered from a lack of ammunition. His message was announced by the Polish government in exile here.

Fight All Over City.

The Poles were fighting thruout Warsaw, and controled the "entire Stare Miasto region," which is the old city, the exiled government said. They were declared to have seized the general postoffice in the heart of the city and the power station and gas works in the east end.

On the German East Prussia front Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's troops captured 300 localities yesterday in the areas west of Kaunas, Lithuania, on both sides of the highway leading to Koenigsberg and southwest of Mariampole. Eglobole, 14 miles from the German frontier, was one of the places taken. The Russian army was reported within three miles of East Prussia.

Front dispatches quoted refugees as saying "a great panic" had developed inside East Prussia. The Germans were harvesting unripened crops, herding cattle to stations for removal westward, and choking military roads in their flight from the border area.

Gen. Ivan Bagramian's 1st Baltic army was attacking along the Gulf of Riga in two directions—east toward Riga, Latvian capital, and west toward Liepaja, on the coast above Memel.

The newspaper Dagens Nyheter at Stockholm, Sweden, said German troops and civilians were evacuating Latvia by sea from the Baltic ports of Leipaja and Ventspils.

Advance in South.

In the Carpathian mountain foothills soviet troops captured 40 localities on a 28 mile front between Lwow and Kaluska. These included Rudniki, 18 miles northeast of the Galician oil center of Drohobycz, and a town 14 miles north of Stryj.

Stryj controls the roads leading southward to two passes thru the mountains to Czechoslovakia. The German high command said a soviet drive toward one of these, the Beskiden pass, had been frustrated.

A total of 530 localities were taken during the day, including 40 in eastern Latvia.

REPORT STALIN INSISTS ON PACT BY RIVAL POLES

MOSCOW, Aug. 4 (AP).—Negotiations between Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, premier of the Polish government in exile, and the Soviet-supported Polish committee of national liberation are expected to open tomorrow, with Polish unity the objective.

Premier Mikolajczyk.

Mikolajczyk's two and a half hour conference with Premier Stalin last night left the unification problem to be settled, if possible, among the Poles themselves.

If the Polish negotiations make harmonious progress there is an indication that the concluding steps may be taken in Warsaw as soon as that capital city is freed by the Red army and the Polish corps fighting along the Vistula river.

Stalin was understood to have made it clear that the Poles should reach their own agreement first and then the question of Polish-soviet relations could be dealt with.

Concessions Expected.

From the present political atmosphere, some observers surmised that both Mikolajczyk and the committee are ready for mutual concessions, altho there have been no commitments yet by either side.

In meeting with the committee, the Polish premier will be renewing several old acquaintanceships. The pre-war peasant party included Adrezej Witos, now the committee vice president. Mikolajczyk also knew Gen. Michal Rola-Zymiski, the committee's chief of national defense, and Wanda Wasilewska, pre-war radical author who is second vice president in the committee setup.

Stalin's cordial reception of Mikolajczyk's mission was today the talk of the foreign diplomatic colony. Dressed in marshal's uniform, Stalin sat until midnight in one of the smaller conference rooms of the kremlin discussing Poland thru an interpreter.

Premiers do the Talking.

Most of the conversational exchanges were between Stalin and Mikolajczyk, altho Vyacheslaff Molotov, commissar of foreign affairs, was present, and the Polish Premier was accompanied by Tadeusz Romer, Polish foreign minister, as well as Prof. Stanislaw Grabski, Josef Zaranski, the chief of the premier's office, and Alexander Mniszek of the foreign office.

Mikolajczyk was keeping in touch with W. Averell Harriman, United States ambassador, and with the British ambassador, Archibald Kerr.

New Zealand to Require 83 Millions Lend-Lease

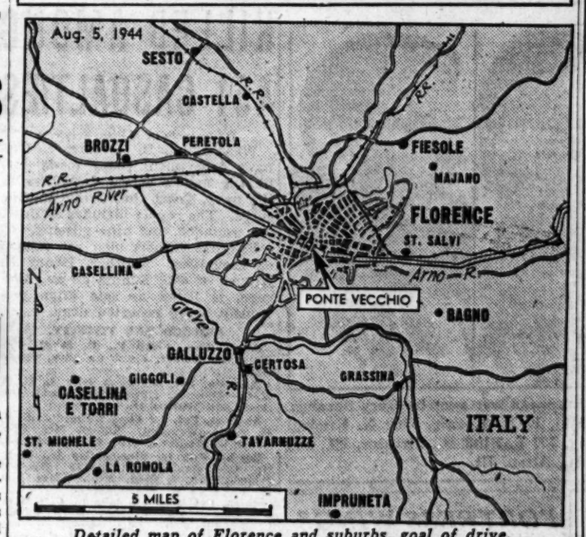
Allies Fight for Italian City



Detailed map of Florence and suburbs, goal of drive.

ALLIED PATROLS IN FLORENCE; 5 BRIDGES RAZED

Destruction by Nazis Called 'Sadistic.'

ROME, Italy, Aug. 4 (AP).—Allied troops hammered thru the last defenses before the great Tuscan art center of Florence today and sent patrols as far as the Arno river. The Germans had withdrawn to beyond the river after destroying five or six bridges spanning the stream.

The only bridge spared was the historic Ponte Vecchio [old bridge], which the Nazis blocked by demolishing houses at each end. This bridge is lined on either side with craftsmen's shops and is familiar to tourists.

Statement Assails Nazis.

Angry at the destruction of the bridges after the Nazis had declared Florence an open city, allied headquarters issued an official statement:

"The enemy has taken advantage of the situation, knowing full well that our undisputed air power could not be used to destroy the bridges in Florence behind him [while the Germans still were on the south bank of the Arno] without damage to architectural buildings of the city.

"He has thus enjoyed unlimited use of bridges over the Arno and has seen fit, when outfought south of the city, to destroy bridges of military value, to deny us use of bridges which up to now he has enjoyed."

Army Can Bridge Stream.

Military bridges can be quickly thrown across the Arno, the statement added, and the destruction will not hold up the allied advance for long.

The statement did not say whether the Germans had withdrawn entirely from the northern part of the city.

It called the "wanton destruction" of bridges "another example of Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's order to his troops to carry out demolitions with sadistic imagination," and added:

"No doubt those responsible for allowing Rome's bridges to remain intact have been reprimanded by the Germans and even stronger measures were taken to insure that the bridges in Florence should not fall into allied hands and so be preserved for posterity."

South Africans Reach River.

South Africans crashed into the outskirts early today and sent patrols to the river. There was no indication they encountered resistance.

German guns were reported flashing from heights behind the city which comprise the first defenses of the Gothic line.

[The German war bulletin said Nazi troops had detached themselves toward a narrow bridgehead immediately south of Florence and repeated a charge that allied artillery was shelling the city. This was not confirmed.]

The German foothold on the south bank of the Arno east and west of Florence had been narrowed to slightly more than 20 miles. Forces holding this line were being pressed back close to the river.

It was announced the 8th army had captured 5,000 prisoners in the last 24 days.

Patrol clashes and artillery exchanges were reported from the American 5th army front.

$700,000 Fire Sweeps Canadian Army Shops

LAKE MICHIGAN'S LEVEL MOVES UP .06 FOOT IN JULY

Lake Michigan's average level for July was 580.82 feet above mean tide at New York, a report from the United States lake survey office in Detroit said yesterday. This is .06 foot above the June level, .56 foot less than that of July, 1943, and one and one-half foot higher than the July mean of the last 10 years. The lake is 1.48 feet below the high stage of July, 1929, and 2.80 feet above the low stage of July, 1934.

AT 81, HE PEDALS BIKE 93 MILES; MERCURY AT 90!

Orange, Mass., Aug. 4 (AP).—When Allen C. Underwood wheeled down Main st. today on his bicycle, folks shook their heads and looked at the temperature—over 90 degrees. But when Underwood explained that he was 81 and had just trundled in from St. Johnsbury, Vt., 93 miles and two days away, that was really something. Asked for a statement, Cyclist Underwood was nonchalant and said: "This is merely a stop over. I'm on my way to Bridgeport, Conn."

FATHER AND SON MEET IN PACIFIC; IT'S THE KENNEYS

THIRTEENTH ARMY AIR FORCE HDQ., Southwest Pacific, July 28 [Delayed]—(AP).—Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney has added another Kenney to the Southwest Pacific air forces he commands.

Inspecting 13th A. A. F. bomber squadrons recently, he met a smiling second lieutenant, and the conversation went something like this:

"Hello, son, how are you making it?"

"Glad to see you, dad," replied William R. Kenney, 22, the lieutenant. The son related his experiences as a ground officer in a night bomber squadron.

Lt. Kenney interrupted his pre-medical studies at the University of Cincinnati to enlist in March, 1943.

ROCKET IS A-1 WEAPON, SAYS CANADIAN ACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Rockets dropped by Typhoon bombers are a highly effective weapon against the Germans, Group Capt. Paul Davoud, royal Canadian air force ace, said today. Davoud has returned from Normandy, where he commands a Typhoon unit. "Against tanks and for breaking up concentrations the rocket is a first class weapon," he said. "Its accuracy and the closeness to our troops in which it can be used are amazing and its effect on the soldiers' morale is splendid.

"The Germans, however, don't like them a little bit."

Haile Selassie Gets First of Four Lend-Lease Planes

MATHEWS RETIRING AFTER 35 YEARS OF POLICE PHOTO WORK

After 35 years as police department photographer, William B. Mathews, 5915 Northwest Circle av., Norwood Park, snapped his last picture at the Criminal courts building yesterday and began to say goodby to his friends.

William B. Mathews.

Billy, as he is known to hundreds of court building employes, will reach the compulsory retirement age of 63 next Tuesday. He estimated that he has taken 150,000 pictures since he joined the department.

A newspaper photographer before he joined the police force, Billy probably has taken more pictures of notorious hoodlums than any other man in Chicago, his superiors say. He has no plans after his retirement other than taking a few snaps of his wife, Sadie, and son, William Jr., 14.

FORTRESS WINGS TO ADD LIFT TO 5 STRATO LINERS

Improve Ships for the Return to Lines.

BY FRANK STURDY.

Flying Fortress bomber wings will be installed on Transcontinental and Western Air's five Stratoliner airplanes as part of extensive modifications preceding return of the big ships to regular coast to coast service for air travelers.

The planes were built by Boeing Aircraft, went into operation in July, 1940, and were the first commercial transports designed to fly at high altitudes. Cabins were sealed in flight and super-chargers maintained an interior pressure equal to the atmosphere at 6,000 to 12,000 feet while the planes flew at altitudes of 13,000 to 22,000 feet.

Flew 7½ Million Miles.

In December, 1941, T. W. A. contracted with the army to put the Stratoliners in use on the worldwide routes of the air transport command. They flew 7½ million miles manned by T. W. A. crews, carrying important military and political personages to every continent except Australia. They were recently returned to the air line in the army's program to restore the air transport system to its pre-war airplane strength.

One of the ships is now being modified at the Boeing plant in Seattle.

Besides the new wings of the Flying Fortress, the planes are to be equipped with four engines of 1,250 horsepower each. The original engines were 1,150 horsepower.

Most Luxurious Planes.

The Stratoliners were among the most luxurious in pre-war air line operation. They had 33 passenger seats for day flights and carried 25 passengers in berths by night. They cost $350,000 each.

To increase the utility of the planes during the current travel emergency, T. W. A. has ordered elimination of the sleeper facilities.

As an additional weight economy, the cabin super-chargers will be eliminated.

24 PILOTS LOST AS CRASH SENDS 28 TO DEATHS

Atkinson, Neb., Aug. 4 (AP).—Twenty-eight men, including 24 pilots being ferried from the Bruning, Neb., army air base to the Pierre, S. D., army air base, and four crew members, were killed last night when their C-47 transport plane crashed, an investigating board of army officers learned today on arrival at the scene.

Bodies were being brought by horse and wagon from the wreckage, a distance of two miles to the highway. Parts of the plane were scattered over two miles.

The scene of the crash was a hilly, rugged section of north central Nebraska. Flooded creeks impeded rescue work.

Indianapolis Lieutenant Killed.

Lake Charles, La., Aug. 4 (AP).—Four officers were killed and four enlisted men were injured when a medium type bomber on a routine combat training flight from the Lake Charles army air field crashed yesterday about 20 miles south of Deridder, La. Among those killed was Lt. Fred M. Miller, 6385 Broadway, Indianapolis, Ind.

Last Flight for Hitchhiking Sailor.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 4 (AP).—The names of one soldier who was killed and six others who were injured in the crash of a medium bomber near the 36th st. air base were announced by the army today. Withheld pending further check was the name of a hitchhiking sailor who died.

The plane had just returned from the Italian theater.

MISSING TRIBUNE FLYER AWARDED STAR, AIR MEDAL

Lt. John T. O'Brien, on leave from his duties in the Tribune auditing department, has been awarded the silver star and the air medal, it was reported yesterday by his wife, Mrs. Kathryn J. O'Brien of Palatine. He has been reported missing in action since Nov. 6, 1943.

The silver star was awarded for gallantry in action in the Southwest Pacific and the other award was for "meritorious achievement while participating in sustaining operational flight missions" in the same area.

Lt. O'Brien, who is 24 years old, was graduated from Palatine High school. He enlisted in the army air forces in June, 1942.

HIGHWOOD YANK DIES IN ACTION ON ITALY FRONT

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Bellel, 12 Webster av., Highwood, were notified yesterday that their son, Pvt. Edmund Bellel, 21, was killed in action July 17 in Italy. Pvt. Bellel, a graduate of the Highland Park High school, joined the army in 1943 and went overseas eight months later. His twin brother, Edward, is a coxswain with the navy in Greenland. Two sisters, Florence and Leanore, and an uncle, Policeman Jene Bellel, also survive.

YANKS WIPE OUT LAST JAPANESE ON GUAM PEAK

Kill or Capture 50 a Day in Saipan Mop Up.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Aug. 4 (AP).—Preparing for a cleanup drive against the Japanese on Guam, American troops won control of Mount Barrigada dominating the flat northern plateau of the island, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Last Japanese resistance was wiped out on the 674 foot peak near the center of the line. The eastern flank advanced to a point about a mile south of Point Sassayan. The western flank established complete control of all road junctions in the vicinity of Finegayen.

Bombed by Carriers.

Carrier task force planes poured bombs, rockets, and machine gun fire into the Japanese defenders as ground forces steadily pushed them back into the northern plateau.

Scattered Japanese soldiers were being hunted down on Saipan Island, northward in the Marianas, where the enemy's organized resistance ended a month ago.

An average of 50 Japanese soldiers were being "eliminated or taken prisoner" each day in probing Saipan's caves and ravines.

Additional numbers of Japanese civilians were being interned on Tinian, third invaded Marianas island, where mopping up continued.

Yank Fleet in Bonins—Tokyo.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—The Japanese home radio announced today that the "enemy" raided Iwo and Chichi islands in the Bonin group this morning [Japanese time], with "powerful formations" and asserted that a "powerful task force of the enemy is assembled on the sea in the Chichi area."

The broadcast, recorded by United States government monitors, said that the "powerful formation" had struck at Iwo twice and Chichi three times.

Quoting a Japanese Domei news agency dispatch from "a Central Pacific base," the dispatch said that the task force consisted of more than 10 vessels, comprised of cruisers, destroyers, and others.

The Bonins are approximately 615 miles southeast of Tokyo.

ALLIES MOP UP LAST JAPANESE IN MYITKYINA

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HDQ., Kandy, Celyon, Aug. 4 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's dramatic campaign to drive the Japanese from northern Burma and establish a military supply highway from India to China approached fruition today as American and Chinese troops crushed the last organized enemy resistance in Myitkyina after a bloody siege that began May 17.

A bulletin from Adm. Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced: "Myitkyina fell today. With the exception of some mopping up operations, all organized resistance has ended. American troops in the north sector and Chinese troops in the south sector made large gains, finally converging."

At least 3,000 Japanese troops of the "Singapore" division died in futile defense of the important rail terminus and air base. Over 100 were killed last night as they attempted to escape on rafts down the Irrawaddy river.

HOLD HENGYANG AS RELIEF FORCE POUNDS AT JAPS

CHUNGKING, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Hengyang area's battered defenders have knocked down wave after wave of Japanese attackers while Chinese relief columns are stabbing at an encircling enemy ring, the Chinese high command reported today.

The bulletin said Chinese forces from the east entered the town of Chaling, 60 miles from Hengyang, whose 40 days of resistance was yielding a new epic in the Japanese-Chinese war, and street fighting continued at Pingsiang, 100 miles northeast of Hengyang. South of Leiyang, on the Canton-Hankow railway the Chinese captured an enemy stronghold and halted two enemy columns.

Other Chinese forces were reported by an army spokesman as being 3½ miles southwest, 6 miles north, and 6 miles west of Hengyang. A captured document was said to show more than 70,000 Japanese troops were engaged in operations from Changsha southward.

CHARGES STATE PAID WITNESSES IN BRIBE TRIAL

Mason, Mich., Aug. 4 [Special].—Charges that the prosecution illegally paid fees and expenses of three of its chief witnesses at the graft conspiracy trial here were hurled today by defense counsel as Judge John Simpson denied motions in behalf of all 22 defendants for directed verdicts of not guilty.

Judge Simpson considered a series of defense motions. One by James E. Haggerty, Detroit attorney, asked that all of the testimony of three major witnesses be stricken from the record.

Haggerty contended that funds provided by the legislature to finance a grand jury investigation by Judge Leland W. Carr of Lansing had been illegally paid to Maj. Charles F. Hemans, finance company lobbyist; Joseph C. Roosevelt, his assistant, and Ernest J. Prew, former officer of the Federal Finance corporation, Detroit.

The jury was yesterday excused until Monday.

OUTBOARD MOTOR STOLEN.

Charles Wilson of 5346 Cornell av. reported to police yesterday that thieves stole an outboard motor valued at $125 Monday from his boat, moored in Jackson park harbor.

U. S. BOMBERS SMASH AT ROBOT TESTING PLANT

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP).—More than 1,200 American heavy bombers protected by close to 1,000 fighters carried out a smashing attack today on the German's "secret weapon" experimental laboratories at Pennemunde, on the Baltic coast 100 miles north of Berlin, where flying bombs, rockets, and jet propelled planes are developed. Explosives also cascaded upon military targets inside Germany.

Following up these raids nearly 750 R. A. F. Lancasters tonight hit Nazi oil storage depots at Pauillac and Becdambes.

Fortresses and Liberators struck sharply at fighter component plants and air fields at Anklam, 47 miles northwest of Stettin, aircraft assembly plants at Rostock on the Baltic coast, port installations at Kiel, and an oil refinery at Bremen. Oil refineries at Hamburg and Harburg, across the Elbe river, also were bombed by the Americans.

Coast Installations Hit.

Some of the bomber formations clashed with enemy fighters in the Hamburg area but others saw no German craft. Flak was heavy at Hamburg and Bremen. American losses were 14 bombers and 16 fighters missing while the bomber escorts shot down a total of 38 enemy planes.

In a second late afternoon mission up to 150 Fortresses and Liberators hit flying bomb installations and coastal batteries in the Pas-de-Calais area. They were escorted by Lightnings and Mustangs.

R. A. F. bombers, also with a fighter escort, attacked supply depots at L'Isle Adam and Trossy St. Maximin, north of Paris, in another blow at the Nazi flying bomb system. The R. A. F. lost four bombers.

Bomb Retreating Nazis.

It was believed the aircraft plants at Anklam and Rostock might be producing rocket propelled aircraft.

The allied tactical air assault was pushed against the retreating Germans in France, keeping them off balance and split from reënforcements of men and equipment.

Allied air forces based in the Mediterranean dotted southern Europe with fire and damage, striking a series of blows at industrial towns and other objectives in southern Germany, rail and road bridges in the Nice area of France, and military installations in Yugoslavia and Albania.

Robot Attack Wanes.

As a result of allied bombing attacks on robot installations, the Germans' flying bomb barrage sputtered today to its lowest point since it broke nearly eight weeks ago as home defenses knocked out the projectiles with great success.

The all-out effort against the missiles held down both casualties and damage. The weight of the attacks seemed greatly reduced, and fighter pilots and anti-aircraft gunners resumed their successful work of bringing down the robots.

Three were destroyed in quick succession and another was blown up over the sea. Fighters dived thru flak in their eagerness to attack the flying bombs.

Planes Land in Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 4 (AP).—Two Liberator bombers and three Mustangs made forced landings in southern Sweden today after American raids over the Baltic area. The crews of all were safe.

[The Swidish home radio said in a broadcast recorded by the federal communications commission that one of the Mustangs was shot down on the southern tip of Sweden but the pilot escaped with slight injuries.]

Canada to Bar Japanese Immigrants After War

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 4 (AP).—Complete exclusion of Japanese immigration after the war was announced today as a government policy by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. A special commission will be set up to determine which Japanese now in Canada are loyal and which disloyal, he said. Those disloyal would be sent to Japan, whether or not they were born there. Those loyal would be treated justly, but would not be allowed to congregate again in British Columbia, he said.

LONG HOURS AT ARMY PAY KEEP FIGHTERS FLYING

Ground Crews Create Industry Abroad.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT A NORTHERN ENGLAND VILLAGE, Aug. 4. — The vastness and complexities of the army organization necessary for air force maintenance in this theater is amazing to the newcomer.

It is all done by the United States air service command with plants and depots covering thousands of acres and located thruout England and Northern Ireland.

In these centers of humming industrial activity specially trained soldiers, wearing greasy overalls and working long hours at army pay, are fighting their part in this war with wrenches, acetylene torches, blue prints and machine tools. It is estimated that it requires 21 of these men on the ground to keep a fighter pilot in the air.

10 Hours Every Day.

Before the invasion they labored at their benches 10 and 12 hours a day without a day off for a month, all at army pay, to help the second front preparations. At one plant recently a group of Congress of Industrial Organization officials on a tour of inspection expressed surprise at the length of the working day of the army technicians.

The workers grinned today, recalling the words of the officer who was conducting the visitors thru the plant.

"These men work hard because they know they are in a war and they know that a lot of good guys flying planes over Europe are depending on them," said the officer. "It is not uncommon for them to return to work voluntarily in the evenings when their section falls behind."

More than 1,200 airplane engines were overhauled and returned to combat by one plant within a month. Each engine was torn down to the smallest of its thousands of parts, each part was cleaned and tested, and the engine was then reassembled.

Mass Production Scores.

American mass production methods were installed when the plants were taken over from the British, and the records show that no more men are required on the assembly lines to turn out more than 1,000 engines in one plant than the number which put out only 70 in the same plant originally.

At another of these depots the warehouse for salvaged plane parts, ranging from wings for a Fortress to the tiny bolts that hold the radio and other instrument in place, is a quarter of a mile long and as wide as a football field.

Then there is the separate job of modifying war planes and keeping those in use abreast of the latest developments based on battle experience. The American air forces devised modification kits, put together at the supply command depots, which are sent to combat zones complete with instructions for installation of each modification.

Chicagoans on the Job.

Following are a few Chicagoans working in one of the plants near here:

Sgt. William Sawatski, 6497 N. Newcastle av., engine mechanic; Pvt. Ward Imes, 129 157th st., Calumet City, personal clerk; Sgt. Foster Myrick, Orland Park, machine shop; Sgt. Murray Sukinoff, 837 Windsor av., sign painter; Staff Sgt. Leroy Stolnack, 4055 N. Kolmar av., parachute rigger; Corp. Robert Beckwith, 6810 S. Green st., flight test; Pvt. IT'S CHRISTMAS OR FOURTH EACH NIGHT ON GUINEA

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Aug. 5 [Saturday].—More New Guinea travelog notes:

Biak is free of mosquitoes, but is loaded with fireflies. At night they collect on the evergreens, lighting them up like Christmas trees.

Sgt. Charles Bespole, 2143 N. Mozart st., Chicago, is heading home after 642 hours as an engineer-gunner during which his plane sank four ships and damaged three others. Lt. William Rumpf, 9831 S. Hoyne av., Chicago, is a newcomer as a P-47 [Thunderbolt] pilot. "New Guinea certainly is a strange place," he says.

You hear less and less of bully-beef as more and more ships arrive direct from the United States, States.

When even a single Jap plane comes over any advance base and the night sky is full of flak and tracer bullets, it is more fascinating than any fireworks show in Soldiers' field. You sleep pretty well, unworried until the next morning when you learn that bombs fell down the beach a short distance and several men were killed.

Being paid in Dutch guilders instead of British pounds is saving a lot of money for gamblers with losing streaks. By betting a guilder they wager only 53 cents as compared to $3.23 for a pound.

"Got any copies of that Overseas Tribune?" asks William Schuber, 10115 S. Oakley av., Chicago. Miles away, Lt. Lawrence Sommerfeld, 940 Winona, Chicago, pops the same question.

Richard E. Bieber, 616 S. Spencer st., Aurora, Ill., who is clerking for the army in Dutch New Guinea, does so much plugging for the Burlington railroad, in whose traffic department he formerly worked, that every one believes he is preparing for a branch line here.

Reporters call Osgood Carruthers, a former Denver Post reporter, one of the best public relations officers in the whole area. He is with the 13th air force.

Wilbur J. Collins, N. Massasoit av., Chicago, former associate editor of a Chicago sports magazine, is secretary for a major general, which makes him a big dealer in brass.

A native watching the invasion was nonplussed when the steel ducks [landing craft] plowed out of the water and rolled along the beach. Then, thoroly amazed, he said, "Well, damn me."

CANADA TO SEND 400 TO PREPARE TO BATTLE JAPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 4.—In preparation for participation by Canada in the war against Japan, 400 to 500 officers and men of the Canadian army will soon be sent to India and Australia, the department of national defense announced today.

Between 300 and 400 technicians will be sent to serve temporarily with the Indian army. Those sent to Australia will be used in the employment of special equipment in the Australian army.

Canada already has sent a small group of officers to the Southwest Pacific to join the United States, Australian, and New Zealand forces. The Royal Canadian air force has sent a group to India to arrange for participation in the war against Japan when Canadian forces have finished their task in Europe. Canada has an air squadron in Ceylon and many members of the Royal Canadian air force are serving with the R. A. F. in the east.

Swimmer

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Elizabeth Guntermann in court yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Guntermann, 32, of 1847 Oakdale av., who was charged with disorderly conduct after being found swimming off the Carter H. Harrison crib at 1 a. m. yesterday, indicated to Judge Irwin Clorfene in women's court later in the morning that she was merely following doctor's orders. She also contended that when she shouted "Yoo-hoo" to Thomas Kallal, the tender, she wasn't tired at all but intended swimming the four miles back to the North avenue beach, her starting point.

"A doctor once told me that I had a nervous trouble," she explained, "and said it would be soothing to be near water." Her husband, Alfred, corroborated her statement, saying she often swam five or six miles. The Guntermanns and their two children, aged 1 and 3 years, had gone to the beach Thursday evening but when Guntermann called his wife to go home at 9:30 p. m., she replied, "After one last swim, Alfred."

That swim took her to the crib where Kallal tossed in a life preserver and called the Coast Guard, which took Mrs. Guntermann to Central police station. In women's court, Judge Clorfene, who is reported not able to swim a stroke, professed frank amazement at Mrs. Guntermann's ability but nevertheless continued the case until Aug. 11 and ordered her examined by Dr. David B. Rotman, court psychiatrist, to determine the nature of the nervous trouble.

HOLD HOSPITAL POSTAL OFFICIAL FOR EMBEZZLING

Mrs. Marie Amrich, 33, assistant postmistress at the Hines hospital substation, was ordered held to the grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of embezzling $2,502 from the postoffice on June 10. Bond was set at $500. She has been employed by the postoffice for 13 years and lives at 2007 S. 9th av., Maywood. Asst. United States Atty. Jack A. Welfeld said that Mrs. Amrich has made full restitution. John L. Baker, 51, a clerk at the same substation, was sentenced to a year and a day in prison on Thursday by Judge Elwyn R. Shaw for embezzling $224.

WASPS CONTINUE FLIGHT TRAINING AT ARMY BASE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 [Special].—The war department announced today that members of the women's air force service pilots [WASPS] will continue to take the special training course at Orlando, Fla., qualifying them to operate at military bases despite congress' refusal to sanction militarization of the unit and restrictions recently placed upon its expansion.

A total of 330 of the civilian women pilots already have completed the course, which requires 25 days.

U. S. FIGHTER PLANES ATTACK MANCHURIA, SAYS TOKYO RADIO

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Japanese broadcasts said today that P-38 planes had attacked southern Manchuria and that this "proved that a raid by fighter planes from continental bases is possible." A broadcast said it was clear that "the enemy has a design to attack" Manchuria continuously. Tokyo claimed that today's raid did no damage. B-29 Super Fortresses raided Manchuria last week.

MR. MEYER'S CROW SUPPER.

Eugene Meyer's Washington Post, foremost harridan in the witch hunt that led to the Washington sedition trial, has recanted and denounced the present performance as a bad job. The Post said editorially the other day that "Justice Eicher has undoubtedly tried to make the best of a bad situation. . . . But the very nature of the case has thwarted his efforts. Mass trials may possibly be successful where the issues are simple and the testimony is brief—or where the Russian technique of condemning the defendants first and putting on a trial for show is used. But where the issues are complicated and defendants who have not been browbeaten stand on their democratic rights a trial involving more than two dozen individuals is almost certain to be a fizzle. We think the time has come to recognize the unlikelihood of securing any fair approximation to justice from this unhappy experiment. . . ."

Meyer's newspaper worked up the first two indictments against anti-interventionist pamphleteers, anti-Semites, and German agents, some of whom are among the 26 defendants now sweating out their 16th week in the most amazing farce that has disgraced a federal courtroom in modern times. A Meyer reporter, Dillard Stokes, acted as agent provocateur to entrap the crackpots who were included in the first two indictments. Atty. Gen. Biddle's prosecutors found that Stokes' copy definitely was not evidence, so the indictments were pigeonholed. To save face, a third indictment was drawn, naming some new defendants and dropping some others previously indicted. This true bill was turned over to O. John Rogge, one of Mr. Biddle's more respectable prosecutors, who is conducting the current mass trial.

If the Post ever expected "any fair approximation to justice" from the sedition cases its conduct did not so indicate. From the start Meyer's newspaper spoke of the indicted crackpots as tho they already had been convicted, and poured columns of vilification on Republican congressmen whom it tried to smear by fraudulently associating their names with those of indicted German agents and fanatics.

THE TRIBUNE, early in the proceedings and frequently thereafter, pointed out the impossibility of accommodating the procedure adopted in the sedition case to the framework of decent American justice. The perversion of the conspiracy charge; the transportation of the defendants for trial in a jurisdiction where the majority of veniremen would be beholden, directly or indirectly, to the present administration for their livelihood; and the well organized campaign by the Post, the kept columnists and commentators, and other New Deal camp followers to poison the public mind against the defendants before the trial are features of the Communist judicial system, not that of America.

Any conversion, however late, should be welcomed. But Mr. Meyer should spend a long spell on the mourners' bench before he attempts to speak up in meeting.

THE CIO AND NEGROES.

The union that has been striking in Philadelphia, tying up the local transportation system of one of the nation's principal war production areas, is a CIO organization. It is the Transport Workers' union, notoriously under Communist control.

Ever since the strike started the union leaders and their apologists have been screaming frantically to explain away the fact that a CIO Communist union is striking to prevent Negroes from taking jobs for which the war labor board says they are fully qualified. First it was alleged that the strike was the work of Nazi agents. Then it was charged that it was fomented by the members of other unions which lost the labor board election that put the CIO in control. That is a flimsy smoke screen.

The union is led by the CIO and the Communists, those great enemies of fascism and racial prejudice, and it is striking to deny eight Negroes the right to earn a decent living. The only exculpatory statement the CIO might make is one that it doesn't dare make—namely: that it and the labor board rigged the election to make it the bargaining agent for the Philadelphia traction employes when those employes didn't want the CIO to represent them.

WHY WE STILL HAVE LIBERTY.

Opposition members in parliament the other day forced an admission from Home Minister Herbert Morrison that the British government has been enforcing more than 20 emergency regulations which never have been approved by parliament. Morrison explained that a most regrettable oversight was responsible for the fact that these fiats and decrees became accepted as laws of the realm without parliament knowing anything about it and that people had been prosecuted for violating them. Apparently, he said, somebody in the government forgot to submit them to parliament and "steps have been taken to insure that a mistake of this kind doesn't occur again."

None of the members took the trouble to ask Mr. Morrison why their government had fallen to a state where national laws could be made and enforced without the consent or even the knowledge of the only accredited lawmaking body in the kingdom. It wasn't necessary. Everybody with sense enough to get himself elected to parliament must know that Englishmen have lost precious rights because their country has no written constitution.

There has been great protest in England over the denial of civil rights by the security acts which allow the government to commit subjects to prisons without trial and without making charges, circumstances, or evidence public. Parliament passed the security acts and renewed them again recently, but now is confronted with another group of alleged security laws that the government didn't even bother to submit to it. If the spirit of freedom and of government by free men still lives in England, its advocates certainly must writhe before this kind of tyranny.

The situation could have been the same in this country. We, too, had a group of willful, ambitious men who sought to rob the people of their rights in the name of war emergency. Our written Constitution was strong enough and permanent enough to withstand the assaults of a dictator-minded executive.

People ask what is meant by the "American form of government." They do not need to look any farther for an answer than to that concise document presented to our people at Philadelphia in 1787. Without it there would be no American form of government. As long as we defend it, preserve it, and enforce it as the supreme law of the land, we shall be free.

CANADA BUYS BACK SOME AIR BASES.

Canada has entered into an agreement with the United States to pay nearly 77 million dollars for permanent installations built by this country on the main overseas military air routes thru the dominion. For another 34 million Canada is liquidating other claims we might have against these properties. Presumably these installations were financed by our military and lend-lease funds. The United States probably should consider itself lucky to get anything back on any lend-lease deal, but Canada seems so willing to repay that somebody ought to take a second and more suspicious look at the proposal.

Canada is handing over these millions for American built facilities on the pick of the main air routes from this country to Europe and Asia.

One of these crosses western Canada thru Alaska to Siberia. Another runs north thru the center of Canada, over the top of the world to Europe, and the third and most important leads from the state of Maine, thru Labrador, to Greenland, Iceland, and England. Prime Minister King also announced that Canada was responsible for almost the entire development of Goose Bay airport in Labrador and had taken a 99 year lease on that property from Newfoundland with provision that the United States and England could use the base during the war and for such a time afterward as is necessary for Canadian defense.

This statement does not square with what Sen. Mead [D., N. Y.], one of the five investigating senators who made a world air tour, says about Goose Bay in his book, "Tell the Folks Back Home." Sen. Mead says that the United States poured 6½ million dollars into Goose Bay, the only fog free airport on Labrador, and got no post-war rights there whatever. Officials there told him it is the best air base north of Presque Isle, Me., and that planes can operate from it while those at other Labrador ports are grounded by weather.

So far as is known, Canada has made no overtures to repay the United States for any lend-lease or military projects except these choice air bases. By liquidating our cash investment the dominion may hope to quiet title and thus be in position to drive a hard bargain or stop us altogether when we want to make use of them for commercial flights.

Every air route from America to Europe and Asia, except for the longer southern flights, must cross Canadian soil. The United States must have a treaty with Canada guaranteeing our planes the right to fly over, land on, and take off from the dominion at any time, with reciprocal rights for Canadian ships in this country. Without such a treaty we can have no foreign air commerce after the war.

An administration interested in guarding American rights would have obtained such a treaty long ago. The New Dealers have not done it and show no intention of doing it. Unless Mr. Roosevelt is repudiated and removed from office our post-war air prospects are sunk.

"THE FRENCH EMPIRE—AH!"

[New York News.]

Mrs. Helen Essary of the Washington Times-Herald, who attended the recent press conference of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, describes the general, whose rule of France has been recognized by President Roosevelt, as a dignified, masculine and forceful figure. He is determined, Mrs. Essary reports, that France will be restored to her old estate and that the French empire is part of that estate.

"The French empire—ahhh!" was the general's reported remark when that touchy subject arose. "It will be complete again."

"With Indo-China?" he was asked.

"Naturellement," he replied, and we translate that to mean "naturally."

According to the terms of the Atlantic Charter, none of the united nations is to get any new territory out of the fighting, not even bases. But, presumably, former colonies are to be restored to their former owners.

Mrs. Essary ended her comments on the De Gaulle conference with the hope that we have not dedicated ourselves to the continuation of white ascendancy forever over the various parts of Asia, and that our men are not being killed for this purpose.

But it is obvious that De Gaulle thinks we are fighting for that reason and that the 40,000,000 Frenchmen on one side of the world are going to run the 21,000,000 Indo-Chinese on the other side after the war as before the war. The Dutch are moving in right behind our troops and raising the flag of the Netherlands as we reclaim places they formerly ran. Ditto the British and Australians.

It's a messy proposition.

TEA FOR TOO MANY.

A letter from a soldier overseas, sent to us by his wife because she thought we might like it [and we do], expresses some misgivings about tea. It was written in London.

"The English," says the soldier, "are getting revenge for the Boston Tea Party by means of a subtle program of indoctrination. They're transforming thousands of good American fighting men into an army of tea drinkers—and the American standard of living is at stake. The English intend, I fully believe, that before we leave their island we shall drink more tea than the brave boys of Boston so splendidly destroyed."

* * * *

We shall not quote the whole letter, but here's another paragraph:

"Female agents are employed to further the plot against us. Beautiful ladies invite us to garden parties, where rivers of tea are consumed. The cup is thrust into our hands with such dissembling graciousness that few of us have the character to resist. Memories of my personal experience make me shudder even now. For while I did repel the first advances, a day came when my defenses fell. I sipped—sipped the insipid, I might say. Then sipped again. And now—even tho my soul detests the stuff as much as ever, I can't say the same for my stomach. I not only tolerate the drink but demand it. You'll probably divorce me. I not only drink tea but get fussy about the way it is brewed. The hot water must remain in contact with the herb, I find, only as long as it takes to recite the words of "The Star Spangled Banner." [One hostess cited a 17th century formula, fixing the time limit as 'whiles you can say the Miserere Psalm very leisurely'. But I think the national anthem, which takes 30 seconds longer, evokes a better flavor."

* * *

The soldier closes by saying he hopes soon to be crossing the channel "to help lick the kaiser." And perhaps we should have mentioned in the first place that the letter was written in the other war. Anyway, the lady who sent it to us says her husband got back home all right and readily conquered the tea habit. But now their son, she fears, is somewhere "under the doodle-buggy skies of that same eternal England."

CLOSING FOR THE KILL.

A wall of fire rings the foe,
The death net closes fast,
From ev'ry side
In air and tide
The thunders smite and blast!

The fox and wolf are in a trap,
The jackal in a snare,
In west and east
The savage beast
Is cornered in his lair!

Right and Might are closing in
For the final kill,
With burning zeal
And vengeful steel,
And unity of will!

God has opened all the skies
And drawn the lightning's blade,
And sea and shore
Shake with the roar
Of His great cannonade!

Bivouac Under the Stars.

Gradually the man-made noise dies down. The shadows lengthen and merge with that imperceptible change which transforms day to night. From my place of vantage on the hill I can see the entire bivouac area. The silence settles over me like a cloak. Above me, seemingly, within arm's reach, are the stars—thousands of them shining like clear cut diamonds against the dark backdrop of the sky. The ordinary low trees and shrubs have taken on strange shapes, not unlike crouched figures, ready to spring. A faint mist has settled over the low-lying terrain, which only adds to the unearthly beauty of the scene before me. Suddenly a night bird swoops across the cleared space in front of me, its eerie cry breaking the hushed stillness. As tho by some preconceived signal, a whole family of frogs "ha-rump" themselves hoarse. From the surrounding trees nests of young birds whimper and cry at their rude awakening. Other winged creatures join in the nocturnal chorus, and a small furry shape bounds across my path. Just as suddenly as it started, it ends. Once more the night returns to its peaceful solitude. The spell is broken and I resume my walk along my appointed post.

W. F. H. asks: "Is it possible to get a loan to buy a lot on which to build a home when materials are available?"

Section 501 of the G. I. law provides for a loan to construct a home "on unimproved property owned" by a veteran. We interpret this to mean you must own the lot before you can borrow for the purpose of building a home.

COSMETICS AND SKIN IRRITATION.

SKIN blemishes due to nail lacquer may appear occasionally. In addition, for those who are acutely sensitive, leg makeup may lead to a type of irritation which will be responsible for considerable discomfort. Many of the dyes utilized for this purpose are similar to those which are used to color oleomargarine. While this material is harmless when taken internally, a few react adversely when it is applied to the epidermis.

With nail polish, we are dealing with resins, some of which may produce what is tantamount to a scalding effect. We call the malady "contact dermatitis" because the susceptible individual must form an intimate acquaintance with the chemical. When this occurs, symptoms vary from redness, swelling, and itching to peeling of the affected areas—the eyelids, neck, cheeks, and other regions of the body.

The only explanation for the fact that the eyelids become puffy is because the parts are touched by the decorated fingertips. If the digits are carried to the face, enough of the offending compound may be transferred to bring on typical manifestations.

One woman developed an eruption on the right leg because she employed the liquid on a run in her stocking. Another exhibited a pronounced eczema involving the face, arms, and upper portion of the chest. The lesions appeared near the latter site because she adjusted her shoulder straps periodically, the nails rubbing against the skin.

Strangely enough, allergy to one particular substance seems to increase the tendency of the system to react to others. Unless the cause is found and eliminated, intense itching may lead to scratching, with complicating symptoms.

Just what ingredient in the various tints causes the trouble may never be disclosed. We can test the victim repeatedly with every item in the combination and obtain negative results. But when milady uses the completed product, an outbreak will be observed. In other words, it is entirely possible that a new toxic agent is formed, which is not disclosed by the formula.

What to do is always the question. First we can remove the dye with a suitable solvent. Next, we can apply calamine lotion or some bland ointment that will be soothing. Compresses wrung out of boric acid solution will prove helpful. There is no way to hurry the disappearance of the local reaction, which must be allowed to subside in its own good time. Only a few weeks will be required in most instances.

One residue of this difficulty has been noted by a few sufferers—namely, that the skin remains discolored for a long period. There is a slight tendency to the deposit of pigment. While this duskiness can be disguished with powder, it constitutes a defect which no one should invite. Fortunately, only a small fraction of the population will prove to be allergic.

Hot Air Talk.

The slap-happiest tongues in uniform are those of the army air forces. Whatever they say, they say it their own way, and the wise man is he who wanders among them armed with a dictionary of air corps slang.

Several air corps coinages already have crept into general usage, such as Roger [for all right or OK or "I understand"], buzz [for dive low over an area], ground gripper [a gent who keeps his feet solidly on the ground], and chair borne troops, the latter originally applied to ground personnel of the A. A. F.

Many more, because of their colorful applicability, are sure to end up as permanent fixtures in the American tongue. Among these is peel off, meaning to turn a corner or leave a group of friends; dry run, for dress rehearsal or practice flight; and in the drink, for forced down at sea.

Some of the others are amusing, and if you want to be able to carry your end of the conversation around the air corps boys, it might be well to know a few. A cadet widow, for example, is a girl who dates many cadets. A coffee grinder is an engine. A bandit is an enemy plane. Baksheesh is an easy mission, junior prom a hot mission, and milkrun a routine mission.

Big friends are bombers, a big jeep is a big bomber, a glory wagon is a Flying Fortress, and a flying coffin refers to a dilapidated plane. To get cracking is to hurry up. To hang out the laundry is to drop parachutes. To spin the wheels is to waste time.

Overcoat means parachute. Prop wash refers to gossip. Madhouse refers to the control tower, and rainmaker is a modern Indian expression for meteorologist. Bath tub means ball turret, flakhappy means suffering from combat fatigue, and stuff refers to clouds.

One we can't figure out at all is raunchy. It means sloppy flying technique.

If however, you try to use air corps slang with any other group, even one as closely related as the anti-aircraft artillery, you will suffer. With the air corps the word "bogie" refers to unidentified aircraft. With the anti-aircraft boys the same word with a different spelling, bogey, designates the dual wheel axle or carriage a 90 mm. gun rides on.

The latter information comes from William E. Murphy, formerly a private in the ack-ack and now discharged because of an injury received from the same ack-ack. Mr. Murphy was distressed because the ack-ack boys sang the field artillery's caisson song for lack of one of their own. He went to work and wrote one that was accepted as the official ack-ack song at Camp Callan, altho still sung to the caisson tune.

The words are:

Bogey up! Bogey down!
Track that azimuth around!
Keep those nineties ahead of the mark!
Run 'em out! Turn about!
Get a light up in that cloud!
Hit that Zero, way up in the dark,
El-e-va-tion right! Now we've got the height,
Let's get some tracers in the sky.
Ar-till-er-y, the very best are we,
For the Ack-Ack is always in high!
For the Ack-Ack is always in high!

It's a nice song, but even Mr. Murphy admits only cannoneers can understand it. Thus he sends a list of definitions with it: To bogey up means to be ready to travel. To bogey down means to emplace for firing. [A good 90 mm. crew, he says, can bogey down and fire its first shell in 2½ minutes]. To track the azimuth is to keep on target in the horizontal plane. Keeping ahead of the mark is allowing necessary time for the shell to travel to the proper height and meet the target. The reference to light is for the moonlight cavalry, the searchlight boys, an integral part of ack-ack. And tracers come from the ever-present machine gunners.

"So," concludes ex-ack-ack Murphy, "We get every one into the song, and all the ack-ack boys are in high."

THE JEDGE HAS MISSOURI IN THE BAG.

Mountain View, Mo., Aug. 1.—Statements have been made in recent weeks by THE TRIBUNE as well as by other newspapers thruout the country to the effect that Missouri is one of the doubtful states in the coming Presidential election. I take exception to this statement for the following reasons:

We came down here to live eight years ago. When we first arrived there was just one Republican congressman in the entire state. We had a Democratic governor and a Democratic legislature. Every office in our home county was held by a Democrat. Vote Stealing Tom Pendergast was in full control of the election machinery of the state. Both of our United States senators were Democrats. It was indeed a lonesome state for a Republican.

During the last eight years the trend has steadily changed. Today we have a Republican governor and a Republican legislature and we will elect another Republican governor and a preponderantly Republican legislature this fall. Instead of one lone Republican congressman we now have 13 Republican congressmen and after the fall election we will have still a greater number. Sen. Champ Clark is headed for the customary lame duck parade and we will elect a Republican senator as sure as shooting. Every office in my home county [Texas] except one is now held by a Republican and just as soon as we can get to the polls we will see to it that the one lone New Dealer is relegated so far back in the hills that he won't know hoot owls from chickens.

The trend toward Republicanism is even stronger today than it has ever been and I will prophesy that Missouri will go Republican in November by more than 100,000 majority. Let us have no more worrying about Missouri being a doubtful state. As Date township goes so goes the nation.

We've been in France almost a month and a half now and practically every evening our unit mail orderly would crawl up to my slit-trench [the assault infantry moves too often to dig foxholes], with my daily copy of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Up to last evening the date of the papers had been running in the early part of May, but last evening, lo and behold, the invasion had begun according to THE TRIBUNE. I was overjoyed. Having been a Tribune reader for 22 years [I'm only 24 now—wasn't even interested in comics until I was 2] I never believe what I read until I read it in THE TRIBUNE. Now I know that this isn't just another rehearsal. Such service deserves more than this short note of appreciation but it's the best I can give at the moment.

BALLOT JUMBLE IN MARCANTONIO RACE IS PROBED

Quiz on 222 Margin with Only 66 Votes Cast.

New York, Aug. 4 [Special].—Marked discrepancies in the reports of election returns in one district of the newly formed 18th congressional district today introduced a new phase of the fight by Republicans and Democrats to contest the nomination of Rep. Vito Marcantonio by their parties as well as by the American Labor party, of which Marcantonio is a member.

The New York board of elections ordered inspectors in the 3d election district of the 14th assembly district to appear Monday morning to explain how Marcantonio could have won a Republican margin in that district of 222 votes when only 66 G. O. P. ballots were reported cast there in the primary last Tuesday.

Reports Are in Conflict.

Thomas Mallee, chief clerk of the board of elections, said the inspectors had reported to police that only 66 Republican ballots were cast, yet the same inspectors earlier had reported to his office that 304 were cast.

Mallee further said that 700 Republican ballots were received in the district, altho the elections board sent only 138, the number of Republican voters enrolled. He said the inspectors reported two blank ballots to the police but 243 blank ballots to the board.

Kennedy, Palmer Beaten.

Marcantonio, who was unopposed for the American Labor party nomination, defeated Rep. Martin J. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination by about 2,500 votes, and also defeated Navy Lt. Robert C. Palmer for the Republican nomination by an unofficial count of 2,933 to 2,650.

Today's disclosures by Mallee came after Palmer's representatives had made a study of primary day statistics with a view to demanding a recount.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan is checking registration records as a result of complaints by Kennedy and the Republicans that many signatures on Marcantonio's primary designation petitions were forged.

DEMOCRATS PICK SEPT. 11 TO OPEN STATE CAMPAIGN

Campaigning for the Democratic state ticket will start Sept. 11, a week after Labor day, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the state central committee in the Stevens hotel.

Three caravans will tour the state to seek out voters. One will be headed by Sen. Lucas, candidate for reelection, and Edward C. Hunter, nominee for lieutenant governor; a second will be led by State's Atty. Courtney, candidate for governor; Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, for congress at large, and Earl W. Merritt, for state treasurer, and the third will be directed by William Vicars, candidate for state auditor, and Sveinbjorn Johnson, nominee for attorney general.

Itineraries were laid out tentatively at yesterday's meeting, but an hour after the session so many changes had been suggested that, except for the general idea of covering the state, it appeared the routes of travel would remain indefinite until close to leave time.

Dewey Promises to Stop Confusion in Government

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 4.—Candidate Dewey this afternoon commended the joint accomplishment of 26 Republican governors here as assuring a more effective and efficient government in waging war, in settling the peace, and in serving America in the critical post-war years.

"The two day conference has been a complete success," said the Presidential nominee. "The unanimous statement of Republican policy on subjects controversial for 12 years will end the quarreling and bickering in Washington, D. C., with the election of a Republican administration. It will end conflicts between federal and local authorities, which have been shockingly wasteful and injurious to effective government.

Indebted to Governors.

"The nation is indebted to these Republican governors for this tremendous contribution to the capacity of government to serve the people of the whole country at a minimum of cost."

In addition to writing what is virtually a 14 plank supplement to the national Republican party, the two day conference organized the campaign for the November election, coördinating the activities of the states with those of the national committee.

No details of the campaign strategy were announced except a statement that it will be a vigorous fight to defeat President Roosevelt's fourth term aspirations.

A Spirit of Unity.

The 26 governors, from states comprising 75 per cent of the population of America, issued a joint statement summarizing the conclusions of the conferences.

"We have here achieved unity of thought between the Republican governors and the next Republican administration on matters which will deeply affect the future safety of our country, and the well being of our people," read the statement. "It is with this spirit of unity that we face the future, confident that translation of the principles we have stated is essential to the liberty and happiness of the American people."

The statement said that with the eastern seaboard predominating in the White House clique, including its communistic elements, "entire regions of our country have been without representation in the cabinet or in administrative agencies of the federal government."

The governors today released the final five planks of their 14 point statement of Republican policy.

Summaries of these five planks follow:

TAXATION—Taxes must be simplified and reduced after the war is won. Reconversion and peace time employment will require immediate reconsideration of the entire tax structure. Proper co-ordination of state and federal taxation requires elimination of much double taxation and relief from the intolerable burden on requiring our people to make innumerable reports.

Call for Fair Labor Law.

LABOR—The administration by the New Deal of existing labor statutes has been inefficient and arbitrary and has tended to promote rather than to allay industrial strife. An immediate drastic change in the spirit and methods of administration of these laws is required. The healthy functioning of our nation requires a body of laws protecting the rights of labor, of collective bargaining, and insuring fair standards of employment, the facilitation of coöperation between management and labor and providing for conciliation and mediation of industrial disputes.

Demands Cut in Spending.

PUBLIC EXPENDITURES—The cost of government must be made to fit the American pocketbook. Federal, state, and local governments must be constantly on the alert to see that public funds are not wasted and that the number of public employes is no larger than necessary. At present there is a great duplication of effort on the part of federal and state governments. This must be ended.

SOCIAL WELFARE, EDUCATION, AND PUBLIC HEALTH—Reorganization of the federal administration of welfare services, looking toward consolidation of agencies and simplification of procedure, is called for to avoid the present warfare among federal agencies and the resulting chaos in administration thruout the country.

Welfare Problem of States.

Administration of public welfare belongs primarily to the states because the problems are intimate and personal. Official responsibility may need to be spread to cope with unusual or severe burdens or where a community itself is in financial difficulty.

Post-war demobilization of arms workers will be an interstate problem calling for federal leadership and help.

Education of every child in America is a joint obligation of the local community, the state and the nation but the control of public schools should remain with the local communities and the states.

No Politics in Medicine.

Deficiencies in health of the nation, as disclosed by draft examinations, demand that states and local communities, within the limits of their resources, should provide better hospitalization, clinical treatment, and visiting nurse services. There would be no political control of the medical profession.

WATER RESOURCES—A policy of coöperation, coördination, and understanding among the various federal agencies and the states should be established. Such development should recognize and fully protect the rights and interests of the people of the several states in the use and control of water for present and future irrigation, waterways, power, flood control, and other beneficial uses.

Dewey today talked with Missouri's Republican congressmen and candidates and with the state's leaders in industry, labor, and agriculture and with members of its veterans, women's and Negro organizations. His special train is to leave tonight for his farm at Pawling, N. Y., where he will rest this weekend before returning to his Albany office on Monday morning.

DEMOCRAT VOTE SLUMPS 50% IN MISSOURI TEST

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 4.—A slump of more than 50 per cent in the Democratic primary vote on candidates for senator last Tuesday as compared with 1940 was shown today in an analysis of the returns. The Republican decrease ran less than 5 per cent.

The interpretation by Republicans as the conference of 26 G. O. P. governors came to a close was that the Democratic machine in the state is showing signs of decreptitude and disintegration. The state is regarded as more and more doubtful for the Democrats in November. Some experts are inclined to list Missouri today as among the toss-up states.

Democratic Vote Down 340,000.

Tuesday's voting was light, as it has been in other states due to the absence of voters in war service and defense plants. Figures by an analyst show:

The Democratic vote cast on candidates for senator was 340,000 lighter than in the 1940 primaries; the Republican vote polled on senatorship candidates was only 12,700 less than four years ago.

In 1940 the Democratic poll on senatorship in the primary was 656,501. Last Tuesday the unofficial figure placed it at 316,000.

Four years ago the Democrats had the state administration and the city hall in St. Louis. Now the governor and the mayor of St. Louis are Republicans.

Truman Loses Prestige.

The Republicans Tuesday cast a total of 275,000 votes on the senatorship contest. In the 1940 primaries the vote ran 287,784. The defeat of Sen. Clark, Democrat, by Atty. Gen. Roy McKittrick, is construed as a loss of prestige for Sen. Truman, Democratic nominee for Vice President, and Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, who was here for the closing days, supposedly to give a lift to Sen. Clark, who nominated Truman. Sen. Truman had tried to make it appear that President Roosevelt desired Clark to be returned to the senate.

The one issue raised by McKittrick in opposing Sen. Clark was the latter's nationalism and his stand for nonintervention before Pearl Harbor. The CIO political action committee supported McKittrick. The primary returns and the Democratic slump seem to bear out Clark's declaration that the election represents a "temporary triumph for the Communist-controled CIO in its efforts to take control of the Democratic party."

Clark lost St. Louis, one of his old strongholds, and the home of Hannegan.

Republicans Gain Steadily.

Gov. Donnell, who won the Republican senatorship nomination in a romp against six rivals, is regarded as strengthened by the defeat of Clark, who would have been a harder man for him to run against than McKittrick. The Republicans speak of a series of elections in the last few years that indicate the swing to republicanism in Missouri. Donnell was elected as governor four years ago by a plurality of 3,613—he was kept out of his seat for 45 days by an effort to steal the election from him. Two years ago the legislature, which had been Democratic, swung. It now stands 95 Republicans out of 150 members of the house; the senate stands 17 to 17.

In 1943 Roy D. Miller, Republican, was elected to the state senate in a district that was regarded as rock-ribbed Democratic.

SEARCY WARNS VETS TO BEWARE OF F.D.R. POLICY

Charleston, Ill., Aug. 4 [Special].—President Roosevelt's record in the treatment of war veterans was lashed today at the Coles county fair by State Sen. Earle Benjamin Searcy, Republican nominee for Supreme court clerk and himself a combat veteran of World War I. He represented the state and national tickets at G. O. P. day at the fair.

While winning this war, what can the veterans expect from the New Deal, Searcy asked.

Searcy said the record provides the probable answers.

"On March 26, 1943, Roosevelt vetoed a bill providing partial restoration of veterans' benefits taken away the year before.

"On May 28, 1937, Roosevelt vetoed a bill extending term insurance benefits to veterans."

Fundamentally the world never changes since it has common sense as a basis. Right will always be right. When the master race, with its duplicity, tried to crush America, fifth columnists all over the world, including this country, tried to pave the way for it. Tojo and Hitler wanted to dictate the terms of peace from the White House. Where are they now? Franklin D. Roosevelt and the American people thought differently. Now more than ever our Union must have strength in order to crush our implacable enemies in the final round. Let there be no pity. Remember the results of World War I! A crocodile can never grow feathers and a leopard can never change his spots. Buy more bonds. Henri Charpentier, Cafe de Paris.

DEMOCRATS PUT REP. McCORD IN TENNESSEE RACE

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 4 (AP).—Tennessee voters selected Auctioneer Jim McCord of Lewisburg and redheaded John Wesley Kilgo, Greenville attorney, as gubernatorial nominees for the November general election.

Democrats chose McCord, now representing the 5th district in congress, by a heavy majority. Returns from 1,577 out of approximately 2,300 precincts gave him 120,504 votes to John R. Neal's 7,672 and Rex Manning's 6,316.

Republicans seemed similarly emphatic in their choice of Kilgo, a member of the state legislature. Returns from 543 precincts gave him 22,302 votes to W. O. Lowe's 8,764 and H. C. Lowry's 3,251.

Rep. Albert Gore of Carthage, one of nine incument congressmen renominated by their respective parties, received a decisive answer from Democrats of the 4th district on whether he should return to congress or enter the army.

Gore, who stayed in congress at the special request of President Roosevelt following his induction, received 15,496 votes against 6,424 for W. H. [Peck] Turner, his opponent, in returns from 200 of 288 precincts.

Maid Takes Her Time, Her Whisky, Her Perfume

A new Negro maid disappeared from an apartment at 6807 Sheridan rd. yesterday with a $500 watch owned by Mrs. Fay Kriloff and two quarts of whisky, a bottle of perfume, and 50 pennies owned by Mrs. Leonard Friedman, they reported to Rogers Park police.

37 ELECTORAL VOTES IN SOUTH HELD ANTI-F.D.

Thirty-seven electoral votes of southern states are as good as counted against President Roosevelt, it was asserted yesterday at headquarters of the anti-New Deal American Democratic National committee. Organization work under way among dissident Democrats in the south, it was said, gives hope of possibly 75 votes swung from the President's traditional stronghold.

The estimates were made by Dr. Gleason L. Archer, national chairman, and Robert E. O'Brian, national secretary, of the committee. Both have just returned from tours in the south with information which they said enabled them to make a state by state account of prospects.

The 37 votes which they declare is a certain minimum against the fourth term are in Texas, Louisiana, and Mississippi. Anti-Roosevelt delegates from these states to the Democratic national convention met at the close of the session and laid their plans. The work now going forward is in organizing Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia.

Commando Kelly's Sixth Brother Now in the Army

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 4 (AP).—Another fighting Kelly—Edward, 19—brother of famed Tech. Sgt. Charles [Commando] Kelly, left tonight for an army training camp as a draftee. He previously served in the merchant marine. Five other Kelly brothers — Frank, Eugene, George, James, and John — also are in the army.

BROWNELL SETS VICTORY PACE IN G. O. P. PARLEY

BY GUY GENTRY.

Republican leaders from 11 midwestern states comprising the center of party strength and carrying 140 electoral votes met yesterday in the Stevens hotel with Herbert Brownell Jr., national chairman, to complete detailed planning of G. O. P. strategy in this area for the coming campaign. Fifty three leaders attended the conference.

"We got down to brass tacks," declared Brownell after an all-day session with the state leaders. "We went over in detail the plans for coördinating the national and state campaigns. This campaign is being planned right down to the ground. We are organizing on every level of party activity, including precinct workers."

McKelvie Western Head.

At the outset of yesterday's session Brownell announced the appointment of Samuel R. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska, as director of the party's western headquarters in Chicago. McKelvie at the same time announced the formal opening of the headquarters at 105 W. Adams st., will be held at 2 p. m. today with Brownell, Gov. Green, and other state and sectional leaders in attendance.

Yesterday's conference, one of a series the national chairman plans thruout the country in the next few weeks, ended in enthusiastic support from national committeemen and state chairmen for the program presented by Brownell. "Nothing like this has ever happened before," declared Werner Schroeder, national chairman for Illinois, at the conclusion of the session which, he said, was marked by complete unity on party strategy.

"He has both feet on the ground," declared John Tyrrell, Illinois state chairman, in speaking of Brownell. "After listening to him I am confident we are going to get the kind of fighting campaign that will mean victory for the national as well as state tickets in November."

Begin Preparatory Work.

What the campaign strategy is, Brownell indicated, will be disclosed as the party's plans unfold. General plans call for preparatory work thru August with national and state campaigns opening in full force in September and October. The general Republican program, as indicated by the conference of 26 governors in St. Louis and the midwestern meeting of yesterday, will be the exact opposite of one man government, Brownell indicated.

The national chairman will meet at 10:30 a. m. today with 102 county chairmen from downstate Illinois, the state's 25 state committeeman, and 80 ward and township committeemen of Cook county. After this meeting Brownell plans to leave Sunday for Indianapolis, where he will confer Monday with Republican leaders from Indiana, the only midwestern state not represented at yesterday's meeting.

SEN. MEAD REPLACES TRUMAN AS HEAD OF WAR INQUIRY GROUP

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—Sen. Mead of New York took over the chairmanship of the senate war investigating committee today with a pledge to keep politics out of its activities.

Sen. Mead.

Elected unanimously to succeed Sen. Truman, who led the committee thru three and a half years of inquiries into all phases of the home front war program, the New Yorker told reporters:

"It is my intention to carry on along the same nonpartisan lines and with the same investigative policies as were established under the chairmanship of Sen. Truman. The committee has authorized me to say that they completely and unequivocably support this position."

Truman resigned from the committee yesterday to devote his energies to his campaign as Democratic Vice Presidential nominee.

Mead is a Democrat. A one time railroad water boy at Mount Morris, N. Y., and later a Capitol hill patroiman on his congressman's patronage, he first entered congress as a member of the house in 1919. He was elevated to the senate in 1938 to succeed the late Sen. Copeland.

CHARGE BARKEEP WITH MURDER IN DEATH OF SAILOR

Jack Goodman, 20, a bartender in his father's tavern at 933 E. 43d st., was charged with murder yesterday as a result of the fatal shooting Thursday of Omer A. Kelly, 27, former Notre Dame football player and naval V-12 trainee at Purdue university.

Kelly was slain during a free-for-all fight between five men drinking together in the tavern. Goodman admitted shooting Kelly five times but said he did it in self-defense after Kelly had abused him.

An inquest into the slaying was continued until Aug. 18 to allow for further police investigation. Kelly was married and leaves a son, Thomas, 1.

BARE TEST TUBE FERTILIZATION OF HUMAN OVA

Scientists See Process for First Time.

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—The first artificial fertilization of human ova, or eggs, in a glass test tube, entirely outside the bodies of the mother and father, was announced today in the journal Science.

Altho this is technically the first actual step in test tube babies which for years have been rumored in laboratories, the experiments indicate absolutely no way to produce babies artificially.

The experiments constitute a medical study of the very first steps of human conception. Two of these human eggs divided, each into two cells, and a third divided further into three cells.

Visible for First Time.

These early steps are impossible to observe in life. The test tube technique makes them visible for the first time. Everything in this study was done under the eye of a microscope, with photographic attachments which made permanent records.

One special purpose of the study was to get information on the rather baffling problem of human sterility.

The work is reported by John Rock and Miriam F. Menkin of the department of gynecology, Harvard medical school, and the fertility clinic laboratory, Free Hospital for Women, Brookline, Mass.

Six Years' Work.

The human ova were obtained from women in their thirties, during surgical operations in which finding and recovery of these eggs was a by-product. One woman yielded 13 eggs. The Harvard scientists worked six years before they were able successfully to initiate the first steps in conception.

One of the early difficulties was keeping the human eggs alive long enough. Numerous techniques were tried. One that worked well was keeping them in serum taken from the mother herself.

Another problem was how long the male sperms had to be in contact with the egg or its immediately surrounding tissues before fertilization occurred. In the successful cases, this contact lasted about one hour.

Cleavage Appears.

During that time the microscope showed the sperms in great activity, clustering around the ovum, and making their way thru layers of tissue that normally inclose the human egg.

After fertilization, the first cleavage of the egg into two tissue cells, took place in from 40 to 46 hours. This cleavage is the first step in development of a living body.

Dismiss Driving Charge Against School Principal

Harry L. Pate, 55, of 5402 Dorchester av., principal of the Whitney grammer school, was dismissed in Traffic court yesterday by Judge William V. Daly after a charge of reckless driving was dropped for want of prosecution. Pate's automobile struck a truck driven by John Connell, 45, of 5018 W. 38th st., Cicero, June 28. Connell was slightly injured but told Judge Daly he did not want to prefer charges.

OBITUARIES

Michael A. Maher.

Michael A. Maher, 60, general agent of the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railway, died yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet. He lived at 613 Buell av., Joliet. He had been associated with the railroad since 1901, and became general agent in January, 1939. He is survived by his widow, Anna; a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Lynch, and a son, Lt. [j. g.] Robert J. Maher. Services will be conducted at 10:30 a. m. Monday in the chapel at 417 Taylor st., in Joliet.

Percy Lacey.

Percy Lacey, steward of the S. S. Heron Bay of THE TRIBUNE'S fleet of paper carrying ships, was stricken Wednesday aboard the ship and died shortly afterward in a hospital at Fort William, Ont., company officials were notified yesterday. Services will be held today in Hulse's funeral home, St. Catharine's, Ont. Mr. Lacey had been with the Quebec and Ontario Transportation Company, Ltd., operators of the fleet, more than 15 years.

Thomas P. Ryan.

Services for Thomas P. Ryan, former police lieutenant stationed at the Wabash av. station, who died Thursday in his home at 7700 Laflin st., will be held at 9:30 a. m. Monday in St. Sabina's church. He was 64. During his 35 years of service on the police force he received 15 citations for bravery, and twice received extra pay for special service. He is survived by his widow, Bridget, and a son, James E. Ryan.

William S. Sigler.

William S. Sigler, 51 president and treasurer of the Aetna Core Sand company, 11 S. La Salle st., was found dead of a heart attack last night in his room in the Morrison hotel. His home was at 7959 Crandon av., where he lived with his mother, Mrs. Schuyler Sigler. He also is survived by his widow, Mrs. Kathryn Hall Sigler, now in Colorado Springs, Col.

Miss Anna McMunn.

Services for Miss Anna McMunn, 69, of 327 N. Pine av., secretary at the Skillen and Richards company, elevator manufacturers, for 25 years, will be held at 3:30 p. m. today in the chapel at 318 N. Central av. She died Thursday in the West Suburban hospital. Surviving is her brother, Albert R. McMunn of Hoquiam, Wash.

Mrs. Annie Josephson.

Mrs. Annie Josephson, 69, of 752 Buena av., widow of Dr. Victor Josephson, Chicago physician for 40 years, died yesterday in Passavant hospital. Surviving are her two daughters, Mrs. Helen Norian and Mrs. Isabel Reimer, and a son, Stanley Josephson. Services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 5206 Broadway.

PUBLIC CARRIERS OVERLOADED BUT ADEQUATE: WMC

Overloading of Chicago's transportation facilities, now carrying the highest loads in their history, has not impeded war production seriously, altho some areas would be helped by extensions of and additions to present routes, the war man power commission said yesterday.

Lawrence Jacobson, deputy area WMC director, said a recent survey indicated "conditions could be improved considerably" by greater facilities in areas near the Douglas Aircraft plant in Park Ridge, the Republic Steel company plant on the south side and in the Clearing industrial district to the southwest.

Street car, bus, elevated and taxicab companies reported thru the office of defense transportation that they are carrying 10 to 11.5 per cent more passengers this year than in 1943, when the load was about that much heavier than in 1942.

PROWLER FLEES WITH $10.

Mrs. Ruth Segal of 6315 N. Francisco av. was awakened from a nap yesterday by a prowler who fled with $10 taken from her dresser.

WHEN PRESIDENT IS OUT OF TOWN, IT FOLLOWS HIM!

He May Issue Orders from Anywhere.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—Like Mary's lamb the White House and the nation's capital follow President Roosevelt wherever he goes, an official spokesman disclosed today.

The chief executive broke thru the secrecy which shrouds his war time movements in his radio address July 20, accepting the Democratic nomination for a fourth term. He reported he was in a west coast naval base on official business as commander in chief and indicated that he would not be back at his desk for some time.

Yesterday Mr. Roosevelt issued his order directing the army to seize the strike bound public transportation systems of the city of Philadelphia. The order was issued from the White House.

Signature Always Valid.

It was explained at the White House that the President's signature is valid wherever he affixes it and the site of the signing is always given as the White House.

"The White House is considered the place where the President is at any given time," it was explained, "it is traditional and legal. The place does not necessarily have to be 1600 Pennsylvania av."

In 1942 Mr. Roosevelt signed orders under the heading of "the White House" from Casablanca. At that time he was technically correct because Casablanca is Spanish for White House."

Last November and December he signed orders in Cairo and Teheran which carried the White House letter head. He also signed bills. At that time the attorney general's office issued an opinion holding that the President might legally sign bills within the prescribed 10 day period after passage, excluding Sundays and holidays, while he was absent from the White House even tho he should be out of the country.

No Provision Made.

During his overseas conferences last December, Mr. Roosevelt issued a proclamation designating New Year's day as a day of prayer. This proclamation was date lined Washington. The White House acknowledged that the President was not actually in Washington when the proclamation was signed, but insisted that Washington is wherever the President is.

The federal Constitution makes no provision for an acting President. Various state constitutions provide for acting governors.

Until congress reconvened last Tuesday the technical acting head of the government was Under Secretary of State Stettinius, but he had no official powers.

and again last evening, and both times voted unanimously to remain idle. The committee has representatives from every transportation company shop in the city.

"Until we get a written guarantee that there will be no further hiring of colored operators and no further instruction of the colored operators now in training, we will stay out," McMenamin announced.

Biddle Orders Inquiry.

Schweinhaut arrived in the afternoon to head an investigation ordered by Atty. Gen. Biddle.

In Washington McGranery had asserted that members of the executive committee "unquestionably" would be prosecuted under the Smith-Connally anti-strike act. "We are already in possession of considerable evidence as to who are guilty of these obstructive tactics," he said.

McGranery added that "the United States government will not compromise one iota in the regulations of the fair employment practices committee or the United States employment service requiring fair opportunities for employment of Negroes."

Army Uses Own Vehicles.

The streets were jammed again yesterday with huge army and navy vehicles pressed into service to carry workers to war plants and private automobiles operating on emergency gas rations.

Army and navy authorities reported last night that nearly 500,000 man hours have been lost in war production during the last four days because of absenteeism caused by the tie-up. The Philadelphia ordnance district estimated that 200,000 man hours were lost in manufacture of ammunition, artillery, and small arms.

War plant chiefs said they were trying to evolve emergency transportation systems for their key workers, but asserted there could be no return to capacity production until the stalemate was ended.

Douglas MacMahon, international secretary-treasurer of the CIO Transport Workers' union, bargaining representative for the employes, which has outlawed the strike, said three union shop stewards will be placed on trial by the union for aiding the strikers in defiance of TWU orders.

In making an appeal to the strikers to return to work, Gen. Hayes said: "Delay in restoring full operation is measured in the blood of American soldiers overseas."

HIGH MILITARY LEADERS ATTEND QUEZON RITES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—High ranking civilian and military officials of the government attended burial rites in Arlington national cemetery today for Manuel Quezon, first president of the Philippines who died Tuesday at Saranac Lake, N. Y. A 19-gun salute was fired in his honor.

In attendance were Adm. King and Gen. Marshall, representing President Roosevelt, and Sergio Osmena, Quezon's successor as president of the exiled Philippine government.

The body was placed in a mausoleum. It will be returned to the Philippines after the islands' liberation.

Flagman, Veteran of Two Wars, Dies Beneath Train

Walter L. Fleury, 47, a North Shore freight train flagman and veteran of both World wars, was killed by a North Shore passenger train as he sat on a rail near the Grand av. crossing in Waukegan. Other members of Fleury's crew expressed belief he thought he was sitting in the clear while waiting for the passenger train to pass. Fleury, who was unmarried, lived at 545 Cummings av. He was discharged from the marine corps about a year ago.

MAYWOOD 'HERO' IS UNMASKED AS MEMBER OF GANG

A new boy went to work as a slitter machine operator at the American Can company in Maywood a few weeks ago. He took his war job seriously, and had little to say to other operators. He told them his name was John—John Giordane — and sometimes he said he wished he were back in the war.

Donald Ciccotosto.

It was several days before they learned Giordane's full record. The operator looked almost too young to have earned the credentials he showed one noon to a few friends in the shop. John Giordane was a marine sergeant veteran of many South Pacific campaigns, beginning at Guadalcanal. He was discharged after being wounded on Saipan.

Hailed by Workers as Hero.

The factory workers hailed the newcomer as a hero. His picture was printed last week on the front page of the Maywood newspaper, he was feted at public ceremonies, and he told his story over the radio.

Maywood police received a telephone call Thursday night that a car had been parked at 8th av. and Main st. by three young men who looked suspicious to residents in the area. Sgt. Wesley Bonner and Police men H. J. Frantz and Edward J. Hartig found the car locked, and decided to wait for the men to return.

"One of them looked like the pictures of John Giordane," a man who had seen the three told the police.

Admits Story was False.

The police waited. The first man to return to the car was the one known to Maywood as Marine Sgt. Giordane. He said he was Donald Ciccotosto, 16, of route 1, Elmhurst. He had been in the marine corps for a few days in San Diego, Cal., when he was 13 years old, he said, but his mother effected his discharge.

Ciccotosto, police said yesterday, confessed that he was a look-out for a gang who had stolen the car on Aug. 1 from in front of 121 S. Wabash av. It is owned by F. W. Schofield of 2109 Vordan lane, Flossmoor.

Police said the gang took $143 in a robbery at a delicatessen at 402 S. 12th av., Maywood, on July 26 and that one of the members stole a pistol July 28 from a car owned by Jack Christiansen of 508 S. Cuyler av., Oak Park.

Women Struck with Gun.

The gang also attempted to snatch a purse from Mrs. Gustav A. Lundstrom of 1231 S. 16th av., Maywood, who was struck on the head with the pistol.

Ciccotosto, police said, implicated Edward Decker, 18, of 227 S. 17th av., Maywood; Ralph Battersby, 16, of 217 S. 8th av., Maywood, and Alfred Berndt, 18, 20? 21st av., Maywood, who were arrested yesterday.

The police said the marine papers issued to a John Giordane were genuine and they hoped to learn where Ciccotosto got them.

WOMAN, 33, DIES IN A 15 FLOOR PLUNGE IN LOOP

Miss Isabelle Dusberger, 33, of 5632 S. Sawyer av., plunged to her death yesterday afternoon from the 15th floor of a building at 110 S. Dearborn st. Her body was found on the roof of the Monroe theater. A physician, whose name was found in Miss Dusberger's purse, said he had been treating her for a nervous disorder. Her father, John, said she had been employed at the Dodge plant. He could give no reason for her act.

Miss Isabelle Dusberger.

J. L. LEWIS FOE WINS UMW VOTE AT SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 4 (AP).—John L. Lewis' own home local gave its blessing today to the man who hopes to replace him as head of the United Mine Workers of America. Harry Salkeld, recording secretary of local 764, UMWA, of Springfield, announced the local indorsed Ray Edmundson for the post by a vote of 111 to 17 for Lewis.

The local also passed over Lewis in naming its three delegates to the UMWA's biennial convention in Cincinati O., in September, but selected Edmundson—who transferred here from another local—as one of them.

Edmundson, Lewis' Illinois lieutenant for many years, resigned several weeks ago as Illinois president of the UMWA to lead an automony movement within the union and oppose Lewis for its presidency.

MECHANICS' TOOLS STOLEN.

Mechanics' tools worth $200 were taken in a burglary early yesterday from the garage at 6634 Cottage Grove av., the owner, Bob Hawes, reported to police.

Varied Events Outdoors Set for Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE overripe moon that will rise tonight above Chicago [weather permitting] has been the inspiration for the week-end's numerous outdoor events, which range from a moonlight yacht regatta to concerts under the stars and which should provide the most dyed-in-the-wool romanticist with settings after his own heart. The annual moonlight regatta sponsored by the Chicago Corinthian Yacht club will start at 8 o'clock tonight off the Montrose harbor headquarters, with the host club's entries in the cruising and universal classes racing against those from the Chicago, Columbia, and Jackson Park Yacht clubs. Since the Chicago Corinthian has no downtown clubhouse, the Columbia Yacht club, which is located near the finish line, has invited the skippers and their guests to top off the evening with a buffet supper and dancing.

Musical Events.

The rustic pavilion at Ravinia Park will be filled three times within 24 hours. Tonight Alexander Brailowsky appears again as piano soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, under the baton of Désiré Defauw. Following tomorrow afternoon's concert, the last of the regular Ravinia season, the Festival association will give its annual musical roundup for trustees, contributors, and members of the guaranty fund and coupon book sale committee. Between the two programs supper will be served from 6 to 8 p. m. Ravinia fans will not be seeing the last of the little park for the season, however, for a program of four chamber music concerts starts next Thursday, with the Budapest String quartet as performing artists. Mrs. William Sherman Hay has invited a few of her friends to come to her Winnetka home following tonight's concert to meet Mr. and Mrs. Defauw and the Brailowskys.

The last of the Women's Symphony orchestra concert series at Grant park will be given tomorrow night.

The Saddle and Cycle club is having a "Midsummer Night's Dream" party tonight, to which all of the feminine guests have been asked to wear light colored gowns, preferably white, for dancing on the outdoor terrace.

A water ballet and a high diving exhibition are included on the program for "Neptune night" tonight at the Barrington Hills Country club.

On the Calendar.

The christening of ships has become fairly commonplace in recent months, with launchings almost daily on sea and lake shores, but in

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 4.—Alexander Knox, whose "Wilson" is getting, and deserves, raves in New York, may be teamed with Paul Muni in Columbia's "Counter Attack." I think Mr. Knox's roles will have to be carefully selected. He'll be Wilson to the fans for a long, long time. . . . Yes, Damon Runyon will do a picture for Columbia with Al Jolson called "I'll Be Seeing You," which will be quite different from the story of Jolson's life. . . . Ernie Pyle and Joe E. Brown couldn't look less alike, but both have the same love for G. I. Joes. I've been getting letters from those Joes asking why Joe E. doesn't play Ernie in "G. I. Joe." . . . Charley Grapewin is just about to sell his big place in Corona; too big, too far away, too little gas.

This Has a Serious Side.

Gracie Allen had fun in Chicago, but most interesting was her luncheon with Mrs. Florence Walrath, head of the Cradle. Grace had brought the latest pictures of her two children [who came from there] to show Mrs. Walrath, and kept her entertained with all kinds of stories about them. . . . Coming home, Gracie whiled away the time playing gin-rummy with Milton Berle's mother. Took her for $3. Mrs. B. asked for a return date. . . . Too bad a scene of the Andrews Sisters, coaching a trio of G. I.'s in an imitation of the sisters for "Winged Victory," can't be put on the screen. . . . Another wire from Georgie Jessel: "Sorry, can't get Louella for Dolly Twins, so decided to dress up and play both twins myself." . . . Everything happens to Ida Lupino. She came home the other night to discover burglars had taken her front door. There was the household—open to the world, but nothing inside was touched. . . . Had a call from Pola Negri, who said, "I'm just finishing my book, titled 'Provocative and True,' and expect to leave with it in about two weeks for New York, where I'll look over a script of 'Enter, Madame.' It's been rewritten, and I may do it on the stage this fall. In my book I'm telling all. Don't much care whether I get another picture offer or not."

A Promise Is to Be Kept.

C. B. De Mille's next, which is "Rurales," started 30 years ago. In 1915, Pancho Villa was ruler of Mexico. Villa loved his country, wanted us to do likewise, so tried to get C. B. to tell the story on the screen. He wrote C. B., offered him fantastic inducements to make the film. Wrote he'd put half a million in cash in any American bank C. B. chose, also give him a guard of 300 men to meet him at the border and remain his personal bodyguard. C. B. could name his own salary. "Thanks for the promise of safety," wrote De Mille. "Dead I can do you no good; alive I can make you a good picture." Plans were going on, but just as De Mille was about ready to cross the border, Villa lost out. Later Pancho wrote, "It's a great tragedy, but I hope some day you will make a picture of my beloved Mexico."

Expensive for Frankie.

It's not true that Frank Sinatra is trying to get out of his radio show, but it is true that it costs him more than $1,000 a week to do it. He pays all the line charges. . . . Groucho Marx, returning from New Orleans, wanted to adopt an Indian baby on the train, but Indians love babies, too. . . . Harpo's adopted his second son and named him Alexander Marx. His first boy is William Woollcott. He's done all right for his old friend, the late Alexander Woollcott. . . . Mary Livingstone at a party recently was fingering her new string of pearls. When some one commented on their beauty, she said, "Well, they cost over $100,000. And if you must know, I now have over a million dollars' worth of jewels." . . . Van Johnson and Mrs. Keenan Wynn at the Mocambo were so mobbed they ate dinner in Charlie Morrison's private office. . . . Metro is rushing another story about "The Thin Man" for Myrna Loy and Bill Powell. I've always maintained it's not the public who forgets—it's the producers. But this time both remembered. . . . Jinx Falkenburg and her friend, Consuela Valesques, who wrote "Besame Mucho," are planning a joint good will tour south of the border. Consuela got only $60 for that song. But with Jinx's help she's upped that amount considerably.

3,000 Will Sing Handel Chorus at Music Fest

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus," from the "Messiah," will be presented again this summer at the 15th annual Chicago Music Festival, to be held Saturday night, Aug. 19, in Soldiers' field. Under the baton of Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director, this inspiring work will be sung by more than 3,000 choristers near the close of the festival, dedicated to the fighting forces of America. The singers will be accompanied by the festival orchestra.

Dr. Edgar Nelson.

Dr. Nelson has announced two rehearsals. The first will be held in Orchestra hall at 6 p. m. Monday, Aug. 14. The second practice will be at Soldiers' field at 8 p. m. Friday, Aug. 18. Only those who appear at the rehearsals will be admitted to the chorus the night of the festival.

The meetings also will be held for rehearsal of John Alden Carpenter's "Song of Faith," which will be presented in Soldiers' field by the festival chorus, the festival radio choir, and the festival orchestra. Dr. Nelson described this choral composition as a great utterance of faith in our country. It includes American song themes and closes with a narration of the words of George Washington.

Mr. Carpenter, who will be guest of honor at this year's festival, and Mrs. Carpenter will return to Chicago from their summer home in Beverly, Mass., to be present both at the festival luncheon Friday noon, Aug. 18, in the Terrace Casino of the Morrison hotel and at the spectacle in Soldiers' field the following night.

Thru the Looking Glass

On muggy days, one of woman's best friends is her dusting powder, particularly if it's fine textured and fragrant. A light veiling of powder makes the skin feel cooler, the clothing far less sticky. It scents you, too, just delicately enough to give you a sense of well-being without a fear of being overly perfumed—which is a fatal error in hot weather.

One of our own lifesavers this steaming summer has been a bath powder that is distinctly inexpensive, but just exactly what we like in muggy weather. It's as fine as the lightest of face powders and its scent is a perfect hot weather choice . . . mountain heather, clean and light, and not sicky-sweet. There's a cologne to match it that you'll like, too.

A bath powder like this can be used a dozen times in the course of a screaming hot day as a comfort aid. It's practically a must after your bath or shower in the morning, of course, but if you're smart you'll put it to work for you at regular intervals, filming it, whenever you have the time and the privacy, over your legs, under your arms, and all over your back. You can't enjoy bath powder so much or use it so lavishly in winter when you wear dark dresses to which it will stick, but you should simply wallow in it in the summer time. Dust it inside your shoes, and over your toes, and be sure you sprinkle it rather liberally all over the inner side of your girdle. That garment, ordinarily something of a hair shirt on hot days, will feel cooler against your skin and it will slide on with much less effort.

Rev. D. J. McHugh Retires After 40 Years at De Paul

Festival Test Won by Blind Accordionist

Irvin Kajer, 20, of 6410 S. Karlov av., last night knew from the burst of applause that swept the Grand ballrom at the Drake hotel that his accordion had won for him first place in that classification in the Cook county semi-finals of the Chicago Music Festival instrumental competition.

A bright smile lit up his face as his ears told him what his eyes could not—for he is blind.

He learned music by braille, he said after the contest, and new music is translated into braille for him by the Chicago Public library. His accordion, he said tenderly, was his whole life, and his music talent compensates in large measure for the loss eight years ago of his sight.

Second place in the accordion contest was won by Raymond Johnson, 15, of 6731 Loomis blvd., and third by Carol Wenzlaff, 12, of 6308 Indian rd.

Other winners in last night's semi-finals were:

Trombone—First, Ralph Meltzer, 15, of 3740 N. Hermitage av., a sophomore at St. Mel's High school, who plays in a 13 piece swing band composed of youths his own age; second, Art Borman, 16, of 4741 Diversey blvd., and third, Ray Drebing, 15, of 8825 Harper av.

Piano—First, Thomas La Ratta, 14, of 5515 Jackson blvd., a sophomore at Loyola High school, who last night was participating in his first Music Festival competition; second, Valentina Morales, 16, and third, Rosemary Anderman, 13, of 1230 N. Austin blvd., Oak Park.

Last night's winners will compete again Saturday, Aug. 19, in the final contest to determine who will play that night before the huge throng expected at the festival in Soldiers' field.

The accordion finals will be held at 1 p. m. on Aug. 19 in the Knickerbocker hotel, and the trombone and piano finals will take place at 9 a. m. in the Medinah Temple.

How to Avoid Accidents.

You've seen all those office instructions on how not to have an accident. Continental Agents' Record has reduced it to a system.

1. Keep away from automobiles. Thirty-five thousand were killed and 1,300,000 injured in automobile accidents last year.

2. Don't go home. Home accidents accounted for 33,000 deaths and 4,850,000 injuries last year.

3. Give up sports, recreation, and vacations. Outdoor accidents account for 15,000 deaths and 1,800,000 injuries annually.

4. Keep away from the office, store, or shop. Occupational accidents cause 17,000 deaths and 1,400,000 injuries yearly.

5. Don't travel. Four thousand are killed and 200,000 injured in accidents that happen to people who use trains or steamships. Beyond all this, millions contract illness and thousands die as a result. So, remain permanently in bed—wear a mask—and don't breathe while any one else is in the room.

On the Memo Pad.

You doubtless have heard about the pretty triplets who work for the Rock Island in East Moline. They're the photogenic Wilford sisters. . . . Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Mrs. John Dwyer, a Red Cross volunteer nurses' aid who has given 1,500 day time hours of service to the blood donor center, 5 N. Wabash av. and has contributed six pints herself to the plasma pool, yesterday accepted for the Red Cross the $100 in small coins which patrons of the RKO Grand movie theater, Clark and Randolph sts., have tossed into a war fund "wishing well."

Mrs. Dwyer, whose service record is an inspiration to other Chicago homemakers to devote some of their day time hours to Red Cross work, has four sons in uniform. First Lt. John E. Dwyer is attached to a Fortress squadron in the Mediterranean theater; 2d Lt. Gerald P. is with the infantry in France; Pvt. William T. is at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., with a field artillery outfit, and Aviation Cadet Robert A. is taking instruction at Shepard field, Texas.

Mrs. Dwyer lives at 6801 Bennett av. The theater lobby wishing well was originated and is supervised by the Grand's chief electrician, Charles Tyler, who has two sons in service.

Because the Red Cross home service corps, which handles problems of service men and their families, has appealed for more volunteer staff assistants to do typing and stenography connected with the corps, Mrs. Farwell Winston, chairman of staff assistants, will open a new training course Aug. 21, 23, and 25 in room 405 at headquarters, 529 S. Wabash av.

The class, for day time workers only, will meet from 10:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. on all three days. No phone registration will be accepted. Women with requisite office skills and day time hours to give are urged to enroll in person.

Among the WACs on duty in Great Britain with the European wing of the army air transport command are several from the Chicago area, a recent communication from European theater of operation headquarters reports. They are staff sergeants Mary Barnett, Ruby Halladay, and Pearl Small and Pvt. Gladys Sullivan, all of Chicago; Pvt. Betty Lund, Aurora; Corp. Evelyn A. Nollen, Evergreen Park; Corp. Irene Witek, North Chicago; Pvt. Rosemarie Dudzik, Whiting, Ind., and 1st Lt. Dorothy J. Schubert, Racine, Wis.

The women are the first to serve with the ATC in Britain and are on duty in the headquarters of the commanding general of the European ATC wing, one of the key parts of the command's globe-girdling delivery system for men, mail, cargo, planes, and arms to battle fronts.

The WAC unit is composed of officers and enlisted women selected from various ATC bases in the United States and includes specialists in air traffic, motor vehicle drivers, secretaries, stenographers, and other clerical and office administrative and communications personnel.

Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION.

What was your most embarrassing experience as a salesgirl?

WHERE ASKED.

Polley, Inc., Lingerie, 306 S. Michigan av. [Asked of salesgirls.]

THE ANSWERS.

Anne Hockl, 8125 Ingleside av.—A British officer came into the shop and asked me for a kippernick. I didn't know what he wanted so I proceeded to show him all the dainty pieces of lingerie in the shop. He tried to describe it. As a last resort, I brought out a teddy. That's what he wanted and I certainly was relieved.

Frances Polley, Blackstone hotel —There was a bright red gown of sheer chiffon in the window. I saw a man looking at it. He'd walk away from the window, come back and look at it from all angles, and then ponder for a while. Finally he came in and asked, "How much is that soul-stirring nightgown?"

Frances Kibort, 812 W. 33d st.—Two of my best customers were looking at some of our sheer nighties. They thought they were gorgeous but wanted to see what they looked like on a model. They asked me if I would try the gowns on. I could feel myself turn scarlet as I paraded for them in different styles.

Lillian Curran, 5100 Monroe st.—A gentleman came in and said he wanted to buy the little woman a gift. He asked for panties. I showed him a size 26. He said: "Those ought to fit. You may wrap them up." It was amusing but also embarrassing for me when the "little woman" came in to exchange the size 26 for a 44.

Jessica Keefe, 843 Agatite av.—I was trying to sell a $35 slip to a customer. It was a French slip with bars of music on it. The gentleman asked me to translate the music and sing it for him. The song was "O, What a Beautiful Morning" and I did my best to sing it. My audience laughed but I made the sale.

Mabel Egan, 3538 S. Western av. —When I was a cosmetic clerk in a department store I was demonstrating a facial mask that was to be left on the face for a half hour and then rinsed. A woman rushed in and said it was a fake. She had left the mask on all night and thought her face was paralyzed.

Be Flexible in Management of 5 Year Old

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Frequently it is necessary for parents to be reminded that growth in their children is bound to mean change. If we will keep reminding ourselves of this, it will help us over a great many bumps, make us patient and optimistic, and help us to manage our children better.

It is quite a long time since I have really written much about 5 year olds and yet I think that that is an important turning point and one in which lots of trouble begins in families. So today I think it would be a good idea if I pointed out for mothers some of the definite changes that growth brings in children at about the age of 5. If yours has not quite yet reached that milestone, be prepared, for it will help you a great deal.

Your 5 year old is now past little childhood, is filled with a sense of power and independence, which it is quite natural for him to express in constant activity. So the gentleness and docility of babyhood give way to a vigorous physical freedom.

Another change is usually seen in the 5 year old's language. He is quick to pick up new words and expressions, and, if some of them are slang and some of them are "bad words," he adds them to his vocabulary just the same.

I think probably these are the two changes that cause the most trouble in the life of 5 year olds and their parents; but it isn't enough just to recognize them. What we really want to know is, "What shall I do?"

The first thing to do is to stop treating your 5 year old like a baby. Give him more freedom and independence, altho, of course, you must use your judgment about this for his sake. Let up on the constant giving of directions.

Let him do just as many things as he can for himself around the house, even if he doesn't do them well.

Give him playthings needed for vigorous activity outdoors.

As to his strong language, that is only his way of experimenting, so don't take it too hard. This is an adventure in speech just as climbing a tree is a physical adventure. Let him get some of it out of his system without too much comment.

In a word, be flexible in your management and fit your demands and your handling of him to your 5 year old's changing needs.

Bid One Trick Short of Game May Be Right

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

In most cases it does not pay to "hang" one trick short of game when the bidding by both partners has been constructive and there has been no sign of strength from the enemy. There are, however, notable exceptions to this rule. For example:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ Q 8 7 6 5 2
♥ 2
♦ K 10 4
♣ 7 6 2

WEST
♠ A J 9 4
♥ K J 5
♦ J 7 3
♣ K J 8

EAST
♠ 10
♥ 8 7 4 3
♦ Q 9 6 5
♣ A 5 4 3

SOUTH
♠ K 3
♥ A Q 10 9 6
♦ A 8 2
♣ Q 10 9

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass [!]	Pass

South did not do well at his two no trump contract—but he did a great deal better than if he had been forced up to the point where West was lying in wait with a penalty double!

North fully realized that his two spade call was misleading and therefore dangerous, but he took that action because he was sure that South would get few if any tricks out of the North hand at a heart contract. This was a fairly logical maneuver on North's part; it was quite true that two hearts would not have been as good a contract as two spades. When, however, South then tried to "get somewhere" by bidding two no trump, North saw that almost any contract, including the despised two no trump, was acceptable so long as it wasn't doubled! On that sound basis, North passed—and as a result, West was left with an unsprung trap! West had been lying in ambush from the very start, and had resisted the temptation to double both two hearts and two no trump because it looked like the opponents were going higher. North's abrupt pass spoiled this coup, and tho South went down two tricks, the penalty was a mere 200 points.

'Miss Lieutenant' . . . . . By Nina Wilcox Putnam

(Copyright: 1944: By Ines Eliot.)

SYNOPSIS: Lt. Carol Melton, awakened by an alarm clock, realizes she is not in Kansas, but is an army nurse in North Africa. Her patient, Col. Barlow, is in love with her, but a childhood sweetheart stands between them. Carol's identical twin, Lita, married a Frenchman and lives on the Riviera. Carol overhears a military conference in which the need for maps and photographs of the crooked little towns along the Riviera is discussed. She informs Col. Barlow that Lita's husband has a collection of maps, drawings, and photographs of all secret passageways along the coast, that she was educated in Nice, and speaks French fluently. She persuades the colonel to recommend her for the mission. Carol is called to American headquarters and transferred to intelligence. Two experienced commandos will accompany her. Col. Barlow confides to her that information, known only to trusted officials about the troops in Africa, has been leaking out. The informer knows the Riviera well. Taken by ferry to a submarine, Carol discovers one of the commandos is Bright Stoner of Kansas; the other, Dodger Dugan. She and Stoner reminisce.

INSTALMENT VI.

ON SHORE.

It was dark again when the submarine surfaced in a velvety void unbroken except by the movement of the water. When the orders to get ready for shore came they had not long to wait. Judging from the warmer air and the unmistakable odor of decayed granite which blew out to them on the cruel, subtly irritating wind of the district, they were not far from the southern coast of France.

Suddenly she felt Bright's strong hand under her elbow, steadying her on the shallow deck. Out of the darkness came a song, melancholy, broken.

"Frere Jacques . . ."

A fishing smack, manned by a lone figure, came up like a ghost, wavered out of the vastness and fumbled its way alongside. The sub's commander pressed her hand, murmured, "Good luck, lady!" She heard Bright confirming the return rendezvous for five days hence. Then they were in the smack, the three of them and the sail had bellied to the wind. The submarine, their last link with safety, vanished like a dark shadow.

"Sure you know your way around?" Bright asked Carol. "This is all strange grazing ground to me."

"It's going to look strange all right, where I'm taking you first," she murmured. "A nice little cut-throat spot where I can get some information. But it will be all right—maybe."

"Wait till I get you out on the desert sometime!" he hissed at her.

After what seemed hours, the shore line became visible. There were no lights in Nice as they approached obliquely, but the heavy clouds were gone and the moon was struggling thru. The great white hotels along the Promenade shimmered in the night recognizably; the Negresco with its fantastic, statured doorway, the Gould Casino, the Hotel Ruhl on the corner of a black, blank space which would be the Jardin Victor Hugo. The Casino de la Jettie still thrust its bulk out into the sea but there were gun emplacements where once she had eaten on the famous balcony. The wind had died down and they were so near in shore that they could hear the waves rattling the heavy pebbles of the stony beach. To Carol's surprise their boatman ignored the quays and rounded the small, rocky point just beyond them.

Here was the first of the villas at the foot of Mont Boron, a small piece of white elegance set amid a thick tangle of neglected garden. A modest boatshed jutted over a water slip at one end of the property. Jean, the fisherman, lowered his sail quickly and quietly, dismantled the loosely made mast and they slipped under the shed into intense darkness and for a moment or two waited in a silence. Then Jean, still whispering, explained. This was the deserted villa of an Englishman, closed since his flight into Spain. The caretaker, a Nicoise, was a member of les services, as the underground was called. He was so far unsuspected. The caretaker would ignore them, but this was as far as he, Jean, could go.

"What's the territory like between here and where we're headed?" asked Bright.

"Villas with high garden walls for about half a mile along the lower Corniche road," Carol told him. "It's the only way. There's no path along the waterfront. We've got to get back into Nice, past a group of sea-food places—probably well guarded. Then there is a short cut—a nasty little piece of street which leads into the market place, then we cross the market and go into the old city."

"Which I take it is a stinker?"

"It never was exactly safe after dark even in peace times. But safer now, I expect, than the modern town, because it's a natural for underground work. The widest street is narrow for a baby carriage and the old flat houses run to six and seven stories."

"And what do we make there?" Bright added.

"A very ancient little restaurant called Au Petite Marmite," Carol explained. "It belongs to the husband of my old bonne, Mme. Victorine. She brought us girls up and she's completely to be trusted because she loves us. The last time I was here, Mme. Victorine was still with Lita at the castle. If Papa Brochard—that's Victorine's husband—is still alive and at his old place, we've got a starting point. Brochard will know about Lita, and whether it's safe to go to the castle. Besides, it's more than five miles down the coast to Lita's place, even if we wanted to risk going there blind."

"All right!" Bright's manner was brisk and businesslike. "Let's go, or we won't get set before daylight!"

They thanked Jean, made arrangements to meet him at the same place for the return trip, and began the ascent of the steep garden path. At the heavy wooden gate in the upper wall, Carol raised the little Judas window and looked into the street. There seemed to be no one in sight, but it was impossible to tell for sure in that uncertain moonlight. Bright unbolted the door with practiced, skillful noiselessness and at a signal from him the other two followed out into the moon riddled Corniche road.

They walked single file in catlike fashion, their soft soled shoes making no sound on the uneven paving. Carol found herself between Bright who led, and Dodger who brought up the rear. Keeping so close to the high walls that overhanging vines occasionally brushed their faces, they made good time. Carol felt queerly elated. As they had left the boat Bright had given her a wicked looking gun equipped with a silencer, and it lay now, cold and heavy, inside the folds of her blouse. Her hand kept straying to it in a sort of anxious curiosity.

They went on and on until the lack of being challenged became more nerve racking than any encounter could have been. There was no sense or peace in the silent beauty of the curving road. Suddenly the high walls ended and on their left the Mediterranean lay naked and sparkling under the moon. Directly ahead on their right was the group of waterfront restaurants to which Carol had referred, their shutters up, their awninged terraces deserted. Suddenly Bright motioned them back to the last of the sheltering walls. They flattened themselves against it and he spoke in a whisper.

"How far along here before we turn?"

"The next block, to the right beyond that big building. I'd better lead now."

"There's some one on the middle terrace," his voice was all but inaudible. "Only one, I hope. Wait a moment, we'll see!"

For an eternity Carol, straining her eyes into the mottled darkness, could see nothing and she wondered what it was that Bright had discovered. Then at last there was the click of heavy boots on stone. A German helmet was silhouetted against the glitter of the sea as the soldier paced slowly toward them.

"Only one," Bright grunted. "When he turns, I'm going to bulldog him. You and Dugan slip past and run for the mouth of your alley while I'm busy!"

ON SHORT WAVES

LONDON.

BBC news reports are currently broadcast from London on the following schedule. The frequencies (wave lengths) are given in megacycles: 5 and 6 a. m.—11.68 mcs.; 8, 10, and 11 a. m.—15.31; 4 p. m.—11.68; 4:45 p. m.—11.93 and 9.58; 4:30 p. m.—11.68; 5:45 p. m.—11.93, 9.58, and 11.68; 8 p. m.—9.58, 6.11, and 7.26; 9 p. m.—9.60 and 6.01; 9:45 p. m.—9.58, 6.11, 7.26, and 9.51; 11:30 p. m.—9.58, 6.11, and 7.26.

CALL MEETING TO STUDY WAVE LENGTH CHANGE

U.S. Seeks to Prevent Crowding of Air.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—Because of the overcrowding of radio waves an international conference has been called to organize frequencies for more efficient postwar use. This became known today in a state department announcement that representatives of the International Radio Industry in this country had been invited to a meeting here Aug. 11-12 to consider government proposals for re-allocating wave lengths.

Drastic measures to make certain wave length bands available for aviation ground communications, navigation aids, and other technical uses are under study by American officials. One measure recommended by the interdepartmental radio advisory committee is elimination of all direct international short wave broadcasting of entertaining or informational nature.

Would Broadcast Directly.

As a substitute the committee suggested that programs now put on international short wave broadcasts be sent either by short wave relay or by cable or other means of relay to domestic stations over the world which would broadcast them directly to the ultimate listener.

Adoption of this suggestion would eliminate the kind of radio broadcasting which all belligerent nations now use to get their propaganda to their enemies.

A hot controversy is expected over the recommendation for elimination of short wave broadcasting and some government officials feel it is desirable from an engineering point of view, but impracticable from an economic and cultural viewpoint.

Plan Another Parley.

The recommendations on which this country finally decides will be presented as the American plan for revision of international radio frequencies at a conference to be held as soon as possible after the end of the war.

The proposed meeting will be one of a series which the state department's division of telecommunications is preparing as a means of improving the exchange of information around the world.

Another conference may be held with the British this fall or winter to work out an agreement on commercial communications, both wireless and cable.

One of the new elements in radio which makes the old assignment of wave lengths out of date, it was said here, is the rise of television. Another is the development of the "frequency modulation" kind of broadcasting.

GREAT LAKES NEGRO PROGRAM STARTS TONIGHT

"Men o' War," a new series of radio programs written, produced, and presented entirely by the Negro personnel of the Great Lakes Naval Training center, will be broadcast over WBBM-CBS from 11:05 to 11:30 tonight and successive Saturday nights. This is the only all-Negro service show to be presented weekly over a network, the navy reported. The show includes rhythm by the swing band, spirituals and marching songs by a 200 voice regimental choir, martial music by a military band, songs by an octet and quartet, and information about the navy. Each week a recruit will give his reactions to navy training and experiences.

Stage Note

The Rialto theater will close for one week at the end of August and, reopening early in September as the Downtown theater, will be dedicated to "music of the future," centering attention on name bands and including feature pictures and vaudeville.

Park Concert Is Tuneful, Tho Lacking Color

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

The second concert of the Woman's Symphony orchestra at Grant park last night was notable principally for the well devised program of the conductor, Jerzy Bojanowski. Without entering the field of debatable modernity and at the same time avoiding those endless repetitions of a constantly narrowing repertoire, Mr. Bojanowski discovered music neither too old nor too new that made moderately pleasant listening of a summer night.

Goldmark's "In Springtime" overture, for all its naive trappings of bird calls and romantic rustlings, is a sound and tuneful piece and a welcome change from the customary supply of openers. Dohnanyi's Suite, Opus 19, is also attractive music, as every old time habitue of Orchestra hall well knows, where it was one of the sprightly and standard items of Frederick Stock's repertoire.

Therein lay the difficulty with last night's performance, for no one who held a memory of the virtuoso reading the Chicago Symphony used to give of this work under Mr. Stock, could be very well satisfied with the tentative and often labored account of the Woman's Symphony. The best moments were those when the string soloists—Evelyn Davis, violin; Stella Roberts, viola, and Alice Lawrence, cello—gathered close around the microphone for the nostalgic Romanza.

The orchestra's anemic tone—despite the presence of seven male stalwarts—held over into Verdi's overture to "Sicilian Vespers," but because he wrote delicately and sparingly in at least the first two of his three "Peintures," Felix Borowski's music came off better. The orchestral part of the program concluded with the waltzes from Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier."

Pierre Andre coined the summer's prize boner when he introduced the soloist, Thomas L. Thomas, by remarking that the soloists this season "had been young and talented women, with one exception." The humor, unconscious or otherwise, was welcome, for there was little of it in Mr. Thomas' singing of "Largo al factotum" from "The Barber of Seville." Nor did Mr. Thomas convey abandon to the joys of Bacchus in his first encore, the drinking song from "Hamlet," which, for all one could discover from this interpretation, might have been a harangue on prohibition. "Ol' Man River" came up as a second encore but had little of "Showboat" quality.

Mr. Thomas' voice has certain stock virtues, such as a pleasant quality and a reasonable degree of flexibility, but he must indulge in some musical callisthenics before he can expect to be taken seriously as an interpreter.

Luxembourg Group Tops Its Bond Quota by $65,000

The Luxembourg group has oversubscribed its quota in the 5th war loan drive by $65,000. With $175,000 as the objective, the Luxembourgers had purchased $240,000 by the close of the drive, it was announced by Harry Trausch, war bond committee chairman. This was the fourth consecutive time that the goal was exceeded in war bond campaigns. The committee was assisted in its work by Joan Marsch, counsul general of Luxembourg.

Plan 'V-Day' Services in Rockefeller Chapel

Plans have been announced for V-day services in Rockefeller memorial chapel, University of Chicago, when guns cease firing on either the European or Asiatic front. The services will be an hour long and designed to meet spiritual needs of Protestants and Jewish groups located in the university area.

Jumper Dress

SIZES
10-40

A hint of autumn fashion is in this jumper model which contrasts a dark skirt and top with a light blouse. The latter has smart tailored lines which set off the broad shoulders of the jumper. Style No. 3724 is designed for sizes 10 to 40. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 35 inch or 1½ yards of 54 inch material for jumper; blouse, 2 yards of 35 or 39 inch fabric.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The summer fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Services offices, is 15 cents, 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

On the Record

By Claudia Cassidy

Beecham Batch.

One of the gala paradoxes of music is that while Thomas Beecham is physically a sprightly conductor, given to flailing arms, jaunty acrobatics, and highly audible warblings, admonitions, and approbations, his records are the essence of mellifluous discretion. Perhaps the record companies muzzle him before turning on the sound track. No matter—his albums are collector's items, and Columbia reissues another batch in company with a new set of Mozart's Symphony in C major, No. 34, Köchell 338 [M-548; three 12 inch records]. All are played by the London Philharmonic, too expert a group to suffer more than a smile from its ancient nickname, the "Pillharmonic."

Thomas Beecham.

The C major is early Mozart, contemporaneous with the Symphonie Concertante just played at Ravinia [and available in a good Victor album featuring Spalding and Primrose with the orchestra of the New Friends of Music, Stiedry conducting]. Its mood, too, is that of chamber music, particularly in the gentle andante for bassoon and strings which underscores the bland tone of violas. The performance is typical of Beecham Mozart, which means topflight, but if you are just starting to collect that shelf of treasures, try the "Haffner" before you buy.

Re-released is Beecham's superb set of the first suite from Grieg's "Peer Gynt" [X-180; two 12 inch records], an exceptional job in performance and engineering, and Bizet's "Carmen" suite [X-144], far more deft on records than in Beecham's sometimes wayward way with the opera.

Poignant Reminder.

One of the irreparable losses to the record library is the fact that so few of Frederick Stock's master performances were adequately set down. But when he and the Chicago Symphony orchestra recorded Enesco's Roumanian Rhapsody No. 1, with Reznicek's "Donna Diana" on the final side [Columbia X-203; two 12-inch records], you at least got the authentic flavor of their caliber those remembered nights at Orchestra hall. Looking back in my scrapbook, I find this review of the original release, "The refulgence of the strings, the almost offhand glitter of the showpiece that sends every one home happy, the unmistakable command that is Stock at the helm—these make you willing to point to this album and say, 'That's Our Orchestra.'"

Extras.

People who admire Nelson Eddy more than Gilbert and Sullivan may want to know about the reissue of Mr. Eddy's patter songs with chorus and orchestra under the direction of Robert Armbruster [Columbia M-440; three 10 inch records]. And Columbia also hastens to tell our avid collector that it has a brand new album C-99, of World War I favorites, sung by Buddy Clark with organ accompaniment. It holds "Smiles," "Dear Old Pal of Mine," "K-K-K-Katy," "There's a Long Long Trail," "My Buddy," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "That Old Gang of Mine," and "Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight."

Beloit, Wis., Tuesday there will be another sort of a christening which will attract an estimated crowd of 20,000, including many Chicagoans. At noon that day, a new diesel locomotive will be unveiled in a public ceremony, with Robert Hosmer Morse Jr. making the presentation address and Mrs. James T. Gillick officiating at the christening. Following the ceremony, Mrs. A. C. Howard of Beloit will entertain wives of the special guests at a luncheon at the Morse-Hill Country club, while the men are having luncheon at the Beloit Country club.

Mrs. Morse and her daughter, Miss Marilynn Morse; Mrs. Robert A. Carr, Mrs. Charles H. Morse, Mrs. Charles Morse Jr., Mrs. William S. Covington, Mrs. Henry Barbour, and Mrs. Frank H. Mason are some of the women who will be at the feminine luncheon party. They and their husbands will be in the large group leaving Chicago in five private cars Tuesday morning.

A number of Chicagoans will board a train for Michigan City, Ind., at noon today to attend a picnic on the grounds of the International Friendship gardens and remain for an opera performance tonight at which "I. Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be presented, with Jerzy Bojanowski conducting and members of the Chicago Opera company, ballet, and orchestra taking part. Following the performance, which is given out-of-doors, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham will entertain at supper at her farm in nearby New Buffalo. Her sister, Miss Anna Fitzhugh, is artistic director of the performance.

Engagement News.

Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Bowles entertained at a garden party in their Evanston home last night for Miss Nan Latimer, who is to be married to their son, Ronald Woodbury. Miss Latimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Latimer of Great Neck, N. Y., is spending two weeks in Evanston with her fiance's parents. Mr. Woodbury just has returned after serving overseas for nearly two years with the army air forces, from which he has been honorably discharged. He attended Northwestern university and now is engaged in business here. Miss Latimer attended Linden hall and was graduated from the New Brunswick College for Women. The wedding will take place in Great Neck Oct. 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Blaine MacDonald of New York have announced the engagement of their daughter, Alice Case, to Capt. James D. Tredup of the marine corps reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Tredup of S. Hoyne av. Miss MacDonald studied at Buffalo seminary and Bryn Mawr college. Her fiance, who is stationed on the west coast after two years' service in the Southwest Pacific, is a graduate of Dartmouth college.

JACKIE COOPER ACCUSED AFTER PARTY IN HOTEL

Faces Arrest on Charge Involving Girl, 15.

South Bend, Ind., Aug 4 [Special].—Jackie Cooper, 22, of Beverly Hills, Cal., who interrupted his career as a movie actor to join the navy, was one of four persons charged in warrants today with contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Jackie Cooper.

Cooper, who appeared in a recent movie called "Where Are Your Children?", has been stationed at the University of Notre Dame here as a navy V-12 student since last November.

Before coming to Notre Dame, Cooper was on inactive duty with the navy for 11 months studying at Loyola university, Los Angeles. In the picture "Where Are Your Children?" he played the part of a young sailor.

Girl Is Accused.

Prosecutor Arthur F. Scheer of St. Joseph county said the three others accused with Cooper were George Bender, 24, of Sheffield, Ill., a V-12 student at Notre Dame; Pauline Frederick, 19, of South Bend, and Olie Lowery, a Negro waiter in a hotel.

Scheer disclosed that the charges grew out of a police investigation of a party in the La Salle hotel here the night of July 22. Warrants for the arrest of the four were issued today by Juvenile Referee Albert L. Doyle and turned over to Deputy Sheriff Matthew C. Cegielski to serve. Bond for Cooper, Miss Frederick, and Lowery was set at $1,000 each, and for Bender $1,500.

Scheer said Cooper was charged specifically with contributing to the delinquency of a 15 year old South Bend girl by giving her intoxicants and by encouraging her to remain overnight in a room engaged by him at the hotel.

Miss Frederick, whom Scheer identified as Cooper's companion at the party, was charged with contributing to the delinquency of the same 15 year old girl and another girl 16 years old. Scheer said Miss Frederick invited both of them to the party.

Charge Liquor was Served.

Scheer said Bender was charged with contributing to the 15 year old girl's delinquency thru immoral relations with her.

Lowery was charged with contributing to the deliquency of the girls by serving intoxicants.

The prosecutor's office said the two girls gave the following account of the party:

After being accosted by Miss Frederick, the two girls went to the Brandywine room of the hotel with her and three sailors and the group had several rounds of drinks. An hour later Cooper and Bender appeared and two of the three sailors already at the table left. Cooper produced a bottle of whisky, which he gave to Miss Frederick.

Leaves Unmolested.

About 10 p. m. Cooper gave three hotel keys to Miss Frederick, who escorted the two girls to the three rooms. They were soon followed by Cooper, Bender, and a third sailor, whose name was not disclosed.

After drinks from Cooper's bottle, Cooper went with Miss Frederick, Bender with the 15 year old, and the unidentified sailor with the 16 year old left without being molested by her companion. She was quoted by the prosecutor's office as saying she peered into one of the rooms and saw Miss Frederick nude on a bed but Cooper was not visible.

Helped Her Disrobe.

The 15 year old, the prosecutor's office said, related that after she went into the room with Bender he assisted her in disrobing, gave her another drink, and then seduced her. Later, she said, the boys left for the training station to beat the 12:30 a. m. deadline and she accepted Miss Frederick's invitation to spend the night in the hotel.

Scheer said he had obtained hotel records showing that Cooper had reserved the three rooms by telephone the afternoon before the party, had signed the register for them that night, and had paid the bill the next morning.

The affidavits on which the warrants were based were signed by Levi Nulf of the police department, who aided in the police investigation.

Lowery was arrested tonight and Miss Frederick was expected to surrender tomorrow. The prosecutor's office said the arrest of Cooper and Bender will have to await action by their commanding officer.

Held in Naval Custody.

The navy's 9th district public relations office in Chicago said Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant at Great Lakes Naval Training center, had ordered an investigation and report of the matter. Cooper and Bender are in naval custody now, the public relations office stated, but it will not be known until the report is made to the commandant whether the men will be turned over to civil authorities for action.

154th Anniversary

The 154th anniversary of the United States Coast Guard was celebrated last night at a party held at the Chicago Service Men's center, 176 W. Washington blvd.. Comdr. Petter Pettersen, commanding officer of the Chicago base, and 11 Coast Guard veterans of this war were special guests.

"The Coast Guard was established in 1790 at the recommendation of Alexander Hamilton and has the longest record of unbroken service of any of the nation's sea forces," the commander said. "In the present war the men of the Coast Guard have carried the fight to the enemy on the seven seas and the invasion beaches all over the world."

Among the 11 veterans honored were three from Chicago, David A. Coffill, 1901 Kedzie av.; Onni Hietala, and James Lorenze, 4140 Milwaukee av.

SOCIALITE JAILED IN SLAYING OF WEST COAST BOY

Salinas, Cal., Aug. 4 [Special].—Mrs. Frances Andrews, pretty, blonde society woman, was jailed today on a charge of murdering Jay Lovett, 19, handsome, strapping farm boy, in a "jealousy" shooting that has rocked the exclusive Carmel valley set of socialite ranchers.

Investigation into the youth's death on July 15, first attributed to suicide, took a sensational turn last night when Mrs. Andrews was indicted by the Monterey county grand jury.

Today the accused woman, calm, poised, and silent, was arraigned before Superior Judge William L. James. He denied a motion for bail and set Aug. 18 for entering a plea.

Mrs. Andrews' counsel is Leo Friedman, the attorney who defended David A. Lemson, former Stanford university publicity director and now an author, who was finally freed after being tried three times for the "bath tub" slaying of his wife in 1933.

"Case Is Pile of Junk."

Mrs. Andrews, daughter of a wealthy horse breeder and property owner, was accompanied to court by her husband, Corp. Frank Andrews, a sculptor who has been in the army about two years.

In preparation for her stay in jail Mrs. Andrews had brought a suitcase packed with clothes, sheer undergarments, cosmetics, a heating pad.

"This whole case is a pile of junk," Corp. Andrews said. "Of course my wife wrote letters to Jay and signed them 'Love, Frances.' That was perfectly natural. We treated that boy like a son. My wife never was given a chance to tell her story. If the boy didn't kill himself, the authorities should find out who did. Frances didn't. The truth will come out yet."

Declarations made yesterday by members of the Lovett family that the boy had been a guest of Mrs. Andrews at a fashionable San Francisco hotel on his 18th birthday were answered by the husband with the comment:

"We are going to save disclosure of what actually happened in San Francisco for the defense of my wife at the trial."

Mrs. Andrews, whose age has been placed variously at between 38 and 43, resides on a small ranch in Carmel valley, about 30 miles southwest of here. Her father, L. C. Fertig, owned the original Del Monte ranch which was subdivided and a large part of it sold to Muriel Vanderbilt Phelps, daughter of William K. Vanderbilt, who is one of the socially prominent residents of the area.

Worked on Her Farm.

Young Lovett lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lovett, on a neighboring ranch. Unlike their wealthy neighbors, the Lovetts, who came to California from Oklahoma about 10 years ago, farm their land as a means of livelihood. Jay, who was to have entered military service this fall, worked on neighboring ranches, especially the Andrews place after Mr. Andrews entered the army.

On the night of July 15 the young farmhand's body was found in a ditch beside a highway near Mrs. Andrews' home. He had been shot thru the head with a .25 caliber pistol which lay near-by. Mrs. Andrews conceded the pistol was hers. Two long scratches, as from finger nails, had been dug in the boy's face.

The original belief that the youth had killed himself gave way to the theory of murder after crime laboratory tests showed there were no powder burns either on the surface of Jay's skin or under it and that no finger prints were on the gun. Police said he must have been shot from a distance of at least four feet.

After the grand jury had indicted Mrs. Andrews, following a two day session during which numerous socially prominent Carmel residents testified, District Atty. Anthony Brezil said:

"The motive for the shooting obviously was jealousy."

'KISS' BY A CALF WINS A CITY KID TO FARMING JOYS

Youngsters Inspect Tribune Farm.

BY GAIL COMPTON.

(Pictures on back page.)

The group of youngsters standing in the dairy barn whispered fiercely to each other. Finally after much prodding and pushing a tiny figure detached itself from the circle and, with scarlet cheeks and downcast eyes, stood in front of the dairymaster.

"Mister," the youngster's voice was grave, "do you have to pump the cow's tail to get milk?"

That was only one of a multitude of questions that pelted the workers at the Tribune farm near Wheaton as 40 children from the west side of Chicago made their first visit to a farm yesterday. While their parents work in the city's war plants, the youngsters spend their days with teachers at the summer school at 715 S. Kildare av., as part of the extended school program of the government and the Chicago board of education.

Allan "Kissed" by Calf.

Pheasants and quail burst from cover and calves in the pasture scurried for their dams as the farm truck, loaded with shouting children, bounced slowly down the country road to visit the poultry farm, the dairy barn, hog yards, and cattle yards.

Little Allan Levine, 7, puckered up his face and his eyes brimmed with tears when he first saw the brown and white calves in the dairy barn. In a plantive voice he told teacher he was scared.

After a few minutes of talk he finally permitted himself to be lifted into the pen with the calf. A hesitating hand went out to touch the little Guernsey. As the hand passed the calf's nose out darted a moist, pink tongue.

"It kissed me," screeched Allan, "I think I would like to take this one home."

A week old lamb, first mistaken for a goat, brought the house down when it stood patiently and permitted 40 grimy and inquiring hands to pat it and feel its wool.

Shower Interrupts Luncheon.

A tiny ball of yellow down that turned out to be a duckling brought long sighs and a chorus of "It's so darling" from the girls. The boys patted the side of the big tractors and bet they "could plow a million acres a day."

A box luncheon under an apple tree was disrupted momentarily by a shower, but the feast with fresh farm milk resumed in the tool shed filled with wonderful and intricate machinery.

At the end of the day, pretty black haired Betty Helen, 6, 4318 Madison st., asked:

"Who does the farm belong to teacher?"

"It belongs to the newspaper, the one that has Dick Tracy in it," came the patient answer.

Betty rushed to the group of children, and in a moment the word sped around in hushed whispers.

"This farm belongs to Dick Tracy."

Boy Drowns at North Av.; Girl Saves His Brother

Richard McCanna, 13, of 436 Webster av., was drowned yesterday in unpatroled waters 100 feet from the North av. beach and his brother, David, 14, was saved by a girl, 14, when he sank while trying to rescue Richard. The girl, Edna May Ferguson, warned the boys against venturing into deep water and watched them as they swam out. She plunged in when she saw the boys in difficulty and succeeded in dragging David to shallow water.

Job Ceilings Are Invoked in 181 Acute Labor Areas

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—Conceding that "the enemy is on the ropes," Mobilization Director Byrnes today warned that the headlong military offensive in Europe and the Pacific has created an increased demand for heavy artillery, bombs, and ammunition. Therefore, he issued an order applying employment ceilings in areas of labor shortage thruout the nation.

Byrnes said 200,000 able-bodied men were needed at once for vital military production. His order applied both to civilian industries and war plants in areas where the labor supply is short. It clamps employment limits on less essential factories in 181 centers where workers are scarce.

No Time for Holiday.

Byrnes said procurement agencies have informed him that a shortage was developing in the production of heavy guns and ammunition, bombs, radar equipment, trucks, tanks, construction equipment, tires, and tentage fabric for housing the troops in their rapid advances all over the world.

"The needs of the war must come first," he declared, "ahead of any thought of increased civilian production or increased employment for producing civilian goods. We have the enemy on the ropes; he is dazed and his knees are buckling. This is no time to take a holiday and give him time to recover.

May Use War Prisoners.

The government hopes to meet the problem by persuasion, Byrnes said, but stressed that the force the administration is empowered to use under existing law will not be overlooked.

"I have authorized all government agencies to use every available power of government for the purpose of enforcing labor ceilings," he remarked. "These powers include not only the control of the flow of material for use in manufacturing but the control of the use of fuel, power, transportation and every other lawful means of insuring that the ceilings are respected and the war supplies for the men at the front are promptly met."

Consideration is also being given, Byrnes revealed, to the use of war prisoners to supplement domestic labor forces and to a program for utilizing some unskilled foreign labor for a limited period.

Leaving War Jobs.

"People want to leave their jobs in war plants in order to get back to civilian business," he said. "But if the present exodus from war plants continues, it is going to interfere seriously with the possibility of an early end of the war.

"We are going to handle the problem in the area where the plants are located," Byrnes said. "We have placed responsibility on the area officials to take all necessary steps to free from civilian and less essential industries men possessing the skills required to produce war goods.

Nelson Opposed Sanctions.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—Chairman D. Nelson of the war production board objected on legal grounds to an order that materials, power and fuel be withheld from firms which violate the employment ceilings of a new man power directive, it was learned tonight.

Nelson entered his dissent in conferences held this week by War Mobilation Director Byrnes prior to the latter's issuance of the directive, but finally concurred in Byrnes' decision, informed government sources said.

2 YEAR RECORDS LINK MANGANO WITH GREEK DICE

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Fast Greek dice games had been running for at least two years in the west side Hellenic colony within a stone's throw of the spot where Dago Lawrence Mangano and Mike Pontillo, his muscle man, were fatally shot Thursday morning, it was revealed yesterday by Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission.

The killing of the gangster pair, particularly that of the 54 year old Mangano, has been unofficially laid to the fat profits he was taking out of the barboute dice games, in which large sums nightly crossed the green baize tables in several spots near Blue Island av., Morgan and Taylor sts., where the killing occurred.

Gambling Bosses Blamed.

No one could explain the derivation of the name "barboute." Greeks said the name in modern Greek is "pavli." All agreed it is a game in which money quickly changes hands. Mangano always took a double cut—one from the man shooting the dice and one from the man who faded. Policemen—and gangsters—say that gambling bosses who have succeeded the old Capone gang leaders ordered Mangano killed in an attempt to seize his barboute profits for themselves.

Mangano's name ran thru the letters Peterson wrote the police department during the last two years concerning reports that the Greek dice game flourished in the heart of the colony in the Maxwell Street police district.

On June 8, 1942, Peterson informed Police Commissioner Allman that such games were running at 622, 644, and 722 Blue Island av., and that Mangano's name had been given as the operator. A few hours before they were slain, Mangano and Pontillo, accompanied by Miss Rita Reyes, 25, an employee of the International Register company, had been at 644 Blue Island av. They left there to go to the notorious Paddock club in Cicero and were on their way back when the gunmen overtook them.

Report Sent to Captain.

Peterson's 1942 report, his records showed, went to Capt. Louis Capparelli at the Maxwell Street station, who said he was unable to connect Mangano with gambling places. In January of this year another investigation was conducted at Peterson's request.

Atty. Cecil Emory late in the day applied to Chief Justice Ward of the Criminal court for a writ of habeas corpus for Miss Reyes, who still was in custody of police. The application was dismissed when police informed the court that she had been charged with disorderly conduct and was being held in a $200 bond as a material witness.

Mangano's widow, Ida, a slender, titian haired woman who said they had been married four years, appeared voluntarily for questioning yesterday in Capt. Capparelli's office.

MUSIC FESTIVAL TO HEAR SINGING BY JOHN CARTER

Famous Navy Tenor Appears Aug. 19.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Chief Specialist John Carter of the navy, a tenor who has just returned from a 30,000 mile tour in the South Pacific with Comdr. Eddie Peabody and other entertainers of our fighting men, will appear in several numbers Saturday night, Aug. 19, at the 15th annual Chicago Music Festival in Soldiers' field. He will be accompanied by the festival symphony orchestra, conducted by Henry Weber, general musical director of the festival.

John Carter.

In the audience of 90,000 persons will be hundreds of parents of boys to whom Carter sang in New Caledonia, the New Hebrides, the Solomons, and Pearl Harbor.

Voice Known to Millions.

Carter is known to millions thru his operatic, radio, and concert work. He sings for the recruit "Happy Hours" and on the "Meet Your Navy" programs at the Great Lakes Naval Training center. He has sung many times at the navy's Grant Park concerts and has been starred twice at the Chicago Music Festivals.

He became a Chicago favorite in 1938 when he appeared in Grant Park.

Carter, of Irish lineage, was born in Brooklyn and started out to become a civil engineer. Then he began a career as a singer. For a short time he appeared in the singing role of the Charlie McCarthy program.

Elson Arranges Appearance.

His appearance in Soldiers' field was arranged thru Lt. Bob Elson, now in charge of the band, music, and entertainment division at the Great Lakes Naval Training center.

Festival reserved seats at $1.25 and 80 cents are on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st. and Tribune Tower, and also are available by mail. Checks or money orders, made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., should be sent to Festival Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago, accompanied by stamped, addressed envelopes.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

August 4, 1944.

THE second brood of corn borers and chinch bugs has appeared on the scene at the Wheaton farm and already has started chewing on the corn stalks. A survey of the fields reveals only a moderate infestation so far, but indications point toward more serious trouble as the pests continue to hatch.

The dry weather has been ideal for the chinch bugs which already have caused considerable damage thruout the state. Heavy rains kill the pests as it muds down the egg masses preventing them from hatching. A good soaking rain now would go far toward reducing their numbers.

Borer to Each Stalk.

The tiny spotted bugs can be seen scurrying over the leaves of the stalks. Some of them already have done a good bit of chewing on the lower leaves and base of some of the stalks. When the pest is in good form it can chew down a stalk and leave it bent and broken in short order. It also can cause sharply lowered yields in grain fields and in some instances necessitates replanting.

The borers at the farm seem to average about one to every stalk. Small holes to which a sawdust-like material clings are a certain sign that the worm has entered the stalk. When the stalk is cut open the worm is active in its attempts to get away. The interior of the stalk where the pest has been working is brown and rotted and hollowed out.

Borers have hit unusually hard this year in the commercial sweet corn areas. Around Watseka some fields are in such poor condition they will be rejected by the canning companies, according to John Bell, Watseka soils expert. In one field Bell found an average of 12 borers to the stalk.

Oat Yield Falls Off.

The oat harvest continues at the farm and the big field on the west side has just been finished. Here the crop was very light and the straw short. Ragweeds filled the low spots and at times the hands couldn't decide whether they were harvesting oats or weeds. It is doubtful if this field averages much more than 45 bushels per acre.

A blazing sun and hot dry winds continue to burn up the farm. The ground is dry and puffs into dust at every step. Rains must come soon or the crops will begin a rapid decline and the corn yield will be cut appreciably.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THE July drouth cut deeply into the production of snap beans in middle western gardens, altho the pickings were excellent from early plantings. Recent showers have resulted in new blossoms and small pods which will produce additional pickings in late August and September.

Even tho bean foliage is not as green as it was earlier in the summer, it is a mistake to believe that the plants will not produce additional pickings. Many gardeners uproot their early bean rows at this time of the year, but this is not recommended. Late summer rains can reactivate the plants, and in small gardens heavy watering will restore them to productivity.

One way to insure higher yields in late summer is by going over the plants now to harvest all pods which are more than half grown, thus allowing all the plant energy to go into the growth of new pods.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 4.—The winning streak which the gay Cubs used as a means of crowding into first division society was just about to be rent asunder by the Pirates tonight when up popped Bill Nicholson with an artistic ninth inning job. The home run specialist whacked No. 24 out of the park with a mate on base, to turn a 3 to 2 deficit into a 4 to 3 score for the Grimm brigade's 10th victory in a row.

Until Nicholson got into his specialty act, the Chicagoans had been more or less manhandled by Max Butcher's right handing and the Pirates had done the same to Henry Wyse, the latter's affairs being so complicated that he was excused before the third inning was completed with all the enemy runs charged against his brief regime. Fortunately, Boss Charley Grimm turned loose a couple of able rescuers, Paul Erickson responding with a three hit performance for four and two-thirds innings, and Paul Derringer following with two perfect innings.

Butcher Tough for Cubs.

Butcher, whom the Cubs had feared because of his two hitter against them a few weeks back, had a shaky first inning, but quickly settled and remained that way until Stan Hack surprised him with his third 1944 homer in the sixth.

Nicholson and Don Johnson jostled him just enough to get another run in the seventh, but the Pirates still were one on the winning side and there was nothing to indicate they wouldn't stay in that favorable position until Phil Cavarretta opened the ninth with a single. Then came Nicholson's decisive homer.

Henry Is No Puzzle.

Wyse's part of the evening's party was so strenuous that seven hits were charged against him, three of them in the first inning. Jim Russell and Johnny Barrett singled with one out, but the former was nailed by Nicholson's throw as Jim tried to reach third. Then Bob Elliott tripled to chase Barrett home. The next outbreak against Wyse began with singles by Pete Coscarart and Russell at the start of the third, the former scoring on Barrett's infield out and Russell going in when Elliott singled to knock Wyse off the scene.

Erickson, after breaking up the third inning rush with a double play, gave the Pirates as slick a demonstration of the strikeout pitch as they hope to see in a long time. From the start of the fourth inning to the end of the seventh he fanned eight and walked only one. Meanwhile, Hack had hit that homer for the Cubs' first run, and in the seventh Nicholson led off with a single and Dom Dallessandro, who forced him, scored when Johnson slapped a low liner past Russell for a triple.

THE FIRST OF FIVE BIG SOX RUNS

WHITE SOX BEAT CLEVELAND, 5-3; TAKE 4TH PLACE

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox reached the perfect .500 rating in the American league standing yesterday—100 games played, 50 won and 50 lost. They accomplished this fetching ratio by beating the Cleveland Indians for the 12th time this season, 5 to 3.

The outcome gave the Sox another series sweep over the Indians, the club that beat them 15 times last year, but only three times this year in 15 tries. Thru yesterday's cheering success the Sox knocked the Indians out of the first division and stepped in themselves. Tonight the Sox and Detroit Tigers will open a three game week-end series in Comiskey park which also will have first division occupancy at stake.

Russ Leaves Quite Early.

In yesterday's game the Indians slapped around Buck Ross in the second inning for all of their runs to gain a 3 to 0 lead. Thereafter Jake Wade, the North Carolina mocking bird, took charge of the pitching and also had the distinction of scoring the tying run.

Jake in seven innings of pitching yielded only three singles, one of them a scratch, and walked no one, a most happy contrast with a recent start he made against the Athletics, in which he went away with two out in the first inning after he had walked four and tossed two hits.

Hal, Ralph Pound Ball.

The Sox let Ralph Hodgin and Hal Trosky carry the batting load against Mel Harder in the first four innings, which was all right, inasmuch as the pair produced four hits and the first two Sox runs. The remainder of the cast took a hand after the fourth and rounded out a total of 10 hits before the veteran vanished in the sixth inning.

Ross was good in the first inning. He struck out Mickey Rocco, made Myril Hoag pop to Le Roy Schalk, then struck out Pat Seerey. The Cleveland second inning presented a slightly different story. Lou Boudreau opened with a single to left and Roy Cullenbine fanned. Kenny Keltner walked. Jim Grant, main man in the three early season reverses of the Sox in competition with the Indians, tripled to left, scoring Boudreau and Keltner. Norm Schlueter then sent Johnny Dickshot to the left field wall for his fly, Grant scoring.

Should Have Had More.

In their second, the White Sox loaded the bases with none out and managed to get one run. Hodgin and Trosky singled and Thurman Tucker walked. Cass Michaels flied to Hoag, Hodgin scoring. When Hoag threw past the plate, Trosky tried to reach third but Harder backed up the play and threw him out. Mike Tresh walked and then Grey Clarke, batting for Ross, bounced to Harder.

Hodgin scored again in the fourth.

Cash, Cheers to Mack for His 50 Years

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 4 (AP).—Connie Mack celebrated his 50th anniversary as a major league manager tonight and the baseball world, from top executive down to plain Gus Fan in the bleachers, turned out to pay him tribute in a world series atmosphere in Shibe park.

Connie Mack.

Disregarding Philadelphia's transit strike, thousands of fans lined up outside of the park three hours ahead of the start of the game between the A's and the New York Yankees. With no subways, buses, or trolleys running, the fans either thumbed a ride in an automobile or walked. Some even were transported to the park in a hearse.

Connie Announces His All-Time All-Star Team.

While the first of the thousands of fans milled around the park, the 81 year old tall, lean leader who has led the A's to nine American league pennants and five world championships, was guest of honor at a cocktail party downtown in the Warwick hotel.

There Mr. and Mrs. Mack beamed their pleasure, surrounded by hundreds of friends and scores of former players who knew what every little wiggle of his famous scorecard from the dugout meant. Folks prominent in every walk of Philadelphia life applauded mightily as Mr. Baseball introduced his all-time all-star team, the players he selected after watching the national pastime 60 years as manager and player.

First he introduced George Sisler, great first baseman of the St. Louis Browns who nearly led the Browns to a pennant in 1922; then came Eddie Collins, great second baseman; bow-legged Honus Wagner, universally regarded as the greatest shortstop of all time.

Given Check for $5,000 by Anniversary Committee.

Frank [Home Run] Baker, Walter [Big Train] Johnson, the one and only Babe Ruth, Tris Speaker, Lt. Bill Dickey, and Lefty Grove, were next introduced by Mack. Mickey Cochrane and Ty Cobb, also selected by Mack on his all-time team, sent regrets they were unable to be present.

"It's a very happy night for me," modestly exclaimed Mack after being introduced from home plate, where John C. Bell, lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, presented to Connie a gold box and a check for $5,000 "on behalf of the golden anniversary honorary committee and on behalf of the sports fans of America . . . as a token of their admiration and affection."

JACK WINS OVER MONTGOMERY ON WAR BOND CARD

New York, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP).—Beau Jack piled up an early lead tonight and staved off a late finish by New York's lightweight champion, Bob Montgomery, to win a 10 round split decision before a crowd of 15,822 in Madison Square Garden. Jack weighed 138¾, Montgomery 137½.

Montgomery's title was not at stake in the all GI scrap which was put on with army sanction for the benefit of war bond sales. The sale was $35,864,900 in war bonds [maturity value], the greatest boxing "gate" in history.

It was the fourth meeting between Jack and Montgomery, both of whom have held the lightweight title twice, and it evened the decisions between them. They have now fought 55 rounds, and not a knockdown has been scored.

TRIPPI, JONES, AND VAN BUREN JOIN ALL-STARS

Call for Musicians

MUSICIANS who wish to join the College All-Star band, which will appear in Dyche stadium the night of the All-Star game, Aug. 30, are asked to communicate with Ray Dvorak, director of bands at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Steve Van Buren, speedy half back from Louisiana State university, who scored 98 points last season to finish second in the national standings, today heads a group of 12 southern athletes who have accepted invitations to play against the Chicago Bears in Dyche stadium Aug. 30. Eight of these stars are from the Southeastern conference, thus assuring the territory below the Mason-Dixon line of its usual complement in the 11th All-Star game sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

It is unfair perhaps to single out Van Buren from this list since it comprises players who have taken part in all of the post-season bowl games and includes several who were members of championship elevens in recent year. In the group, for instance, is Ellis Jones, a veteran guard on the Tulsa team, who, in three years of competition played in three bowl games, the last two against Tennessee and Georgia Tech in New Orleans.

He's Star Despite Loss of Arm.

Despite the handicap of loss of one arm, Jones was regarded as one of the fine linemen of the Missouri Valley conference and he contributed largely to the Golden Hurricane's undefeated record in the last two years. Jones lost his arm at the age of 11, following a fall and subsequent infection. He came to Tulsa from Abilene, Tex., and was graduated this spring.

These 12 southern college stars comprise a complete team except for full back and this position already has been filled by announcement of Pete Layden and Roy McKay of Texas. Today's players, in addition to Van Buren and Jones, are: Ends, Van Davis, Georgia, and Paul Sizemore, Furman; tackles, Goble Bryant and Monty Moncrief, Texas A. & M.; Roman Bentz, Tulane, and Walter Barnes, Louisiana; center, Bill Godwin, Georgia; quarter backs, Al Sabo, Alabama, and Ken Keuper, Georgia; half back, Charles Trippi, Georgia. Sizemore and Trippi were members of last year's All-Star squad which defeated the Washington Redskins.

Van Is a Sprinter and Shifty.

Van Buren's principal asset is speed. Not only can this 200 pounder run 100 yards in 10 seconds, but he is adept in the open field. Lou

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE campaign for the supremacy among the juvenile fillies is developing into a private duel between the Calumet and Whitney interests, with Chicago's civic pride riding on the outcome. . . .

The matter will come to a head in the $40,000 Princess Pat stakes at Washington Park this afternoon. . . . Mrs. Payne Whitney shipped Expression out from the east to beat Calumet's Twosy in the Lassie stakes, first of the outstanding Arlington-Washington Park events for juvenile fillies. . . . Now Col. C. V. Whitney has sent Flyweight to Chicago in an attempt to take the measure of Twosy in the companion piece—the Princess Pat. . . . Flyweight has Churchill Downs' Debutante stakes and Suffolk's Betsy Ross stakes to her credit. . . . Twosy has continued to improve and is expected to run better than she did in landing second honors in the Lassie. . . . If she should win today's race, it will be the sixth stake victory for Calumet farm during the current coördinated meeting. . . . Two of the nation's leading jockeys will figure in the duel—Ted Atkinson on Flyweight and Conn McCreary aboard Twosy. . . . Lt. Comdr. Sam Barry, former head football and basketball coach at Southern California, has returned from 13 months' service in the South Pacific. . . . He is spending a 10 day leave in Los Angeles before reporting for his new assignment at Corpus Christi [Texas] Naval Training station.

Snuffy Stirnweiss, who is proving as agile on the base paths in the American league as he was in the International, has been thrown out only twice on attempted steals this season. . . . George Case of the Senators, his chief rival, was nipped twice in a single game in Detroit last week. . . . Early nomination for the National league's most valuable player award: Ray Mueller, the Cincinnati Reds' indestructible catcher. . . . Ace Adams, the Giants' busy relief pitcher, shudders when the Reds' Frank McCormick steps to the plate. . . . Frank, who has clubbed seven home runs this season, made three of them off Ace.

For a book, a film or a play,
It needs only a scout to bruit it about

Women's Golf Title Is Won by Mrs. Selz

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Mrs. Lawrence H. Selz, who first won the championship of the Chicago Women's District Golf association in 1931, yesterday demonstrated that golf is a game in which you always can come back by scoring her second C. W. D. G. A. title victory with an 8 and 7 decision over Virginia Nilles, 24 year old private school teacher from Rolling Green, at the La Grange Country club.

Mrs. L. H. Selz.

Three holes within the first nine of the 36 hole final were sufficient to give the former Jane Weiller a three up lead at the morning turn. She never was below a two up margin and reached the intermission with a four up advantage. She increased this to six up thru 27 holes, and closed out the match on the 29th. Her outstanding shot of the day was a 60 yard approach for a half in par fives at the 505 yard tenth.

Shot Best Round of Week.

Thruout the five days of this revived event, the Northmoor star, mother of two children, proved that she was on her game. She was runner-up for the qualifying medal with an 84 on Monday, and in Thursday's semi-finals shot the best round of the week, a 79, to win a one up thriller from Mrs. Jac Ochiltree of St. Charles.

The cards for the championship match follow:

MORNING ROUND.

Par—Out	455	355	543—39
Mrs. Selz—Out	465	354	543—39
Miss Nilles—Out	466	464	833—44
Mrs. Selz leads, 3 up.

Mathisen and Evans Win in City Amateur

Two former champions, the veteran Chick Evans of Edgewater and Harold Mathisen of St. Andrew's, will meet today in a 36 hole final match to decide the 40th annual city amateur golf title over the Jackson park course. Evans advanced to the finals by scoring a 3 and 1 victory yesterday over the defending champion, Alex Zgorka of Burnham Woods, while Mathisen, helped by a hole in one, was beating Medalist Johnny Dobro of Burnham Woods, 3 and 1.

Evans is seeking his fourth title, having won in 1907, 1908, and 1911. Mathisen, who is a chemist for the South Works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company in South Chicago, won in 1934, 1935, 1937, and 1942. In the latter year Evans was his final round opponent.

Mathisen Scores Ace.

Mathisen and Dobro were all-square yesterday at the end of 27 holes, while at the same point Evans held a lead of 1 up. Mathisen was aided by a hole in one on the short 26th when his ball landed two feet from the pin.

On the final nine the four semi-finalists played cautious golf and even the short putts had to be holed out because of the heavy greens resulting from the rainfall that interrupted first round.

Dobro Led at 28th.

Dobro took a 1 up lead on the 28th when he and Mathisen each approached to within five feet of the pin and Mathisen missed his putt for a par four. A run-up shot to seven feet from the cup on the 30th gave Harold a birdie three and the match was all-square again. Mathisen gained the lead on the 560 yard 32d with a par 5 and then won the 34th and 35th with par scores to conclude the match.

The Evans-Zgorka match was evened at the 28th and on the following hole Zgorka's second shot rolled to within eight feet of the pin. He holed out for a birdie three to move ahead, 1 up. They halved the 30th and 31st, after which Evans won four straight holes to finish the match on the 35th green.

FLYWEIGHT AND TWOSY CLASH IN PRINCESS PAT

It's East vs. West in Filly Stakes.

Princess Pat Field

ELEVEN of the nation's fleetest 2 year old fillies were named overnight to compete in the six furlong, $15,000 added Princess Pat stakes at Washington Park today. The field in post position order follows:

	Wgt.	Rider.	Prob. odds.
Jeanie Berry	115	Brooks	20-1
*Twosy	115	McCreary	3-5
Oh Mandy	115	Skoronski	15-1

Blue Alibi	113	Higley	6-1
Flyweight	119	Atkinson	2-1
*Good Blood	115	Haas	8-5

*Calumet farm entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Eleven fast, artistocratically bred juvenile fillies will go to the post today in Washington Park's Princess Pat stakes—an event which has a strong bearing on national supremacy in this division. Col. C. V. Whitney's Flyweight, the outstanding 2 year old filly of the east, has come out to challenge Calumet farm's Twosy in the six furlong dash which will carry a gross value of $39,480 if all 11 go to the post.

This is Washington Park's companion piece to Arlington's Lassie stakes, in which Mrs. Payne Whitney's Expression came from the east to best Twosy by a narrow margin. The Calumet colorbearer has improved steadily since that occasion and is expected to go to the post as the favorite, in company with two of her stablemates, Good Blood and Thine.

Won Important Stakes.

Flyweight was an early season development which has continued to keep the pace with new contenders for honors among the juvenile fillies. She climaxed a series of victories during the Churchill Downs meeting by winning the Debutante stakes. More recently at Suffolk Downs she whipped some of the best in the east in the Betsy Ross stakes. Subsequently she ran third in the Demoiselle at Empire.

Ted Atkinson, the nation's leading jockey, has come out to ride Flyweight in today's stake. Conn McCreary, recently handicapped by a broken wrist, will be aboard Twosy.

Blue Alibi, the Ryans ranch filly which ran third in the Lassie stakes, has been coming along well under Ernie Shaw's training. Darby Dunedin, best of her division at Detroit, has been shipped over for the Princess Pat. John Marsch will send out Navarrese and Hal Price Headley will be represented by Oh Mandy. Blue Skimmer, Regal Maid and Jeanie Berry will complete the field.

Doggone Beats Miss Keeneland.

Doggone, Sirius and Miss Keeneland went over the line in that order in a three horse neck and neck finish of the $5,000 Mioland handicap, which headed yesterday's program. Sirius forged to the front soon after the start of this seven furlong dash with Jezrahel and Native Fox close up. Miss Keeneland was within reach of the first flight and Doggone was following her on the run down the back stretch.

On the turn, Native Fox dropped out of it while Miss Keeneland was coming on well. Meanwhile Doggone was beginning to move up along the rail. Finding racing room on the inside all the way, Willie Bailey drove Doggone persistently after Sirius during the stretch run while Jezrahel was tiring and Miss Keeneland was racing strongly on the outside. Doggone got up in the closing yards to score by a neck.

$40 Daily Double.

Peace Again and Hada Moon combined their efforts to produce a $40 daily double yesterday. Peace Again finished four lengths ahead of Fond Time at a payoff of $5.80, $4, and $3.40. Nostradamus was third.

Hada Moon also had a fairly easy time scoring her first victory of the season in the second race, winning by two lengths over Queen Echo.

Savold Winds Up Drills for Baksi Battle

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Lee Savold, popular Paterson, N. J., heavyweight, ended boxing drills in the Coliseum gymnasium yesterday for his 10 round bout with Joe Baski in Wrigley field Monday night by sparring two rounds with Freddy Schott, Akron, O., boxer, who will appear in a six round event on the card against either Lindy Elliott or Vecie Van.

Savold will go thru loosening up exercises this afternoon. He weighed 193 pounds after yesterday's drill, three less than he expects to scale for his third meeting with Baski. Lee scored a split decision over Baski in their first encounter, but in the rematch the Kulpmont, Pa., fighter decisively defeated him.

Earl Prepares for Rafferty.

Before Savold appeared yesterday, Robert Earl and Johnny Bratton, Chicago Golden Gloves graduates, sparred several rounds, the former for a six round bout on the Savold-Baski card against Doll Rafferty, and Bratton for an eight round encounter against Ted Christie of New York in an eight rounder in Marigold Gardens, also on Monday night. Earl will be seeking his sixth straight triumph.

Lou Angelucci, ex-city Golden Gloves middleweight winner, went four fast rounds with Jimmy Hunt, also a Golden Gloves product, in Ringside loop gymnasium yesterday for his eight round contest on the Bratton-Christie program against Sgt. Lou Woods of Camp Grant. Hunt is paired with Mike Sopko of Indiana Harbor in an additional eight rounder in the Marigold arena.

Baski Spars Again Today.

Tito Taylor, south side middleweight, strained a muscle while punching the heavy bag, but the injury will not prevent him from going thru with the fourth eight rounder in the show against Collins Brown, 1944 Chicagoland Golden Gloves 160 pound title holder.

Meanwhile, Baski boxed four rounds with Roosevelt Thomas in his semi-final drill in C. Y. O. center gymnasium yesterday. Joe will finish training with a two round sparring session today.

He doubled to right and raced home on Trosky's single to right. The Sox's overtaking enterprise in the fifth began when Harder walked Wade with one down. Schalk singled to right, putting Wade on third. Schalk stole second and Schlueter tried to pick Wade off third but instead threw past Keltner, Wade scoring the tying run and Schalk reaching third. Eddie Carnett flied to Hoag, Schalk scoring.

Away Goes Harder.

Harder was knocked out in the sixth. Tucker pushed off with a double to right center. Michaels beat out a bunt for a single, Tucker stopping at third. Tresh flied to Seerey, Tucker scoring, while Michaels forgot to touch up at first and lingered in the vicinity to chat with Coach Bing Miller. Wade singled to right center, Michaels taking third. Ray Poat replaced Harder and Schalk hit into a double play, Rocco to Boudreau to Rocco.

HAGG SHATTERS 2 MILE RECORD; TIMED IN 8:42.8

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 4 (AP).—Gunder Hagg clipped three and six-tenths off his own world record for the two mile run tonight in Stockholm's stadium when he covered the distance in 8:42.8.

The Swedish star finished 100 meters ahead of his nearest competitor in what probably was the greatest race of his career.

Arne Andersson ran the 1,000 meter event in the fast time of 2:21,9, only four-tenths of a second over the world record of 2:21.5 held by the German runner, Rudolpf Harbig.

E. Elmsaeter bettered the world record time for the 3,000 meter steeplechase when he was timed in 8:59.6. The official record is 9:03.4.

SUPER AGENCY TO RULE PEACE SHIFT PLANNED

Austin Labels Bill 'Another NRA.'

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4 (AP).—The senate military committee, overriding Republican protests all the way, early tonight approved a bill setting up a super-government agency to direct reconversion and establishing federal standards for post-war unemployment payments to discharged war workers. The measure was reported out by a 10 to 7 party line vote.

Sen. Austin.

The unemployment compensation section would fix uniform national rates of pay to jobless workers based on 75 per cent of their present weekly wages except that no payments could exceed $20 a week for a jobless worker with no dependent, $25 for a worker with one dependent; $30 for two dependents, and $35 for three or more dependents.

Opposed by Republicans.

This provision met solid Republican opposition, led by Sen. Austin of Vermont who tried to substitute a finance committee approved bill leaving to the states the fixing of unemployment compensation rates.

Earlier, the committee had approved, 10 to 7, title I of the bill establishing an office of war mobilization and adjustment with unprecedented advisory authority over production and man power thru the reconversion period. The Republicans denounced it as a proposal to set up a post-war "NRA."

The committee's action made the bill ready for floor action Tuesday along with the states' rights unemployment proposal.

The unemployment section gives a proposed work administrator authority to provide six months free vocational training for any worker in addition to $50 a month subsistence or $75 if he has a family, and to provide transportation to new jobs for workers.

Two Years Operation Planned.

The bill would operate for two years after the war's end and under it state unemployment administrations would make payments in accordance with the new schedules, with the government paying the difference between old and new standards. However, if a state does not choose to conform, the federal work administrator may arrange for payments of the difference thru a retraining and reëmployment administration. Maximum state payments are now $15 to $25 a week.

The new agency would be given authority to formulate post-war plans, issue directives to other government agencies and review and eliminate their regulations, settle controversies between departments and other sweeping powers.

Austin said that five Democrats and three Republicans fought over almost every issue, and, using proxies of absent members, split 10 to 7, the party lineup, on major votes.

Opposition centered on a provision for setting up a series of joint councils thruout the country, made up of representatives of labor, agriculture and industry, to advise with a national production employment board on matters of production, employment and war contract terminations.

"Just Like Another NRA."

"It would be just like another NRA," Austin said. "If this provision is enacted, it would establish industrial and area advisory councils, thousands of them, local and area groups, who would have to advise with the director as to the effect upon them of every demobilization plan. This would delay and impede the transition to peace, rather than expedite it."

Sen. Revercomb [R., W. Va.] said the setup was advocated by the CIO and "the CIO would, under the setup, play a dominant role in the advisory committees."

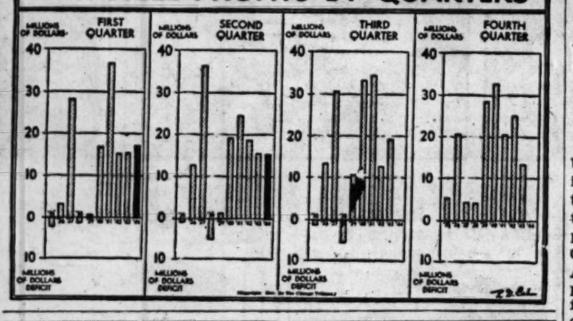
U. S. STEEL PROFITS BY QUARTERS



Stocks Lower Despite Junior Motors' Spurt

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Active leadership by low priced motors in today's stock market received little encouragement and early gains of fractions to a point were substantially reduced or converted into losses of as much or more in the final hour.

Dealings became the liveliest in about two weeks after a quiet and fairly steady opening. Blocks ran to 10,000 shares for favorites. Selling in pivotals expanded toward the finish.

Attendance in boardrooms was sparse, many customers having left for a long week-end. Principal purchasing and liquidating orders came from out of town. Accounts were trimmed or shelved because of possible important war developments over Sunday.

Broadest Dip Since July 22.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.4 at 54.3, the broadest decline since July 22. Of 898 issues appearing, 564 were down and 163 up. Transfers of 1,114,600 shares were the largest since July 21 and compared with 803,650 yesterday.

Graham-Paige was the fastest mover. It touched a new 1944 peak, but reduced a top gain of a point to ⅝ at the end. Modest improvement was retained by Hupp Motors, Oliver Farm and Westinghouse Electric. Prominent casualties were United States Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, New York Central, Southern Pacific, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Hayes Manufacturing, and United States Rubber.

RAILS LEAD BONDS DOWN.

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—Many rail issues showed poor resistance to selling in today's bond market and the decline extended to other sections. Among weaker rail issues were the Missouri Pacific securities, down 1 to 2½; North Western 4⅓s of 1999, down 1½; Rock Island 4s of 1934, down 1¼, and Morris and Essex 5s, down 1⅛.

Among gainers were Great Northern 5½s, up 1½, and Reading 4⅓s and Southern Pacific refunding 5s, both up fractionally. Prominent among rising foreign loans were those of Brazil and Argentina. Denmark 4½s advanced 1⅞.

CHICAGO LIST DIPS.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchange were lower yesterday in larger turnover of 48,000 shares. Volume leaders included Domestic Industries A common and Binks Manufacturing company, both unchanged, Chicago Corporation, down ⅛, and Libby, McNeill & Libby, down ⅛. Among five new 1944 highs was Consumers company preferred, 33, up 1.

FTC PRICE ORDER MAY BE FOUGHT BY MORTON SALT

A federal trade commission order requiring Morton Salt company, Chicago, to stop "discriminating in price between different purchasers of its salt" may be appealed to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, either in Chicago or in an eastern district, the company's legal firm, Stearns & McBride, said yesterday.

The FTC order said some salt had been sold to certain customers at lower prices than salt of the same grade and quality was sold to others. The commission asserted the company had violated the Robinson-Patman act and that "the evidence submitted by the respondent [the company] is too vague and indefinite to show that the long-continued discriminations were made in good faith to meet an equally low price of a competitor."

People and Events

Retirement of O. T. Allen, assistant manager of construction materials sales of American Steel and Wire company, Chicago, a subsidiary of United States Steel corporation, was announced yesterday. M. E. Capouch, who started with the company in 1926 as salesman of construction materials, was promoted to succeed Allen.

Lt. Col. Edward C. Greene, retired, has been appointed medical director of American Airlines.

Robert E. Hunt, former officer of the Northern Trust company, has been promoted from captain to major in the army material command, and has been assigned to the procurement division.

Stanley J. Kukla was elected vice president of I. S. Berlin Printing and Lithographing company and its affiliate, the Marshall-White Press.

V. T. Peterson, formerly of Acme Electric company, recently became a field engineer for Walker-Jimieson, Inc., radio and electronic distributor in Chicago.

Charles F. McKiel has been elected assistant cashier of the Terminal National bank. He formerly was an executive of Pearson, Taft company, a La Salle street investment underwriting firm.

Ben B. Silver and Nathan R. Gault, certified public accountants, have formed a partnership to be known as Silver, Gault & Co.

The Kensington Steel company has won the army-navy production award for the third time.

CRUMMER LAYS INDICTMENT TO FLORIDA ENMITY

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 4 (AP).—Roy E. Crummer, head of R. E. Crummer & Co., of Chicago, issued a statement thru attorneys today blaming business enemies in Florida for his indictment yesterday by a federal grand jury on mail fraud and securities and exchange act violations in refunding city and county bonds in Florida.

Crummer said he and his associates, some of whom were indicted on the same charges, had violated no laws and had "rendered an outstanding and highly valuable service" to the bondholders in refunding approximately 170 million dollars in bonds.

The statement said the company was a "conspicuous exception" in its efforts to salvage the investments of its companies after collapse of the Florida land boom.

The indictment charged the violations concerned the refunding of $1,900,000 in Panama City bonds and $1,511,000 in Citrus county bonds.

CHICAGO BROKER ACCUSED BY SEC DENIES CHARGES

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 4 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission instituted broker-dealer permit revocation proceedings today against Lowell Niebuhr & Co., Chicago, and scheduled a hearing Aug. 15 in its Chicago regional office.

The company was charged with violations of the securities exchange act, under which it is registered. Commission staff members said the Niebuhr financial report for 1943 had "false and misleading statements" of bank balance, "false and fictitious" entries of books, and showed failure to keep required ledgers and records.

Lowell Niebuhr, head of Lowell Niebuhr & Co., yesterday said the SEC action came as a "complete surprise." He said his company planned to show cause at the hearing why no action should be taken by the SEC.

G.M. Walkout May Shut Five Other Plants

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

With new walkouts swelling the United States' and Canada's strike idle total to 39,000, an added threat to war production developed in Detroit yesterday when the war department announced that unless the General Motors Chevrolet Gear and Axle division strike was settled promptly five other General Motors factories in other cities would be closed by lack of parts. The walkout has shut five Chevrolet plants for more than a week.

The war department announcement was read at a war labor board show cause hearing to which international officers of United Automobile Workers [CIO] were called to explain why 7,000 employes of the gear and axle division have ignored back to work orders.

Plants Face Shutdowns.

Plants listed as facing shutdowns within four days were those of General Motors at Pontiac, Mich., Atlanta, and St. Louis, and the Chevrolet factories at Norwood, O., and Tonawanda, N. Y.

"The strike bound plants constitute the sole source for a number of parts used in the manufacture of a vitally needed aircraft engine which is being produced at the Chevrolet plant at Tonawanda, N. Y.," the war department announcement said.

At Carbondale, Ill., approximately 1,200 workers of the Illinois ordnance plant were idle because of a strike among union warehouse employes which halted a major load line producing artillery shells.

1,400 Idle at Ottawa.

Approximately 1,400 employes of the Ottawa, Ill., plant of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company were idle and the entire plant shut down after an altercation between a foreman and a woman employe. The workers are members of the Federation of Glass, Ceramic, and Silica Sand Workers [CIO]. The plant produces laminated plastics for turrets of B-29 Super Fortresses and canopies for other planes.

In Canton, Ill., approximately 300 of the 1,900 day shift workers of the International Harvester plant were idle because of a strike by 100 foundry workers. The employes quit in sympathy with 15 mill room employes who struck Thursday after failing to reach a wage agreement.

Truck Drivers Called Out.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 4 (AP).—Lou Hosking, secretary of the Midwest Operators' association, an organization of freight truck owners covering seven midwest states, said tonight over-the-road truck drivers in Minneapolis and St. Paul had been called off the job at 7 p. m. in a wage dispute with the association. Hosking said about 1,500 trucks and 3,000 men were involved in the two cities.

Maj. Alex Baxter of the army's 6th [Chicago] transportation zone, said last night he had directed many officers to strategic posts in 11 midwest states to prevent delay in shipment of war materials as a result of the St. Paul walkout. Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin had not been affected, he said.

SEEK EXTENSION OF WINDERMERE BOND MATURITY

Extension of the maturity of the $3,263,300 first and refunding mortgage income bonds of the Windermere Hotel company and postponement of payment of interest were proposed in a notice sent yesterday to bondholders by Trustees George W. Rossetter, Donald Defrees, and M. A. Rosenthal, of the Windermere Hotel company. The proposal was made "to avoid unnecessary foreclosure of the bond issue and other litigation in the courts."

The bonds have accumulated interest of $1,300,000. No income has been available for retirement of the bond issue and the present earnings of about 5 per cent on the investment are not enough for any reduction in the principal, the trustees said.

The trustees ask that the hotel company get the right to cease operating, abandon, or do what it sees fit with the original Hotel Windermere West section, built in 1893.

UTILITY STOCK EXCHANGE COST TERMED HIGHER

'Favorable' Chicago Plan Rejected.

BY EDWIN NICHOLS.

The prospectus dealing with Northern Indiana Public Service company's $22,007,800 preferred stock exchange plan was studied with interest by investment bankers yesterday because of the rivalry which developed between Chicago and eastern groups of bankers in negotiations leading to a contract for soliciting the exchange of outstanding shares for a new 5 per cent issue. A contract was ultimately awarded to First Boston corporation.

Bankers studying the terms expressed surprise because Chicago proposals for soliciting the exchanges had been passed over, even tho apparently on a basis more economical to the company than the First Boston corporation plan, approved by the securities and exchange commission on Thursday.

Exempted from Bidding.

In Philadelphia yesterday the SEC announced exemption of the new issue from competitive bidding. Investment bankers interpreted this as routine confirmation of the preceding day's SEC approval of the contract under which First Boston manages the stock exchange offer, and not affecting the prospective offer at competitive bidding of any new stock remaining unexchanged for old.

Before opening negotiations with First Boston, the utility company had obtained a joint proposal from the Central Republic company, Harris, Hall & Co., and A. C. Allyn & Co., and a single proposal from Glore, Forgan & Co. The two bids were said to be similar in important respects.

SEC approval was necessary before any arrangements could be binding. When the Northern Indiana officials submitted the Chicago proposals to the SEC utility staff the objection was made that two propositions were not enough. The name of First Boston was said to have entered into discussions which followed.

Fee Costs Analyzed.

Both the First Boston bid and at least one of the Chicago proposals set $102 a share as the value for the new stock as a basis for exchange for the outstanding preferred stocks at their redemption prices.

Under the First Boston plan, that corporation, as dealer manager, is to receive from the company and pay to coöperating dealers a fee ranging from $1 to $1.37½ a share on stock exchanged, varying with amounts of stock represented by the consents obtained. One of the Chicago proposals was said to have been a flat fee of $1 a share for all stock exchanged.

As manager, First Boston is to receive $39,500 plus expenses and counsel's fee of $21,000 and 10 cents a share of stock exchanged. The Chicago proposal for manager's fee was reported to have been $10,000, plus 25 cents a share and expenses, exclusive of counsel's fee.

Cost Would Be Higher.

Apart from expenses, bankers analyzing the two proposals figured that First Boston's fee as manager would amount to $50,500 on the first 110,000 shares exchanged, compared with $37,500 if the Chicago proposition had been accepted.

Completion of the exchange plan is contingent on the successful sale at competitive bidding of the unexchanged portion, if any, of the new stock. If the whole plan should fail, it appeared that First Boston's compensation would be smaller than under Chicago proposals. It would receive $10,000 plus an allowance of 25 cents a share for dealers obtaining consents to the exchange. The Chicago terms called for $10,000 plus expenses and 35 cents a share for dealers.

MERGER PLAN FILED.

A plan to merge the United Coach company, New York, and Railway and Bus Associates, Wilmington, Del., into Associated Utilities corporation, has been filed with the securities and exchange commission.

Report Frazer Will Become Chairman of Graham-Paige

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Joseph W. Frazer, for many years widely known in the automobile industry, soon will become chairman of the board of the Graham-Paige Motors corporation, it was reported in Detroit yesterday. Graham-Paige was said to be designing a new line of automobiles for production after the war.

Joseph W. Frazer.

Frazer resigned last September as president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., and in February, 1944, acquired a controlling interest in and became president of the Warren City Manufacturing company, Warren, O. Prior to going with Willys-Overland, he held various executive positions with Chrysler corporation divisions.

Merger Plan Reported.

Negotiations were said to be under way in Detroit for a merger of the Graham-Paige and Warren City companies, with the Ohio company to become a subsidiary of the automobile company.

In the year or two just prior to the war Graham-Paige had almost ceased to be an automobile manufacturer. For some years before 1940 it had moderate sales, and for a time made some bodies and parts for the Hupp Motor Car company. The big demand expected for automobiles after the war is the inducement leading to plans to restore the Graham-Paige name to motor car production.

Both Engage in War Work.

Both Graham-Paige and the Warren City company have been engaged heavily in war production. Graham has been making amphibious tractors, precision parts for aviation engines, and torpedoes. Warren City has made landing barges and other war products.

Besides making automobiles, it was said that the merged companies would broaden production to include farm implements and other products. Graham-Paige formerly made farm tractors marketed thru Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Graham-Paige was operated at a loss in the years 1930 thru 1940, except for a small profit reported in 1933. Since 1941, when the company went into war production, it has shown a profit. The original company was incorporated in Michigan in 1909.

NATIONAL OIL PRODUCTS.

Please review National Oil Products company. What has been its earnings trend in recent years? — D. B.

Answer: The company and subsidiaries prepare chemical products derived from fish, animal, vegetable, and mineral oils for use in various manufacturing processes. Consuming outlets include textile, leather, paper, and other industries. Other National Oil products are soaps, vitamin concentrates, shampoos, and cosmetic creams.

In 1942 the company purchased from the alien property custodian the entire capital stocks of Rare Chemicals, Inc., and Boehringer corporation and merged the two companies under the name of the former. This subsidiary makes products related to the vitamin and hormone fields and certain industrial chemicals and solvents.

National Oil's consolidated sales and earnings before deducting income taxes and substantial research and development expenses have shown a distinct upward trend since 1938. Net income after all deductions, however, after increasing thru 1941, has since declined.

On the 215,790 outstanding shares of $4 par, per share earnings in recent years have been as follows: 1943, $2.20; 1942, $2.41; 1941, $4.03. In 1938, the last pre-war year, the profit was equal to $2.23 a share on 179,825 shares. In the first half of 1944 net income amounted to $1.15 a share, against 90 cents a year ago. Dividends have been paid each year since 1928, and from 1942 on payments have been at the annual rate of $1 a share.

Funded debt at the close of 1943 totaled $2,212,000. Net working capital was $4,402,650.

CONSOL. STEEL VOTES SPECIAL DIVIDEND OF $1

Consolidated Steel corporation yesterday voted a special dividend of $1 a share to bring payments on common stock this year to $1.75, equaling total disbursements for 1943.

Storkline Furniture corporation voted its usual extra dividend of 12½ cents a share with the regular quarterly dividend of 12½ cents.

Reynolds Metals company declared a 25 cent dividend which makes disbursements on common stock total 75 cents so far this year, the same as was paid out in all of 1943. Dividends announced yesterday:

GRAINS DECLINE ON OUTLOOK FOR IMPROVED CROPS

New prediction by a private company of a record crop of wheat and improvement in the prospects for corn and oats despite widespread drouth conditions yesterday pushed prices of grain futures downward on the Chicago Board of Trade. Brokers turned to the selling side as soon as the estimates were announced.

Rye broke more than 1 cent a bushel from the early high and closed at losses of ¼ to ⅝ cent. Oats lost ⅛ to ¼ cent, and barley, 1½ to 1¾ cents. Wheat trade was dull and ⅛ to ¼ cent lower.

A wheat crop of 1 billion 131 million bushels, or 122 million in excess of the previous record established in 1915 was predicted by C. M. Galvin, statistician with James E. Bennett & Co.

The corn crop was estimated at 3 billion 4 million bushels, up 24 million from the July 1 estimate and only 72 million bushels short of the 1943 harvest. Oats prediction of 1 billion 193 million bushels was 50 million in excess of last year.

WESTERN UNION SEEKS STOCK OF 6 LEASED FIRMS

New York, Aug. 4 (AP).—The Western Union Telegraph company today offered to exchange its 4 per cent debentures for stock in six leased companies.

The debentures would be exchanged on the following basis: for each share of stock of the Gold and Stock Telegraph company, $130 principal amount; Chicago and St. Paul Telegraph company, $60; Empire and Bay States Telegraph company, $76; International Ocean Telegraph company, $100; Southern and Atlantic Telegraph company, $21; and Pacific and Atlantic Telegraph company, $17.

The debentures will be part of an issue due Jan. 1, 1981, and altho the amount required in exchange for the outstanding stock of the various companies cannot be determined because of varying terms in the leases, the total was not expected to exceed 10 million dollars.

MEAT ANIMAL SUPPLY SHORT; PRICES STEADY

When offerings of all classes of meat animals were scant at the Chicago stock yards yesterday, clearance was quick at steady prices.

The office of price administration ceiling prices of $14.00 and $14.75 were paid for most hogs and the $14.35 average equaled the highest since October.

Best full loads of steers sold at $17.85, with $18.00 paid for odd head. Mostly steady prices were paid for heifers, beef cows, canners, cutters, calves, and bulls.

The best lambs available were natives that sold at $14.75. Top old ewes went at $5.25.

BOND CLOTHING PLANS STORE AT STATE, JACKSON

The Bond Clothing company is planning one of its largest store units in a new building to be erected at the northwest corner of State and Jackson sts. No details were available except that it will be a post-war project. The property, owned by the Otis estate, is improved with a five story building, fronting 125 feet on State and 100 feet on Jackson. Bond has five stores in the Chicago area, 59 other outlets in 48 cities, and three manufacturing plants in the east.
